Paulhus Arrested For Burglary and Collins for Larceny

City Police Claim Solution for $573 Kingsley Job, Theft Last Night at Eichler

Local police claim solution of a Dec. 7 burglary at Kingsley Fashions, Inc., 17 Cornell street, with the arrest yesterday of Antonio Paulhus, 40, of 614 Broadway, but they gained a faster solution to another reported theft when Detective William Krum opened a suitcast at police headquarters this morning.

Paulhus appeared before City Judge Raymond J. Mino today on third degree burglary charge and the case was put over to Jan. 8.

Meanwhile, Daniel Collins, 61, who gave an address on Wall street, this city, was sentenced to 90 days in the county jail on two charges, the second of which was petit larceny.

Collins was arrested at 8:15 p. m., by Officer Walter Van Steenburgh at the West Shore Railroad station on a public intoxication charge. He carried a suitcase when he was brought to headquarters and lodged in a detention cell pending arraignment today, police said.

Krum Takes Tip

Detective William Krum, when he arrived at police headquarters this morning took note of a blotter item at 7 p. m. which said Robert E. Langford of the Eichler Hotel reported the theft of two topcoats, a sharkskin suit, a black suitcake and fedora hat from his room at the hotel.

The detective opened the suitcase and said he found there the items described and Collins was booked on the petit larceny charge for which he was sentenced to 60 days in addition to the 30 days for public intoxication. Police said he denied today any knowledge of having the suitcase with him when he was arrested last night.

Paulhus, who was arrested at 2:45 p. m., yesterday by Detectives Clarence Brophy and William Krum on the burglary charge, according to county jail records, in November had completed a jail sentence of 36 days.

The arrest dates back to Oct. 11 and he was booked on a third degree burglary charge, but pleaded to unlawful entry, and the theft for which he was held was reported in the Ellenville area, the authorities said.

$573 Stolen at Factory

The theft at Kingsley Fashions was believed to have taken place on the night of Dec. 6 or the morning of Dec. 7, and it was reported that $573 was taken from a cash box.

Paulhus was questioned by police following his arrest on East Strand Tuesday night by Sgt. Lemuel Howard and Officer William Hanley on a disorderly conduct charge. Police said he had been in Maine for some time prior to his arrest here. He denies the charge against him, police said.

Attorney Guido J. Napoletano appeared for Paulhus in city court.

Three Youths Held In Theft Series; Await Grand Jury

All Are From Kingston; Gas Stations, Schools, Business Places Looted

The solution to a series of thefts in Kingston and Ulster county was claimed by state police following the arrest of three youths Wednesday afternoon.

Sergeant Arthur A. Reilly and Trooper H. E. Rasmussen of the state police B.C.I., after an investigation which was completed Wednesday, charged the trio with the theft of approximately $15 from the John Martino gasoline station on Route 9W in the town of Saugerties.

Reilly said the youths admitted, after questioning, a series of burglaries over the past three months, including two at public schools, one at a parochial school, one at Schwenk's Bakery and three at Esposito's dry cleaning establishment in this city.

Arraigned specifically on the Martino gas station charge, the three youths waived examination before Justice of the Peace Percy Bush and were ordered held for grand jury action, on a burglary, third degree, charge.

Names Are Given

They were booked at the Ulster county jail as Bennett Ricketson, 17, of 351 Broadway; Peter Gerald Suskie, 17, of 389 First avenue, and Donald Hendricks, 17, of 80 Chambers street, all of Kingston.

State police charged the three young men broke into the Martino station while they were hitchhiking from Saugerties to Kingston on December 9.

After their arrest, the three youths were questioned by troopers, and Reilly said they signed statements in which they ad-

Harrison Agency to Be Modeled After War Production Board of World War 2

Merger Planned

Unification of Agencies Expected by Summer Into CMP

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—Within 120 days William H. Harrison's new Defense Production Administration probably will be converted into a full-fledged, central industry-control agency modeled after the War Production Board of World War II.

A new federal building with 1,000,000 square feet of floor space, now being completed for the general accounting office, is being earmarked instead for Harrison's production headquarters and its expected staff of several thousand persons.

By May 1, said officials who cannot be named, it is planned the various agencies in the regular government departments which now look to Harrison for policy guidance will be merged into his agency.

In creating the D.P.A. yesterday, President Truman gave Harrison control and supervision over these agencies, but did not consolidate them physically.

Delay Is Avoided

It was learned no such step was taken because Harrison and Mobilization Director Charles E. Wilson felt an attempted merger during the "growing pains" stage of the agencies might delay the mobilization timetable by 60 days or more.

The agencies concerned are the busy, mushrooming National Production Authority in the Commerce Department, which handles priorities, allocations and civilian curtailments; four agencies in the Interior Department which govern minerals, petroleum, fuel and electric power; and the Defense Transport Administration, in the Interstate Commerce Commission.

To Be Drawn Closer

These gradually will be drawn closer together through Harrison's top-level supervision. By summer, it is expected, D.P.A. will be ready to merge them and undertake an all-industry "controlled materials plan" or "C.M.P." like that of the last war.

C.M.P. amounts to a complete government control of production, managed by parcelling out materials industry-by-industry and in many cases plant-by-plant. Three basic materials are so parcelled out—steel, aluminum and copper.

Wilson, installed as head of the Office of Defense Mobilization two weeks ago and author of the plan issued by the White House yesterday, emphasized that he does not plan to operate on "an economy of scarcity."

To Boost Supplies

Every effort will be made to boost the supplies of basic raw materials, so that military needs "can be fully satisfied with the

President Holds Hope War Can Be Averted in 1951

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—President Truman said today that United States forces will not bomb China without United Nations sanction.

He made this clear at a news conference in which he again expressed hope that a third world war can be avoided this year.

He also said, in response to questions as to what point would have to be reached before he would have to consult Congress on a declaration of war, that if the proper time arrived, the proper action would be taken.

He hopes the time will never come when he would have to ask for a declaration of war, he said, adding that the time has not come yet.

Willing to Negotiate

He said the action in Korea is proceeding under the direction of the United Nations and this country is always willing to negotiate.

But, as to the Russian reply to a proposal for a Big Four foreign ministers conference, he said he would stand by Secretary of State Achesons' statement yesterday.

Secretary Acheson said yesterday that further clarification is needed as to what the Russians are proposing. He said the Russian note appears to only restate the Soviet position that the ministers should meet to discuss German questions.

Not Formally at War

Mr. Truman emphasized that the United States is not formally at war, and he added we are carrying out our obligations to the United Nations.

At the Pentagon today, Secretary of Defense Marshall said the situation in Korea is developing "almost exactly as anticipated and that U.N. forces have been deployed to meet this anticipation."

Marshall also said that the U.N.

Bewildered Civilians, Lost Children Clog Military Routes

Tokyo, Jan. 4 (AP)—Red Chinese hordes seized abandoned, fire-gutted Seoul today and began a giant pincers movement aimed to shove United Nations forces into the Yellow sea at Inchon.

It was from an amphibious landing at Inchon that the Allies crushed most of the North Korean Red army in a vise last September. Seoul was retaken from the Reds then and the Korean war seemed in its final phases.

But the sheer weight of shrieking and seemingly endless Chinese Red manpower forced Allied troops to quit the ancient, devastated South Korean capital today.

A United Nations fleet stood off the west coast ready to evacuate U.N. forces south and west of Seoul.

Only Weary Remain

Only a frightened fragment of Seoul's normal 1,500,000 population remained in the ruined city. Among the bewildered civilians unable or unwilling to leave were lost children, wandering aimlessly. Dusty roads to the south were choked with military traffic and a pitiful mass of humanity.

AP Correspondent Stan Swinton reported the order to abandon Seoul and its defenses to the north came as a complete surprise to Allied frontline units. They had just been told to hold at any cost.

He said the order was issued at 4 p. m. (2 a. m., E.S.T.) Wednesday. A British brigade fought a successful delaying action while other units withdrew orderly. Then an American division took over the rearguard action.

Fight Through Trap

Swington said the British were ambushed on Seoul's outskirts about midnight, but fought through the trap. Helicopters brought out British wounded.

Carrier planes joined Fifth Air Force bombers and fighters in laying an explosive curtain to shield the withdrawals.

At 4:50 p. m. Thusday (2:50 a. m. E.S.T.), the U. S. Eighth Army announced Seoul had been successfully emptied of all U.N. troops.

General MacArthur's war summary called attention to the wide flanking movement in the middle of the peninsula. He reported an estimated 180,000 Chinese and Korean Reds were driving toward Wonju, 55 miles southeast of Seoul.

Wonju Strategic Point

Wonju's capture, he added, would place the Reds in a position to trap allied forces to the west and north. It also would menace the main route to Pusan, old beachhead supply port in southeast Korea. That's the route down which most of Seoul's population has fled.

If the road is cut, allied forces west of Seoul could be forced out of Korea at Inchon, U.N. naval forces was ready for such an emergency.

Warships pounded Reds rushing down the west coast toward Inchon. AP Correspondent Tom Stone, aboard the cruiser Rochester, said the bombardment began Wednesday night.

U. S. marine and naval planes roared off carriers to strike at the Reds around the clock. Far East air forces planes kept up a drumming 72-hour attack that headquarters estimated cost the Communists more than 5,500 troops and 4,000 buildings housing men and materiel.

Price, Wage Controls To Become Effective

Coalition Takes Hold in Congress

National Defense Laws Will Get Passage, However

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP) — A coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats was firmly entrenched in control of the 82nd Congress today, biding its time to smack down many of President Truman's "fair deal" proposals.

Its leaders promised clear sailing, however, for anything the coalition considers vital to national defense.

The tight hold the anti-Truman group has on the new House was demonstrated clearly on the opening day yesterday.

There was no comparable show of strength as the Senate held a routine 38-minute organization session. But the party division there—49 Democrats and 47 Republicans—plus the fact that administration Democrats had previously been unable to elect an all-out Truman supporter as a majority leader, indicated rough going for the President there.

A similar informal G.O.P.-Dixie coalition bottled up or rejected much of Mr. Truman's domestic program in the last Congress. Because of increased Republican strength in the new Congress, it promised to be even more potent in the next two critical years.

This was pointed up in the House when the coalition, by a lopsided 244 to 179 vote, again vested in the rules committee a virtual stranglehold on the legislative program.

Dominated by Eight

The rules committee is dominated by a coalition of four Republicans and four southern Democrats, the minority actually being four northern Democrats. It is the rules committee's function to decide when—if ever—bills are to be acted upon in the House.

To clip the group's wings, Democrats two years ago changed the House code to permit bypass-

President Reports Move to Be Done Wherever Needed

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—President Truman said today across-the-board price and wage controls are going to be put on whenever necessary and possible as soon as it can be done.

He told a news conference the administration is working with that in view.

Mr. Truman noted that it would require legislation to clamp controls on food, but said that as soon as it is physically possible wage-price controls will be set wherever it is legally possible.

Asked if he would seek to amend a 1950 law which restricts controls on food prices, Mr. Truman replied by suggesting that reporters wait for his "State of the Union" message next Monday.

Mr. Truman will deliver this message in person to a joint session of the Senate and House.

Under 1950 Law

The 1950 Defense Production Law, which gave Mr. Truman wage and price control powers, stipulates that price ceilings on farm products must not be lower than (a) the highest prices in the month before the war in Korea or (b) "parity" prices—whichever were higher. Parity is a standard set by federal farm laws and declared to be fair to both farmers and consumers. The parity price rises and falls with changes in the prices of things farmers buy.

Some labor unions have contended the restrictions on ceilings for farm prices make it impossible to have effective control of food prices.

Mr. Truman remarked during his discussion that rising costs of food had contributed to the rising cost of living.

The price-wage subject was brought up by a reporter who asked whether any action was in view on them.

The President replied that the administration is working on it constantly and that such controls would be put on where necessary, as fast as physical arrangements could be made to get it done.

Swift Approval Is Indicated for 1951 State Preparedness

Democrats Pledge Their Backing of Dewey Program; Some Fights Ahead

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 4 (AP) — Swift legislation approval appeared sure today for Governor Dewey's sweeping war-preparedness program and his Senate and Assembly chiefs eyed an early adjournment date.

With Democratic backing already assured for home-defense bills, the Republican legislative leaders pressed for fast action on Dewey measures introduced yesterday, only minutes after the governor had delivered his annual message at the lawmakers' opening session.

The Democratic state chairman, Paul E. Fitzpatrick, reiterated his party's support of Dewey's home-defense program last night. He telegraphed the governor his pledge of the "unqualified support of the Democratic party in every non-partisan measure that will aid the security of the nation and the safety and protection of the men, women and children of the state."

Farmers' Tax Date Is January 31

Deadline for farmers to file their income tax returns is January 31, 1951.

A farmer, according to the Bureau of Internal Revenue, is a person of whose gross income two-thirds or more comes from farming. Persons in that category must file by January 31. Persons who combine other jobs with farming, and make less than two-thirds of their gross income from the farm, include the farm income in their return but file on the date set for individuals or businessmen.

William H. Palmer, county agricultural agent, today advised farmers that it is "not too early" to start figuring up their receipts and expenses. "It takes time to add up the 125 or more expense items on most farms," he said.

Cornell Bulletin 809, containing helpful suggestions on filing federal income tax returns, is available without charge at the Farm Bureau office, 74 John street.

Senate Probers Say Hanley Debt Payment Is Denied

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—Senate investigators say an Iowa manufacturer to whom former Lt. Gov. Joe R. Hanley of New York purportedly paid a $150,000 debt denies any knowledge of the transaction.

Furthermore, the Senate probers said, they have been unable to find any record of an Iowa bank failure which Hanley, according to some press reports, has said was the cause of his debts. In Albany, Hanley wouldn't discuss the report.

This was announced yesterday by Senator Gillette (D.-Iowa), chairman of the Senate Elections Subcommittee. Hanley's personal finances became the heart of an election time sensation last year. Hanley wrote to former Rep. Kingsland Macy, New York Republican, that he had stepped aside as candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination to run for the Senate after being promised that, if he failed in his Senate attempt, he would get a state job which would allow him to clear up his debts.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey was renominated and subsequently reelected while Hanley lost to Senator Lehman (D.-Lib.-N.Y.). Later, Hanley was appointed to the $16,000 a year post of special counsel to the New York State Division of Veterans Affairs.

Gillette said his committee, which looks into reports of election irregularities affecting the Senate, received a complaint and began an investigation of Hanley's finances.

Gillette said the subcommittee authorized him to make an interim report on the investigation because of published reports about it.

He said the committee had a photographic copy of a canceled note, made out by Hanley and Mrs. Joe R. Hanley to C. C. Hagerman, of Muscatine, Iowa, for

U.S., Britain, France to Send Note to Russia on Proposal

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—U. S., Britain and France will send Russia a new note in a few days asking clarification of Moscow's latest proposal for a Big Four meeting. Some officials here consider Moscow's proposals deliberately confusing.

While drafting the new note, the western powers are pressing forward with plans for creation of a western European defense army, including German units. Hope of disrupting these plans is generally regarded in Washington as the major reason for Russia's talking about a four power conference now.

Secretary of State Acheson and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, recently named allied commander in Europe, arranged to meet today (9:45 a. m., EST) for a discussion of the task which awaits Eisenhower, the organization of the European force within the framework of the North Atlantic Treaty.

Responsible officials said there is no intention in this or any other important western capital to permit Soviet diplomatic manuevers to divert or slow down the defense preparations. On the contrary, Eisenhower's talk with top Washington authorities and his impending trip to Europe are expected to have the opposite effect.

The three western powers, nevertheless, have agreed not to close any door to negotiations with Russia which provides a real chance of easing world tension. Out of this basic attitude, and despite deep skepticism about Russia's intentions, rose the plan to send Moscow another note.

That this will ask clarification of Russia's position on a Big Four meeting was indicated by Acheson at a news conference yesterday and later confirmed by other officials. A final draft is expected to be worked out by Washington, London and Paris late this week or early next week.

This was pointed up in the House when the coalition, by a lopsided 244 to 179 vote, again vested in the rules committee a virtual stranglehold on the legislative program.

Dominated by Eight

The rules committee is dominated by a coalition of four Republicans and four southern Democrats, the minority actually being four northern Democrats. It is the rules committee's function to decide when—if ever—bills are to be acted upon in the House.

To clip the group's wings, Democrats two years ago changed the House code to permit bypass-

President Reports Move to Be Done Wherever Needed

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—President Truman said today across-the-board price and wage controls are going to be put on whenever necessary and possible as soon as it can be done.

He told a news conference the administration is working with that in view.

Mr. Truman noted that it would require legislation to clamp controls on food, but said that as soon as it is physically possible wage-price controls will be set wherever it is legally possible.

Asked if he would seek to amend a 1950 law which restricts controls on food prices, Mr. Truman replied by suggesting that reporters wait for his "State of the Union" message next Monday.

Mr. Truman will deliver this message in person to a joint session of the Senate and House.

Under 1950 Law

The 1950 Defense Production Law, which gave Mr. Truman wage and price control powers, stipulates that price ceilings on farm products must not be lower than (a) the highest prices in the month before the war in Korea or (b) "parity" prices—whichever were higher. Parity is a standard set by federal farm laws and declared to be fair to both farmers and consumers. The parity price rises and falls with changes in the prices of things farmers buy.

Some labor unions have contended the restrictions on ceilings for farm prices make it impossible to have effective control of food prices.

Mr. Truman remarked during his discussion that rising costs of food had contributed to the rising cost of living.

The price-wage subject was brought up by a reporter who asked whether any action was in view on them.

The President replied that the administration is working on it constantly and that such controls would be put on where necessary, as fast as physical arrangements could be made to get it done.

Swift Approval Is Indicated for 1951 State Preparedness

Democrats Pledge Their Backing of Dewey Program; Some Fights Ahead

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 4 (AP) — Swift legislation approval appeared sure today for Governor Dewey's sweeping war-preparedness program and his Senate and Assembly chiefs eyed an early adjournment date.

With Democratic backing already assured for home-defense bills, the Republican legislative leaders pressed for fast action on Dewey measures introduced yesterday, only minutes after the governor had delivered his annual message at the lawmakers' opening session.

The Democratic state chairman, Paul E. Fitzpatrick, reiterated his party's support of Dewey's home-defense program last night. He telegraphed the governor his pledge of the "unqualified support of the Democratic party in every non-partisan measure that will aid the security of the nation and the safety and protection of the men, women and children of the state."

To Introduce Others

Farmers' Tax Date Is January 31

Deadline for farmers to file their income tax returns is January 31, 1951.

A farmer, according to the Bureau of Internal Revenue, is a person of whose gross income two-thirds or more comes from farming. Persons in that category must file by January 31. Persons who combine other jobs with farming, and make less than two-thirds of their gross income from the farm, include the farm income in their return but file on the date set for individuals or businessmen.

William H. Palmer, county agricultural agent, today advised farmers that it is "not too early" to start figuring up their receipts and expenses. "It takes time to add up the 125 or more expense items on most farms," he said.

Cornell Bulletin 809, containing helpful suggestions on filing federal income tax returns, is available without charge at the Farm Bureau office, 74 John street.

Senate Probers Say Hanley Debt Payment Is Denied

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—Senate investigators say an Iowa manufacturer to whom former Lt. Gov. Joe R. Hanley of New York purportedly paid a $150,000 debt denies any knowledge of the transaction.

Furthermore, the Senate probers said, they have been unable to find any record of an Iowa bank failure which Hanley, according to some press reports, has said was the cause of his debts. In Albany, Hanley wouldn't discuss the report.

This was announced yesterday by Senator Gillette (D.-Iowa), chairman of the Senate Elections Subcommittee. Hanley's personal finances became the heart of an election time sensation last year. Hanley wrote to former Rep. Kingsland Macy, New York Republican, that he had stepped aside as candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination to run for the Senate after being promised that, if he failed in his Senate attempt, he would get a state job which would allow him to clear up his debts.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey was renominated and subsequently re-elected while Hanley lost to Senator Lehman (D.-Lib.-N.Y.). Later, Hanley was appointed to the $16,000 a year post of special counsel to the New York State Division of Veterans Affairs.

Gillette said his committee, which looks into reports of election irregularities affecting the Senate, received a complaint and began an investigation of Hanley's finances.

Gillette said the subcommittee authorized him to make an interim report on the investigation because of published reports about it.

He said the committee had a photographic copy of a canceled note, made out by Hanley and Mrs. Joe R. Hanley to C. C. Hagerman, of Muscatine, Iowa, for

U.S., Britain, France to Send Note to Russia on Proposal

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—U. S., Britain and France will send Russia a new note in a few days asking clarification of Moscow's latest proposal for a Big Four meeting. Some officials here consider Moscow's proposals deliberately confusing.

While drafting the new note, the western powers are pressing forward with plans for creation of a western European defense army, including German units. Hope of disrupting these plans is generally regarded in Washington as the major reason for Russia's talking about a four power conference now.

Secretary of State Acheson and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, recently named allied commander in Europe, arranged to meet today (9:45 a. m., EST) for a discussion of the task which awaits Eisenhower, the organization of the European force within the framework of the North Atlantic Treaty.

Responsible officials said there is no intention in this or any other important western capital to permit Soviet diplomatic maneuvers to divert or slow down the defense preparations. On the contrary, Eisenhower's talk with top Washington authorities and his impending trip to Europe are expected to have the opposite effect.

The three western powers, nevertheless, have agreed not to close any door to negotiations with Russia which provides a real chance of easing world tension. Out of this basic attitude, and despite deep skepticism about Russia's intentions, rose the plan to send Moscow another note.

That this will ask clarification of Russia's position on a Big Four meeting was indicated by Acheson at a news conference yesterday and later confirmed by other officials. A final draft is expected to be worked out by Washington, London and Paris late this week or early next week.

102 Persons Die In Peruvian Slide

Lima, Peru, Jan. 4 (AP) — A total of 102 persons today were reported killed in a dynamite-started Andes mountain avalanche near the coastal town of Chimbote.

Confirmed reports said the bodies of 80 persons had been recovered from the tomb of rocks and mud on Condor Hill, with 71 persons known injured.

The correspondent of the newspaper El Comercio said later, the death toll had reached 102.

Disaster crews still were digging for 40 persons listed as missing.

It was the second catastrophe to strike the rich coal mining area in two and-a-half months. A natural avalanche killed 200 persons and did tremendous property damage in the same sector last Oct. 20.

Aid Is Rushed

The government today rushed doctors, nurses, and medical supplies from nearby cities .Chimbote is about 250 miles north of Lima, the Peruvian capital.

According to latest information, Peruvian Santa River Corporation officials, engaged in building a hydroelectric plant, decided yesterday to blow up part of Condor Hill. The debris was to be used to fill a railway embankment wrecked by last October's rock slide.

Five dynamite charges were planted. Four went off, and after a 10-minute wait, assuming the fifth had failed, work crews went in. It was then that the fifth charge exploded, burying the men in tons of earth and rock.

Supreme Court Is Recessed to Jan. 8

No cases were ready for trial in Supreme court Wednesday afternoon and after making up a day calendar, Justice Kenneth MacAffer recessed the court until Monday at 11 o'clock. At that time an extra panel of 24 jurors will be present. No cases were ready for today and on Friday special term will be held here by Justice Elsworth.

On the call Wednesday afternoon No. 51, Thomas Brideau against Bessie Spylios, a money damage action, was announced settled. Manuel Dittenheimer for plaintiff and Cook & Cook for defendant.

In making up the day calendar Justice MacAffer announced that any case placed on the day calendar must be disposed of when reached and he said if the case was not ready when reached it would be put over the term and not called again.

Motions were made in two cases for preference. A preference was granted in No. 290, Fred Brown against Charles Townsend, negligence. N. LeVan Haver for plaintiff moved for preference on the grounds the plaintiff had been on relief since July 1950 after sustaining injuries, and also on the grounds the defendant, now 19 was liable to be called to military service. Cook & Cook appeared for defendant and did not oppose the application. No. 170, William H. Johnson against Edward Seymour was also moved for preference under the rule. Kirtland F. Snyder appears as attorney of record for plaintiff and Francis Martocci for defendant. The action is one to set aside general release.

Reserves Decision

Justice MacAffer reserved decision on a motion for preference in a negligence action brought by Otto Thoden and another against Kingston Transfer Company, Inc., an action growing out of loss of household goods. Joseph Avis appeared for plaintiff and N. LeVan Haver for defendant.

Heading the day calendar for Monday is a contract action brought by Samuel E. Mott and 18 other plaintiffs against Joseph Matthews, Jr., and another. This action arises over a dispute as to whether tomato seeds sold by the G.L.F. to Matthews, who later sold the plants to growers, were true as to variety. In the present action Matthews, who grew the plants in his greenhouse from the seed supplied, is named as a third party defendant. However, Matthews in a prior action brought against the G.L.F. recovered a verdict of $1,800 when it was shown the seed had not been as represented. Cook & Cook appear for the plaintiffs in the present action. Cashin & Ewig and Michael Nardone appear for the defendants. While the case heads the day calendar for Monday, it was stated today by counsel in the case that a settlement of the dispute had been arranged and it would be announced Monday that an adjustment had been reached.

$39,032 Collected In Parking Meters

A total of $3,050 collected from the city's parking meters in December brought the 1950 total to $39,032, the city treasurer's office reported today.

The 1950 total is about $1,100 less than the 1949 total, apparently due to the removing of many meters from the Broadway crossing project area. The December total this year was $250 under that of November.

No total has been compiled on the amounts taken in on parking meter advertising, but it was revealed at the recent city budget hearing, that on the basis of approximately four months during which the advertising plan has been in effect, that it amounts to about $150 a month to date.

Three Arrested On Kidnap Charge

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Jan. 4 (AP)—C. Fred Close, Dutchess county sheriff, said that three persons were arrested last night at Rolla, Mo., on charges of kidnaping their son and grandson from Dutchess county.

He named the three as Wilford B. Needs, 26, of Wappingers Falls, N. Y.; his divorced wife, Joan Robinson Needs, 25, of Poughkeepsie, and her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Robinson, 55, of Long Beach, Calif.

Close said that with them when they were picked up by the Missouri Highway Patrol on Route 66 at Rolla, was six-year-old Wilford B. Needs, Jr.

The sheriff told this story of events leading to the arrest:

A decree signed by Supreme Court Justice James Bailey in Poughkeepsie and filed last July 5 awarded a divorce to Wilford Needs. Custody of the boy was awarded to Needs' stepfather and mother George A. Turkel and Stephanie Turkel, operators of the widely known roadhouse, "Wendover Farms," at Wappingers Falls. Mrs. Robinson also was granted custody of the boy from July 1 to Aug. 31, each year, but was forbidden to take the child out of the state.

Close said that Dec. 31 Mrs. Robinson went to Wendover Farms and was allowed to have the child for the day. When she failed to return him that night, the sheriff said, Mr. and Mrs. Turkel came to Poughkeepsie and found Mrs. Robinson, Needs and his divorced wife had left.

The Turkels obtained a warrant charging all three with kidnaping from County Judge John R. Schwartz, and Sheriff Close sent out an alarm on the route he thought they would take west.

1950 Rainfall Is 39.55 Inches

The city engineer's office today reported the 1950 total rainfall at 39.55 inches.

This is slightly above the 15-year average of 38.61 inches and considerably above the 1949 total of 32.40 inches.

The snowfall to date this winter since Dec. 21, 1950 was approximately 15¼ inches. For a similar period a year ago it was only 9½ inches; but the latter part of the winter made up for the light start.

Three Arrested On Kidnap Charge

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Jan. 4 (AP)—C. Fred Close, Dutchess county sheriff, said that three persons were arrested last night at Rolla, Mo., on charges of kidnaping their son and grandson from Dutchess county.

He named the three as Wilford B. Needs, 26, of Wappingers Falls, N. Y.; his divorced wife, Joan Robinson Needs, 25, of Poughkeepsie, and her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Robinson, 55, of Long Beach, Calif.

Close said that with them when they were picked up by the Missouri Highway Patrol on Route 66 at Rolla, was six-year-old Wilford B. Needs, Jr.

The sheriff told this story of events leading to the arrest:

A decree signed by Supreme Court Justice James Bailey in Poughkeepsie and filed last July 5 awarded a divorce to Wilford Needs. Custody of the boy was awarded to Needs' stepfather and mother George A. Turkel and Stephanie Turkel, operators of the widely known roadhouse, "Wendover Farms," at Wappingers Falls. Mrs. Robinson also was granted custody of the boy from July 1 to Aug. 31, each year, but was forbidden to take the child out of the state.

Close said that Dec. 31 Mrs. Robinson went to Wendover Farms and was allowed to have the child for the day. When she failed to return him that night, the sheriff said, Mr. and Mrs. Turkel came to Poughkeepsie and found Mrs. Robinson, Needs and his divorced wife had left.

The Turkels obtained a warrant charging all three with kidnaping from County Judge John R. Schwartz, and Sheriff Close sent out an alarm on the route he thought they would take west.

1950 Rainfall Is 39.55 Inches

The city engineer's office today reported the 1950 total rainfall at 39.55 inches.

This is slightly above the 15-year average of 38.61 inches and considerably above the 1949 total of 32.40 inches.

The snowfall to date this winter since Dec. 21, 1950 was approximately 15¼ inches. For a similar period a year ago it was only 9½ inches; but the latter part of the winter made up for the light start.

Births

The city registrar recently recorded the following births:

Dec. 21—Marjorie Jayne to Mr. and Mrs. Robin Leroy Lyke, Lomontville.

Dec. 25—Darlene Sylvia to Mr. and Mrs. Jules Aloysius Albertini, 81 Lucas avenue; Katherine Joyce to Mr. and Mrs. Peter Shultis, Willow, and Dorothy Carol to Mr. and Mrs. John McCord, Wallkill.

Dec. 27—Vincent Michael to Dr. and Mrs. Paul Amatrano, 282 Broadway, and Sharon Ann to Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Eckert, Clintondale.

Dec. 28—Vincent Francis, Jr., to Mr. and Mrs. V. F. Stock, 79 German street, and Mary Ann to Dr. and Mrs. Anthony Lawrence Mauceri, 125 Washington avenue.

Dec. 30—William Gregory to Mr. and Mrs. William Ferris Haver, 317 Washington avenue; Michale Cathy to Mr. and Mrs. Michael Joseph Lawless, 56 Hinsdale avenue; Brian to Mr. and Mrs. Peter Minasian, 193 Hurley avenue, and Nora to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Van Vliet, Jr., Sleightsburg.

Dec. 31—Tina Mary to Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Anthony Kogut, town of Saugerties, and Stephen Bier to Dr. and Mrs. Edmund Gellert, Kerhonkson.

Indian Water-Clock

A large vessel was filled with water, and a smaller vessel with a hole in the bottom, was set on the surface. When the smaller vessel sank, a time-boy lifted it out, emptied it, struck it loudly as a time signal, and set it on the water again.

Would Raise Dewey

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 4 (AP)—Doubling the pay of New York's governor and lieutenant governor was proposed in the Legislature yesterday. Senator Pliny W. Williamson, Westchester Republican, introduced constitutional amendments to increase the governor's salary from $25,000 to $50,000 and the lieutenant governor's from $10,000 to $20,000. Williamson said the proposals were introduced without the knowledge of either Governor Dewey or Lt. Gov. Frank C. Moore.

Would Raise Dewey

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 4 (AP)—Doubling the pay of New York's governor and lieutenant governor was proposed in the Legislature yesterday. Senator Pliny W. Williamson, Westchester Republican, introduced constitutional amendments to increase the governor's salary from $25,000 to $50,000 and the lieutenant governor's from $10,000 to $20,000. Williamson said the proposals were introduced without the knowledge of either Governor Dewey or Lt. Gov. Frank C. Moore.

SABOTAGE COULD BE STRONG

It's taken for granted that in the event of war, Communists and Red sympathizers in Europe and America would commit countless damaging acts of sabotage against us.

We were fortunate in World War II that the vigilance of the FBI, combined with the Nazis' apparent inability to recruit saboteurs on a broad scale, eliminated this behind-the-front warfare. No one imagines we'd be so lucky again.

It goes without saying that we must prepare to combat sabotage as we never have before. The preparation isn't something that can be put off. Defense contracts are being let steadily. The men who work on them must be tightly screened, and every safeguard must be erected to keep the affected plants free of trouble.

Some responsible people are suggesting that we ought to go much further and get into the sabotage business ourselves. Those who urge it admit at the start that it's a sordid, dirty sort of game; but they believe that playing it would be of vital assistance to us in a conflict with the Soviet Union.

In the western European nations which might be overrun in a Russian drive to the sea, thousands and thousands of stout-hearted lovers of liberty would serve their cause at risk of their lives behind enemy lines.

Any build-up of European defenses might be viewed as incomplete if it did not make plans to utilize the disruptive force these people could bring to bear in a Europe under Russian heel.

The advocates of an Allied sabotage program argue, too, that there are many brave recruits for this dangerous duty in countries already behind the Iron Curtain. Freedom is not a dead issue to people in Hungary, Romania, Czechoslovakia, Poland and Bulgaria.

These people await the day when they shall be liberated. Though they dare not speak out, they are with us. Many would do anything asked of them to advance the rebirth of freedom in their lands. They need only to be told what sort of future would really be in store for them in a world rid of Russian domination. Men who have hope will die, if they must, trying to realize it.

There are probably even people in Russia itself who would be willing to join the army of saboteurs. The Ukrainians are notoriously a rebellious group, and others we hear little of might seize any fair chance to do their ruthless masters in. The problem of reaching these people and helping to organize and guide them is obviously more difficult than elsewhere.

Whether we should undertake to embark on an intensive sabotage program is a question for study in the highest levels of government. And it will no doubt be judged in the light of the fact that our prospective enemy, the Soviet Union, is sure to throw away the rule book and fight foul if it comes to a test.

One thing many neighbors have in common is the conviction that the kids next door are the worst in the block. It works in reverse, too.

BLIND BUT INDEPENDENT

Hopelessness and helplessness are usually the first reactions of those whom blindness strikes. It has been found that from seven to ten years usually elapses between the onset of the condition and the victim's contact with agencies that can help him toward a new and more normal way of life.

In San Francisco a new agency is being set up with the idea of providing useful work for these afflicted people. "Opportunities for the Blind" is putting on an aggressive campaign involving a loan fund from which employable blind persons may borrow funds for going into business or for fitting themselves for jobs. Seven hundred and fourteen suitable business and job opportunities have been mapped out.

The modern tendency in dealing with all kinds of handicapped persons is away from custodial care, which saps the vitality of the beneficiary, and toward the sturdy self-reliance which results from putting forth their best efforts in some line of useful work.

For most people the biggest Christmas present would be the announcement that the stores were going to forgive all bills.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

THE BLAME IS FIXED

On July 8, an estimated 116,000 regular Chinese Communist troops were stationed in Manchuria. By August 8, this number had been increased to 217,000; by August 30, to 246,000. After September 21, Lin Piao's army, arriving from South China, and with other contingents, brought the Chinese Communist troops in Manchuria up to 850,000.

These dates are important because, if you will recall, throughout this period the American people were led to believe that somehow we were going to have a deal with Mao Tze-tung, that British diplomacy would help win Mao away from Russia, and all that was needed was to give Soviet China a seat in the United Nations. Meanwhile they were building up this huge force to fight us.

What made it easy for the Chinese Communists was the immobilization of the Nationalists, their acceding to President Truman's instruction for Chiang Kai-shek to refrain from any military action against Soviet China. This assurance made it possible for Lin Piao's army to return to Manchuria. Lin Piao's army was reinforced by other Chinese Communist troops not usually associated with him.

When the build-up reached 10 corps of three divisions each, namely the 55th, 57th, 41st, 46th, 38th, 39th, 40th, 42nd, 56th and 54th along the Yalu, with other unidentified divisions along the Tumen, the situation became serious. The potential for a large invasion was present.

The United Nations forces were facing a new force with which only the highest government levels could have contact. When these 30 divisions and the waves of divisions behind them began to move like a horde across the Yalu into Korea, MacArthur, as a military commander, was forced, by his instructions, to stand still until they were out of Manchuria. He could use no weapons at his disposal to keep on the other side of the Yalu. He could only fight them after they had crossed from Manchuria into Korea. Never had a commander faced a more harassing situation.

From all this the conclusion is inevitable that the Chinese Communists had not had enough troops in Manchuria in June and July to intervene in the Korean situation; that they were able to build up their forces because they were assured by the United States, directly, indirectly or by inference, that Nationalist China would remain immobilized by the U. S. 7th Fleet and by an agreement between Chiang Kai-shek and President Truman.

Once Soviet China was convinced that this would hold, it moved Lin Piao's army from South China to Manchuria, added other units to it, thus producing an overwhelming force against General MacArthur.

Throughout this period, Chiang Kai-shek offered his services either for participation in Korea or for guerrilla warfare. This, Washington rejected on the ground that it would bring Soviet China into the war. After Soviet China took over the war, the United States continued to reject Chiang's services, although his participation would have forced Soviet China to withdraw troops from Manchuria for service in South China.

It is almost impossible to explain this policy by political or historical logic. It makes no sense. Yet that is precisely what our policy is and has been up to this moment.

And that is what General MacArthur has been up against. As a commander in the field, he has not been permitted to avail himself of intelligence, of reconnaissance by air, of the use of a willing ally whose nearly a million troops are ready for action, having been fighting Chinese Communists since 1927.

In fact, this story adds up to our weakening our own forces while strengthening the enemy and doing it all in diplomatic maneuvers at the highest levels, in direct opposition to General Douglas MacArthur's judgment on the spot. It would not be unwise for a committee of the Senate to investigate this Korean war that the people may know the facts.

The time has come for Americans to know the facts. As the "Hongkong Standard" said:

"His critics who have for years indulged in the fond dream of achieving peace at the expense of others have no right to complain. If any one has the right to complain, it is General MacArthur. He did not bring on the war; only he has to fight it—often with his hands tied."

EMOTIONS CAN RAISE BLOOD PRESSURE

Physicians examining recruits for the armed services or candidates for insurance recognize that the individual is nervous not only because of the army or insurance but because he wants to know if his heart and blood pressure are normal, for his own or his family's sake. For this reason it is customary for the examiner to try to reassure him about heart and blood pressure and that perhaps if he lies down and reads a paper for a few minutes, he will be in a more normal condition for examination.

In an article, "Emotions and Blood Pressure," in the Journal of the American Medical Association, Dr. Robert Sterling Palmer, Hypertension Clinic, Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston, states that variations of 8 to 10 mm. of mercury, and often of 18 to 20 have long been noted in the normal resting systolic blood pressure. The fact that there can be this much variation in the blood pressure in the same individual under the same conditions—lying quietly with no digestion of food taking place—shows that the mind or the emotions must be causing the rise in blood pressure.

"Anger, fear, and deception cause rises in the normal blood pressure and these rises or curves, considered characteristic of deception, have been presented and suggested for detection of crime," says Dr. Palmer. A 12 mm. rise can occur from just general excitement.

In this clinic, bringing on mental stress in the patient has caused rises of 10 to 15 mm. in young male subjects with vasomotor or emotional instability, in some patients with stomach disorders and in patients with nervous fatigue or overactive thyroid gland.

Another important point discovered was that in the first visit of the patient to the physician, the blood pressure was higher by many points than the later visits. The initial patient-doctor situation seems to exercise a more potent response in the blood pressure.

There are cases of individuals who have carried high blood pressure for a number of years whose pressure came down to normal after a visit to a psychiatrist and remained normal for three years afterward.

Dr. Palmer reports 100 cases tested in the Hypertension Clinic in which the emotional disturbances of the individual raised the blood pressure many points.

If we wish to keep our blood pressure within normal limits for the actual condition of our blood vessels, calmness of spirit is necessary.

Elementary, My Dear Watson

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—It looks as if the "man of letters" in the White House is going to make a lot of money for the recipients of those letters.

Out in Denver, Dr. Neal Bishop, who suggested to Mr. Truman that John L. Lewis be appointed ambassador to Russia, is going to auction off his Trumanesque reply for the benefit of the Denver Community Chest.

The reply, which stated that he, Truman, would not even appoint John L. as dogcatcher, should bring a large amount of money—though Bishop has generously given the letter to the Community Chest and they will make the profit.

Meanwhile, in Washington, Paul Hume, the Washington Post music critic, has turned down various offers for his letter regarding Margaret Truman's singing. One offer is reputed in five figures.

If Mr. Hume ever does decide to sell this coveted letter, it can make him much more dough than he realizes, for he will only have to pay a capital gains tax of 25 per cent on the sale. In other words, the Truman letter is not earned income, but a special personal gift from the President of the United States. A gift is not taxable until it is sold, and as long as Mr. Hume keeps the letter more than six months, his tax will be only 25 per cent.

If treasury agents argue about this, Mr. Hume can tell them quite truthfully that his letter is something which happens only once in a lifetime, that it was an unsolicited gift from the President, and that if any gift tax is paid it should come out of Harry Truman's pocket, not his.

Other people who got indignant letters from the President can also cash in on this nice low-bracket tax. In brief, the President has been awfully kind to Mr. Hume, to Bernie Baruch, to Dr. Bishop, to Jimmie Byrnes and others. The only one he has slighted is me. Because when he hurled the "servant of brotherhood" charge in my direction, he did it orally. He did not write a letter.

Someday, if I can get up nerve enough, I am going to ask Mr. Truman to put it in writing, so I can have something either to hand down to my children or else sell under a capital gains tax. Having been the first to arouse public Presidential ire, I think the President owes it to me to put it in writing.

Note—Anyone who wants to bid on the Truman letter black-balling John L. Lewis as dogcatcher can wire the Denver Press Club.

New Order of Draft

Selective Service Director Lewis Hershey is recommending the following changes in the draft law to the new session of Congress:

1. That the draft age be lowered from 19 to 18 years, with the maximum age limit kept at 25.

2. That deferment of enlistees in the organized reserves and the National Guard be stopped.

3. That draft eligibles between 18 and 25 be taken in the following order: First, all unmarried college students except the top third in their classes; second, married non-vets without children; third, unmarried veterans; last, non-vets with children.

Increased Living Cost

One thing that has stumped price czars Alan Valentine and Mike Di Salle is that they cannot impose over-all price controls on certain farm products until the cost of living goes up even more.

This is because the farm bloc in Congress inserted a provision in the price control bill whereby certain farm prices cannot be controlled at a point under parity or under the price of last May and June.

Because of this, the Agriculture Department has advised the big bakers and millers that they face no early price control. Bread will have to increase one or two cents a loaf to permit price controls, Ralph Trigg, the department's production and marketing boss, privately informed bakers and millers last week.

The Agriculture Department has also informed Economic Stabilizer Valentine that over-all controls on farm products would raise the nation's food bill from 5 to 10 per cent because of the number of commodities now below parity prices.

Meat Price Ceilings

Of the foods that will be controlled, beef, lamb and veal top the list. All are above parity. Price Administrator DiSalle will have a meeting with Chicago meat-packers and western cattlemen this month and expects to put a price ceiling on meat in February. It will take at least that time for him to get organized.

Next to meat, products most likely to be controlled include cotton, raisins, rice, flue-cured tobacco, and possibly cottonseed oil, all of which are above parity. Valentine and DiSalle are hesitant about controlling wool, also above parity, for fear of discouraging domestic production of this critically short war essential.

Publicly, the Agriculture Department has taken an aloof position on farm price ceilings, but privately it has submitted the following list of farm products for possible control:

Wool, about 29 per cent above parity; cotton, 27 per cent above; sheep, 10 per cent above; beef cattle, 5 per cent above; rice, 2 per cent above; tobacco, 2 per cent above; and lamb, 1 per cent above.

The list also shows these items to be below parity: Hogs, 10 per cent; peanuts, 12 per cent; milk for processing, 12 per cent; soy beans, 12 per cent; butter fat, 13 per cent; eggs, 14 per cent; wheat, 15 per cent; edible dry beans, 16 per cent; corn, 18 per cent; chickens, 25 per cent; oats, 18 per cent; potatoes, 51 per cent; and oranges, 60 per cent.

Silver Bullets

A plan to use "silver bullets," the ancient and still most effective weapon in China, is being carefully studied by U. S. strategists.

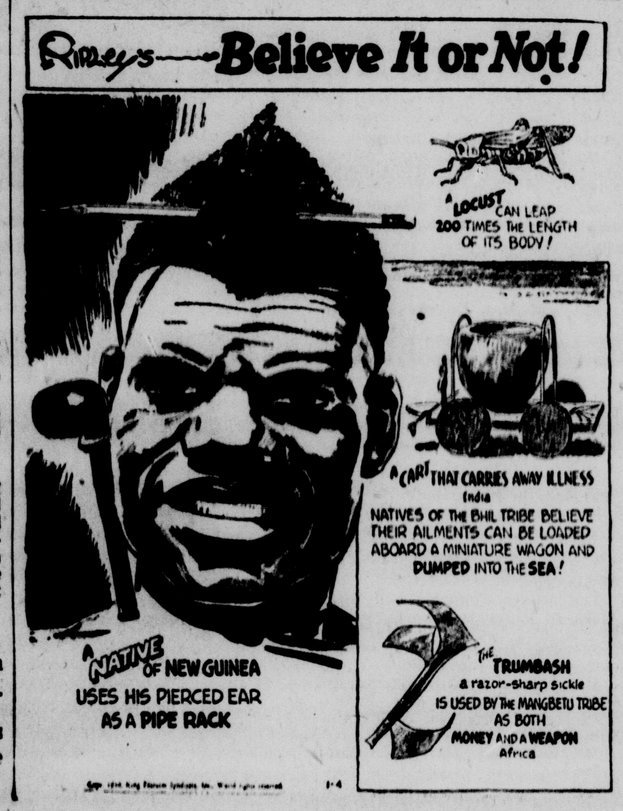

One specific proposal offers hard cash and a guarantee of food to Chinese who surrender to United Nations forces in Korea. A soldier with rifle or pistol would get $10 plus six months food rations. A soldier surrendering a mortar would get one ounce of gold, and so on up to five gold bars (10 ounces) to be given for the surrendering of a plane or a unit commander surrendering with his troops.

Intelligence reports from the front reveal that only a fraction of the Chinese troops fighting in Korea are hard-bitten Communists not susceptible to silver bullets.

Democrats Made Wise Decision in Not Obstructing Seating of Sen. Butler of Maryland

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 4—The Democrats in the Senate wisely decided not to prevent Senator Butler, Republican of Maryland, from taking his seat because of campaign literature used in the Maryland senatorial contest last November. For to do so would have merely emphasized the peculiar belief of certain persons in this country that the electorate is so dumb that it must be protected by law or regulation from reading something that might be misunderstood as prejudicial.

It appears that a photograph was circulated in the Tydings-Butler campaign which showed the Democratic candidate talking with a Communist leader, and, though the photo was plainly labeled "composite," the argument is made that many voters didn't know the meaning of the word "composite" and hence were misled into voting for the Republican nominee—as if one photo swings an election nowadays.

Undoubtedly the use of such a fake photograph is to be condemned because it is unfair but, if punishment is to be meted out for doing such things, then what is to be said about the use of political cartoons which take all sorts of liberties with men's faces and put individuals in the position of doing far more unconscionable things than shaking hands with a Communist? Cartoons are a form of "composite" picture, and it can be argued that maybe there are some voters who think that because a cartoon appears in a reputable newspaper the message of the cartoon is a fact.

Plainly no law could be written to bar composite photos from use in a campaign without also barring political cartoons. And if controversial pictures and drawings are to be barred, then what about words? The famous Tydings report used the word "fraud" with reference to some of the charges investigated. This was disputed. Candidates sometimes use even harsher words in describing each other's qualifications for office. Shall a man who wins a Senate seat be subject to an investigation of words used in a campaign before he is admitted to the post to which he is elected? Or, even if he is admitted, is his seat to be left open to question by an investigating committee because of the nature of his campaign? Who is to be the judge of standards—a partisan majority in Congress?

The Senate has upon occasion refused to permit an elected senator to hold his seat when too much money has been spent in his behalf. The implication was that the election resulted from a purchase of votes. It is to be assumed that, if there were a similar contest today, the outcome would hinge not on how much money was spent but what it was spent for.

Words, of course, can be deceptive and prejudicial. In a country where freedom of speech is supposed to be one of the basic guarantees of the constitution itself, laws or regulations abridging such freedom cannot be valid unless they touch on actual fraud or libel or obscenity. These limitations have been accepted by the Supreme Court but at the same time the court has allowed some very scurrilous and even profane language to be used in political warfare without holding it to be subject to legal redress. The definition to which the Supreme Court adheres is the one given by the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, who defined it as "freedom for the thought we hate."

Curiously enough, pressure for restrictions on freedom of speech come most of the time not from reactionary minds but from so-called liberals. Again and again the "liberals" hint darkly at the need for restricting freedom of the press or speech and they constantly threaten some legal regulation. What seems never to have occurred to them is that perhaps the answer lies in counter-debate and particularly in increasing the literacy and understanding of the voters themselves. An electorate that has to be protected by law against "composite" photographs or offensive words isn't likely to develop much character of its own. Totalitarian governments find it necessary to protect people not so much from misrepresentation but from truth—with officialdom defining "truth."

All experience shows that the right to smear as well as the right to unsmear are in danger the moment any regulation of thought is introduced in a republic. So the Democratic caucus, in refraining from action to bar a senator-elect from taking his seat as a consequence of what may be said in political campaigns, undoubtedly followed tradition. If laws are to be passed to compel identification of anonymous literature — a species of fraud — or to correct other abuses that are plainly libelous, the investigation to determine what laws are needed should not be confined to one election but to all elections. For there are some Democrats as well as Republicans who have recently won elections to Congress by the use in their behalf of something more misleading than "composite" photographs. The subject itself can be handled by publicity and debate rather than by law.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Jan. 3—Chili con carne, the delicacy which President Truman scoffed a bowl of at Verne Dixon's chili parlor in Kansas City is a beautiful proposition. The name and the basic nature of this dish come from south of the border, but it was naturalized many generations ago and it has been getting refined in the chili parlors of the midwest and southwest since. It is now a kind of stew made of chili beans, ground beef, chili powder, onions, tomatoes, garlic and I guess that is all. You cook it and cook it and if time would turn backward 35 years I would be able to take you to chili parlors in St. Louis, Dallas, Fort Worth, Omaha and Chicago where you could get a big, white bowl of chili-con or chili-mac for 15 cents. You could live high on a dollar a day in chili parlors.

When I was handling the United Press Bureau in the old St. Louis Times plant in 1914-15, a fellow came to town who had been a reporter in St. Joe, Council Bluffs and some other stops in that league, busted and looking for something to do at around $20 a week. I was getting $22.50 and getting a little surly in a campaign for $25.

I took this guy on for quarters, heat and light, knowing it could be done on chili-con and chili mac. We shacked up together in a hotel called, I think, the Linmar, where some of the St. Louis National League ball-players lived, and Bolivar carried double with ease for several weeks.

My party then latched onto a paper over in Illinois, probably Belleville, and that was the last I ever heard of him until one winter during the first Florida boom. Then I was told that he was in the chips in Tampa and driving a car so long it should have had a hinge in the middle or a tillerman aft. I thought he might come around and ply me with a mess of stone crabs and cerveza in Ybor City, but he never gave me a tumble, to say nothing of sending back the $35 or so to which I had poor-boyed him in St. Louis. But, — easy go!

Chili-mac is chili con carne sloshed over macaroni. I was going to write that chili-mac is just chili-con sloshed over mac but that word "just" would have a slight flavor of belittlement and I am one who would never LITTLE either of these exquisite affairs. They both are beautiful beyond my powers of description or even intimation. Can you describe love?

The only chili parlor that I have happened upon in recent years is on the south side of the drag in Bisbee, just about the bottom of the long hill from the Continental Divide and just up from the Copper Queen Hotel. It has a counter and stools, as all authentic chili parlors do, and the chili-con is absolutely authentic and therefore superb. But this parlor also has booths, which are an affectation of the times and, to me, not anachronistic but some other word that I can't quite put my fingers

It's taken for granted that in the event of war, Communists and Red sympathizers in Europe and America would commit countless damaging acts of sabotage against us.

We were fortunate in World War II that the vigilance of the FBI, combined with the Nazis' apparent inability to recruit saboteurs on a broad scale, eliminated this behind-the-front warfare. No one imagines we'd be so lucky again.

It goes without saying that we must prepare to combat sabotage as we never have before. The preparation isn't something that can be put off. Defense contracts are being let steadily. The men who work on them must be tightly screened, and every safeguard must be erected to keep the affected plants free of trouble.

Some responsible people are suggesting that we ought to go much further and get into the sabotage business ourselves. Those who urge it admit at the start that it's a sordid, dirty sort of game; but they believe that playing it would be of vital assistance to us in a conflict with the Soviet Union.

In the western European nations which might be overrun in a Russian drive to the sea, thousands and thousands of stout-hearted lovers of liberty would serve their cause at risk of their lives behind enemy lines.

Any build-up of European defenses might be viewed as incomplete if it did not make plans to utilize the disruptive force these people could bring to bear in a Europe under Russian heel.

The advocates of an Allied sabotage program argue, too, that there are many brave recruits for this dangerous duty in countries already behind the Iron Curtain. Freedom is not a dead issue to people in Hungary, Romania, Czechoslovakia, Poland and Bulgaria.

These people await the day when they shall be liberated. Though they dare not speak out, they are with us. Many would do anything asked of them to advance the rebirth of freedom in their lands. They need only to be told what sort of future would really be in store for them in a world rid of Russian domination. Men who have hope will die, if they must, trying to realize it.

There are probably even people in Russia itself who would be willing to join the army of saboteurs. The Ukrainians are notoriously a rebellious group, and others we hear little of might seize any fair chance to do their ruthless masters in. The problem of reaching these people and helping to organize and guide them is obviously more difficult than elsewhere.

Whether we should undertake to embark on an intensive sabotage program is a question for study in the highest levels of government. And it will no doubt be judged in the light of the fact that our prospective enemy, the Soviet Union, is sure to throw away the rule book and fight foul if it comes to a test.

One thing many neighbors have in common is the conviction that the kids next door are the worst in the block. It works in reverse, too.

BLIND BUT INDEPENDENT

Hopelessness and helplessness are usually the first reactions of those whom blindness strikes. It has been found that from seven to ten years usually elapses between the onset of the condition and the victim's contact with agencies that can help him toward a new and more normal way of life.

In San Francisco a new agency is being set up with the idea of providing useful work for these afflicted people. "Opportunities for the Blind" is putting on an aggressive campaign involving a loan fund from which employable blind persons may borrow funds for going into business or for fitting themselves for jobs. Seven hundred and fourteen suitable business and job opportunities have been worked out.

The modern tendency in dealing with all kinds of handicapped persons is away from custodial care, which saps the vitality of the beneficiary, and toward the sturdy self-reliance which results from putting forth their best efforts in some line of useful work.

For most people the biggest Christmas present would be the announcement that the stores were going to forgive all bills.

'These Days'

THE BLAME IS FIXED

On July 8, an estimated 116,000 regular Chinese Communist troops were stationed in Manchuria. By August 8, this number had been increased to 217,000; by August 30, to 246,000. After September 21, Lin Piao's army, arriving from South China, and with other contingents, brought the Chinese Communist troops in Manchuria up to 850,000.

These dates are important because, if you will recall, throughout this period the American people were led to believe that somehow we were going to have a deal with Mao Tze-tung, that British diplomacy would help win Mao away from Russia, and all that was needed was to give Soviet China a seat in the United Nations. Meanwhile they were building up this huge force to fight us.

What made it easy for the Chinese Communists was the immobilization of the Nationalists, their acceding to President Truman's instruction for Chiang Kai-shek to refrain from any military action against Soviet China. This assurance made it possible for Lin Piao's army to return to Manchuria. Lin Piao's army was reinforced by other Chinese Communist troops not usually associated with him.

When the build-up reached 10 corps of three divisions each, namely the 55th, 57th, 41st, 46th, 38th, 39th, 40th, 42nd, 56th and 54th along the Yalu, with other unidentified divisions along the Tumen, the situation became serious. The potential for a large invasion was present.

The United Nations forces were facing a new force with which only the highest government levels could have contact. When these 30 divisions and the waves of divisions behind them began to move like a horde across the Yalu into Korea, MacArthur, as a military commander, was forced, by his instructions, to stand still until they were out of Manchuria. He could use no weapons at his disposal to keep on the other side of the Yalu. He could only fight them after they had crossed from Manchuria into Korea. Never had a commander faced a more harassing situation.

From all this the conclusion is inevitable that the Chinese Communists had not had enough troops in Manchuria in June and July to intervene in the Korean situation; that they were able to build up their forces because they were assured by the United States, directly, indirectly or by inference, that Nationalist China would remain immobilized by the U. S. 7th Fleet and by an agreement between Chiang Kai-shek and President Truman.

Once Soviet China was convinced that this would hold, it moved Lin Piao's army from South China to Manchuria, added other units to it, thus producing an overwhelming force against General MacArthur.

Throughout this period, Chiang Kai-shek offered his services either for participation in Korea or for guerrilla warfare. This, Washington rejected on the ground that it would bring Soviet China into the war. After Soviet China took over the war, the United States continued to reject Chiang's services, although his participation would have forced Soviet China to withdraw troops from Manchuria for service in South China.

It is almost impossible to explain this policy by political or historical logic. It makes no sense. Yet that is precisely what our policy is and has been up to this moment.

And that is what General MacArthur has been up against. As a commander in the field, he has not been permitted to avail himself of intelligence, of reconnaissance by air, of the use of a willing ally whose nearly a million troops are ready for action, having been fighting Chinese Communists since 1927.

In fact, this story adds up to our weakening our own forces while strengthening the enemy and doing it all in diplomatic maneuvers at the highest levels, in direct opposition to General Douglas MacArthur's judgment on the spot. It would not be unwise for a committee of the Senate to investigate this Korean war that the people may know the facts.

The time has come for Americans to know the facts. As the "Hongkong Standard" said:

"His critics who have for years indulged in the fond dream of achieving peace at the expense of others have no right to complain. If any one has the right to complain, it is General MacArthur. He did not bring on the war; only he has to fight it—often with his hands tied."

EMOTIONS CAN RAISE BLOOD PRESSURE

Physicians examining recruits for the armed services or candidates for insurance recognize that the individual is nervous not only because of the army or insurance but because he wants to know if his heart and blood pressure are normal, for his own or his family's sake. For this reason it is customary for the examiner to try to reassure him about heart and blood pressure and that perhaps if he lies down and reads a paper for a few minutes, he will be in a more normal condition for examination.

In an article, "Emotions and Blood Pressure," in the Journal of the American Medical Association, Dr. Robert Sterling Palmer, Hypertension Clinic, Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston, states that variations of 8 to 10 mm. of mercury, and often of 18 to 20 have long been noted in the normal resting systolic blood pressure. The fact that there can be this much variation in the blood pressure in the same individual under the same conditions—lying quietly with no digestion of food taking place—shows that the mind or the emotions must be causing the rise in blood pressure.

"Anger, fear, and deception cause rises in the normal blood pressure and these rises or curves, considered characteristic of deception, have been presented and suggested for detection of crime," says Dr. Palmer. A 12 mm. rise can occur from just general excitement.

In this clinic, bringing on mental stress in the patient has caused rises of 10 to 15 mm. in young male subjects with vasomotor or emotional instability, in some patients with stomach disorders and in patients with nervous fatigue or overactive thyroid gland.

Another important point discovered was that in the first visit of the patient to the physician, the blood pressure was higher by many points than the later visits. The initial patient-doctor situation seems to exercise a more potent response in the blood pressure.

There are cases of individuals who have carried high blood pressure for a number of years whose pressure came down to normal after a visit to a psychiatrist and remained normal for three years afterward.

Dr. Palmer reports 100 cases tested in the Hypertension Clinic in which the emotional disturbances of the individual raised the blood pressure many points.

If we wish to keep our blood pressure within normal limits for the actual condition of our blood vessels, calmness of spirit is necessary.

Elementary, My Dear Watson

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—It looks as if the "man of letters" in the White House is going to make a lot of money for the recipients of those letters.

Out in Denver, Dr. Neal Bishop, who suggested to Mr. Truman that John L. Lewis be appointed ambassador to Russia, is going to auction off his Trumanesque reply for the benefit of the Denver Community Chest.

The reply, which stated that he, Truman, would not even appoint John L. as dogcatcher, should bring a large amount of money—though Bishop has generously given the letter to the Community Chest and they will make the profit.

Meanwhile, in Washington, Paul Hume, the Washington Post music critic, has turned down various offers for his letter regarding Margaret Truman's singing. One offer is reputed in five figures.

If Mr. Hume ever does decide to sell this coveted letter, it can make him much more dough than he realizes, for he will only have to pay a capital gains tax of 25 per cent on the sale. In other words, the Truman letter is not earned income, but a special personal gift from the President of the United States. A gift is not taxable until it is sold, and as long as Mr. Hume keeps the letter more than six months, his tax will be only 25 per cent.

If treasury agents argue about this, Mr. Hume can tell them quite truthfully that his letter is something which happens only once in a lifetime, that it was an unsolicited gift from the President, and that if any gift tax is paid it should come out of Harry Truman's pocket, not his.

Other people who got indignant letters from the President can also cash in on this nice low-bracket tax. In brief, the President has been awfully kind to Mr. Hume, to Bernie Baruch, to Dr. Bishop, to Jimmie Byrnes and others. The only one he has slighted is me. Because when he hurled the "servant of brotherhood" charge in my direction, he did it orally. He did not write a letter.

Someday, if I can get up nerve enough, I am going to ask Mr. Truman to put it in writing, so I can have something either to hand down to my children or else sell under a capital gains tax. Having been the first to arouse public Presidential ire, I think the President owes it to me to put it in writing.

Note—Anyone who wants to bid on the Truman letter black-balling John L. Lewis as dogcatcher can wire the Denver Press Club.

New Order of Draft

Selective Service Director Lewis Hershey is recommending the following changes in the draft law to the new session of Congress:

1. That the draft age be lowered from 19 to 18 years, with the maximum age limit kept at 25.

2. That deferment of enlistees in the organized reserves and the National Guard be stopped.

3. That draft eligibles between 18 and 25 be taken in the following order: First, all unmarried college students except the top third in their classes; second, married non-vets without children; third, unmarried veterans; last, non-vets with children.

Increased Living Cost

One thing that has stumped price czars Alan Valentine and Mike Di Salle is that they cannot impose over-all price controls on certain farm products until the cost of living goes up even more.

This is because the farm bloc in Congress inserted a provision in the price control bill whereby certain farm prices cannot be controlled at a point under parity or under the price of last May and June.

Because of this, the Agriculture Department has advised the big bakers and millers that they face no early price control. Bread will have to increase one or two cents a loaf to permit price controls, Ralph Trigg, the department's production and marketing boss, privately informed bakers and millers last week.

The Agriculture Department has also informed Economic Stabilizer Valentine that over-all controls on farm products would raise the nation's food bill from 5 to 10 per cent because of the number of commodities now below parity prices.

Meat Price Ceilings

Of the foods that will be controlled, beef, lamb and veal top the list. All are above parity. Price Administrator DiSalle will have a meeting with Chicago meat-packers and western cattlemen this month and expects to put a price ceiling on meat in February. It will take at least that time for him to get organized.

Next to meat, products most likely to be controlled include cotton, raisins, rice, flue-cured tobacco, and possibly cottonseed oil, all of which are above parity. Valentine and DiSalle are hesitant about controlling wool, also above parity, for fear of discouraging domestic production of this critically short war essential.

Publicly, the Agriculture Department has taken an aloof position on farm price ceilings, but privately it has submitted the following list of farm products for possible control:

Wool, about 29 per cent above parity; cotton, 27 per cent above; sheep, 10 per cent above; beef cattle, 5 per cent above; rice, 2 per cent above; tobacco, 2 per cent above; and lamb, 1 per cent above.

The list also shows these items to be below parity: Hogs, 10 per cent; peanuts, 12 per cent; milk for processing, 12 per cent; soy beans, 12 per cent; butter fat, 13 per cent; eggs, 14 per cent; wheat, 15 per cent; edible dry beans, 16 per cent; corn, 18 per cent; chickens, 25 per cent; oats, 18 per cent; potatoes, 51 per cent; and oranges, 60 per cent.

A soldier surrendering a mortar would get one ounce of gold, and so on up to five gold bars (10 ounces) to be given for the surrendering of a plane or a unit commander surrendering with his troops.

Intelligence reports from the front reveal that only a fraction of the Chinese troops fighting in Korea are hard-bitten Communists not susceptible to silver bullets.

In a country where freedom of speech is supposed to be one of the basic guarantees of the constitution itself, laws or regulations abridging such freedom cannot be valid unless they touch on actual fraud or libel or obscenity. These limitations have been accepted by the Supreme Court but at the same time the court has allowed some very scurrilous and even profane language to be used in political warfare without holding it to be subject to legal redress. The definition to which the Supreme Court adheres is the one given by the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, who defined it as "freedom for the thought we hate."

Curiously enough, pressure for restrictions on freedom of speech come most of the time not from reactionary minds but from so-called liberals. Again and again the "liberals" hint darkly at the need for restricting freedom of the press or speech and they constantly threaten some legal regulation. What seems never to have occurred to them is that perhaps the answer lies in counter-debate and particularly in increasing the literacy and understanding of the voters themselves. An electorate that has to be protected by law against "composite" photographs or offensive words isn't likely to develop much character of its own. Totalitarian governments find it necessary to protect people not so much from misrepresentation but from truth—with officialdom defining "truth."

All experience shows that the right to smear as well as the right to unsmear are in danger the moment any regulation of thought is introduced in a republic. So the Democratic caucus, in refraining from action to bar a senator-elect from taking his seat as a consequence of what may be said in political campaigns, undoubtedly followed tradition. If laws are to be passed to compel identification of anonymous literature — a species of fraud — or to correct other abuses that are plainly libelous, the investigation to determine what laws are needed should not be confined to one election but to all elections. For there are some Democrats as well as Republicans who have recently won elections to Congress by the use in their behalf of something more misleading than "composite" photographs. The subject itself can be handled by publicity and debate rather than by law.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Jan. 3—Chili con carne, the delicacy which President Truman scoffed a bowl of at Verne Dixon's chili parlor in Kansas City is a beautiful proposition. The name and the basic nature of this dish come from south of the border, but it was naturalized many generations ago and it has been getting refined in the chili parlors of the midwest and southwest since. It is now a kind of stew made of chili beans, ground beef, chili powder, onions, tomatoes, garlic and I guess that is all. You cook it and cook it and if time would turn backward 35 years I would be able to take you to chili parlors in St. Louis, Dallas, Fort Worth, Omaha and Chicago where you could get a big, white bowl of chili-con or chili-mac for 15 cents. You could live high on a dollar a day in chili parlors.

When I was handling the United Press Bureau in the old St. Louis Times plant in 1914-15, a fellow came to town who had been a reporter in St. Joe, Council Bluffs and some other stops in that league, busted and looking for something to do at around $20 a week. I was getting $22.50 and getting a little surly in a campaign for $25.

I took this guy on for quarters, heat and light, knowing it could be done on chili-con and chili mac. We shacked up together in a hotel called, I think, the Linmar, where some of the St. Louis National League ball-players lived, and Bolivar carried double with ease for several weeks.

My party then latched onto a paper over in Illinois, probably Belleville, and that was the last I ever heard of him until one winter during the first Florida boom. Then I was told that he was in the chips in Tampa and driving a car so long it should have had a hinge in the middle or a tillerman aft. I thought he might come around and ply me with a mess of stone crabs and cerveza in Ybor City, but he never gave me a tumble, to say nothing of sending back the $35 or so to which I had poor-boyed him in St. Louis. But, — easy go!

Chili-mac is chili con carne sloshed over macaroni. I was going to write that chili-mac is just chili-con sloshed over mac but that word "just" would have a slight flavor of belittlement and I am one who would never LITTLE either of these exquisite affairs. They both are beautiful beyond my powers of description or even intimation. Can you describe love?

The only chili parlor that I have happened upon in recent years is on the south side of the drag in Bisbee, just about the bottom of the long hill from the Continental Divide and just up from the Copper Queen Hotel. It has a counter and stools, as all authentic chili parlors do, and the chili-con is absolutely authentic and therefore superb. But this parlor also has booths, which are an affectation of the times and, to me, not anachronistic but some other word that I can't quite put my fingers

Taegu, Korea (AP)—Shinn Chung Sook is one of the prettiest girls in all Korea.

I will never forget the hour I held her in my arms as we flew together out of Seoul, ahead of massing Chinese Reds. But I don't suppose she will remember it much. She is used to adventures, and quite blase about them.

We boarded a Fifth Air Force plane at a field near the almost empty capital. The plane was loaded with soldiers. They didn't notice Shinn Chunk Sook at first because I had wrapped a blanket around her to shield her from the cold.

But after the takeoff one soldier saw her feet sticking out beneath the blanket. He nudged the soldier next to him and said: "Look, a girl."

Then Shinn Chung Sook stuck her head out of the blanket and looked around in wonderment. The whole line of soldiers opposite us stared at her black bobbed hair and rosy cheeks.

The first soldier came over and asked, "What's her name?"

"Snooky," I said.

"How old is she?"

"Three."

"Gee, Buddy," he said sympathetically, "they kept you over here a long time?"

I explained Snooky wasn't mine. Then I had to tell all the soldirs her life story.

Stolen by Stranger

She is the niece of Bill Shinn, a Korean reporter for the Associated Press. When she was little more than a year old she was stolen by a strange woman who asked overnight shelter in the Shinn home.

It wasn't until nine months later that a policewoman found her living with a Chinese family.

A few days before Christmas little Snooky disappeared again. She apparently just wandered off. But it was a time when eight members of the Shinn family were about to flee south in a road convoy.

The convoy was held up a day while a frantic search was made for Snooky. Then the sorrowing family had to take off without her.

Trudged Five Miles

The next day Snooky was found. She had trudged five miles from her home in wintry weather, in her tiny, thin rubber shoes, and was blithely sharing a rice bowl with a Korean family that had taken her in.

American newsmen immediately adopted her, with Associated Press Correspondent Bill (William J.) Waugh as official Godfather. He gave me the assignment of escorting her to safety.

Holding a squirming, chubby girl of three is like trying to pacify a half-grown octopus. But I was afraid to put her down. Later I found a formula to silence her—each time she squirmed I stoked her with a candy mint.

As the plane began to descend all the soldiers came by to say goodbye to Snooky. She fell asleep before I could climb into an open weapons carrier. I could feel the warmth of her small, blanket-wrapped body whenever she stirred sleepily in my arms during the long, cold ride through the winter night. It was a wonderful feeling.

Father Overjoyed

Her father was waiting at the press billet when I arrived with this little refugee. He almost cried with joy when he took her. But I also had the feeling that if Snooky ever runs away again she will get a sore bottom when she returns.

Shinn bobbed his head in an oriental courtesy of gratitude. Snooky woke up, waved a hand that still clutched a fragment of candy, and promptly fell asleep again.

If we meet again Snooky won't even recall our journey, but I'll always remember the feel of her warm little body in my arms as we rode through the night to safety.

Relief at last from torture of sinus, catarrh, and hay fever due to nasal congestion is seen today in reports of success with a formula which has the power to reduce nasal congestion. Men and women with agonizing sinus headaches, clogged nostrils, earache, hawking and sneezing misery tell of blessed relief after using it. to at the moment, meaning out of place out of spirit as well. The old, genuine chili parlor might have a few tables down the length of the store but not booths and the waiters were men wearing bartenders' aprons, not girls.

The chili parlor was absolutely masculine. The bill of fare was very terse. There were chili-con and chili-mac, with all the soda crackers you wanted. Pie—apple, lemon-cream, peach or mince—was a nickel. Two eggs, any style, 15 cents. Pork-chop sandwich, a nickel. Two pork chops 15 cents. That is about all. My guest and I played the chili place near the St. Louis Times almost exclusively during this episode, but we may have given some of our play to another parlor down near the Union Station which I discovered when I covered the fights at the old Future City Club which was nearby. I find myself smiling in amusement over the fact that they were known to one and all as "parlors" although they were very plain joints. You could always find them near railroad stations

In Chicago there were also many on South Clark and South State and on West Madison where the poor bums from the harvest and the railroad gangs holed up for the winter. Chili was poor man's food, but it was wonderful. It was beautiful.

Louis S. Cates, the head of Phelps-Dodger Copper, who was known as "Rawhide Cates" in his gallus days out west, claims to be a connoisseur of chili but then, strangely, he comes out for the chili at the half-way house between Tucson and Nogales. There he throws me. That is the Mexican version and a very serious heresy because in Mexican chili-con the meat is in hunks and the juices can't get into it. The right way is to grind the meat real fine and give it a long, long workout on the back of the range. Just put it there and forget about it. Still, Mr. Cates also says that the best chili-con in the world today is that which is made occasionally by Mabel Pegler in five gallon batches the American way. I guess his vote for the Mexican type is aberration.

The best chili beans in the world and the best put-up chili-con are produced by a firm called Gebhardt's in El Paso, which also sells very fine chili powder; although I am not aware that there are grades of powder. I trust that the desk will not slough this last paragraph off as a sneak ad because I deem it my professional duty to my fellow countrymen to inform them of these superb vittlements. I cannot be charged with ulterior motives because, to my morose regret, I am the owner in fee simple of a duodenal gum-boil which precludes my savoring this delight ever again as long as I live.

U.N. Troops Withdraw From Seoul

U. N. troops began withdrawing from flame-swept Seoul as two columns of Chinese Reds (A) swept to city's outskirts. Retreating forces were faced with possibility of two huge enveloping movements. One force of Reds (B) was believed to have taken key city of Kapyong, opening possibility of an encirclement (broken arrow) along curving highway to Seoul. Another force (C) was reported at Chunchon and driving down Chonchon-Wonju highway in attempt to outflank the South Korean capital from the southeast.

Red Chinese . . .

battle in central Korea, southwest of Kapyong. Kapyong is the apex of a triangle formed by Seoul, 35 miles to the southwest, and Wonju, 40 miles to the southeast.

How that battle was going was vague. But the U. S. Eighth Army reported Wednesday a general withdrawal was being made all along the 150-mile battlefront across Korea's waist.

AP Correspondent William Barnard of U. S. Eighth Army headquarters said Chinese Red troops were reported in contact today with Allied forces two miles west of Seoul. The contact was reported at 7:35 a. m. (5:35 p. m., E.S.T. Wednesday).

The Red attack burst through Allied lines Wednesday morning. It gained momentum faster than the sharp New Year's Eve attack. There was no stopping the assault, although it was checked briefly north of Seoul by the American rearguard action.

Offensive Grows

Each hour it became more apparent that the Red offensive was far bigger than it seemed at first. The Korean Red radio at Pyongyang said the Communists were engaged in a fierce battle to wipe out "the enemy along the entire length of the 38th parallel."

But the Reds were moving considerably south of the parallel, former boundary which separated Russian and U. S. occupation zones in North and South Korea. It was across 38 that the Russian-made tanks of the North Korean Reds plunged June 25 to invade the U.N.-sponsored Korean Republic.

Seoul fell two days later. Thus, Thursday's entry by the Chinese marked the third time in seven months that the shell-pocked old city has been captured.

Low-Level Strafing

Allied war planes surprised the first Chinese to enter the flaming city. Pilots reported killing them by the hundreds in low-level strafing runs.

Correspondent Swinton flew from Kimpo Airfield, 10 miles northwest of Seoul, in the next to the last plane to leave. He said demolition experts blew up 500,000 gallons of aviation gasoline and 23,000 gallons of napalm—jellied gasoline fire bombs.

One officer ran from building to building setting them ablaze with a torch. Huge stores of ground supplies — tires, clothing, everything—went up in smoke.

Swinton said the bleak January sky was blackened over the airfield which—during the big airlift from Japan—had been one of the world's busiest.

Secret Departure

The South Korean government headed by President Syngman Rhee fled Seoul Wednesday morning, several hours after reports of the first Red break through. The decision to leave had been made secretly Tuesday.

Seat of the Republic now is presumed to be at Taegu, in southeastern Korea. American Ambassador John J. Muccio and his staff flew out of Seoul Wednesday also. Members of the United Nations Commission for Korea pulled out in station wagons and in planes.

But Korea's little people scrambled to get out afoot.

AP Correspondent William J. Waugh said panic swept the city Wednesday night. Sporadic gunfire burst through the hum of hurrying military vehicles. Traffic was backed up for miles behind a pontoon bridge leading from the city's main avenue.

"Civilians plodding along the sides of the road were moving bundles of misery," Waugh said. "A Korean boy—possibly 10 or 11—sat on the curb, a small pack by his side. His face was buried in his hands. He looked so forlorn.

"A youngster, barely out of the toddler stage, stagged down the street wiping tears from his eyes. He was lost."

At sunset Thursday, one weary retreating GI looked back at the burning city and said:

"Now I know how Nero felt."

U.N. Forces Quit Inchon by Ships

Inchon, Korea, Jan. 4 (AP) — United Nations forces protecting this supply port west of Seoul withdrew by sea tonight while naval guns shelled the path of the approaching Reds.

Even as men and equipment were still pouring aboard ship, army demolition experts were setting off thunderous charges that left the railway yards and docking facilities in flaming ruins.

The enemy would not be able to find a thing it could use.

The explosions along the waterfront rocked the deserted city.

Towering flames lit the ship-filled harbor.

The troops who boarded ship were for the most part the men whose job it was to keep the port operating to handle Allied supplies.

Coalition Takes

ing the rules committee 21 days after a bill's approval by other regular committees.

It was that change which the coalition erased yesterday.

Voting to return to the old system, which Democratic leader McCormack of Massachusetts claimed gave "dictatorial" power to the coalition, were 152 Republicans and 92 Democrats. Against it were 136 Democrats, 42 Republicans and one Independent.

Claimed Necessity

Advocates of the change claimed it was necessary to prevent action on undesirable and costly non-defense bills. Opponents argued that a majority of the rules group should not be allowed to tell the House what it can consider.

The surprising thing was the size of the vote the coalition polled. Most observers had expected the rule to be changed, but not by such a big margin.

The rule change will make it extremely difficult for the House even to consider such "Fair Deal" measures as federal health insurance, labor law revisions and other social proposals.

Except for this House squabble, the opening session was fairly harmonious and more than usually colorful, thanks to the newly-redecorated Senate and House chambers. Galleries were filled.

DPA to Get . . .

"We may go through a period of scarcity," Wilson said. "But it is not our intention, and I hope it won't be necessary to maintain an economy of scarcity."

Secretary of Commerce Sawyer will appoint a successor to Harrison as the head of N.P.A. That agency, which has grown to nearly 1,000 employes in three months and is adding more than 100 a week, eventually will be the nucleus of the industrial control machinery.

Subpoena Is Given

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—Gambling figure Frank Costello was served with a subpoena today to testify before the Senate Committee investigating crime. Boris Kostelanetz, special counsel for the committee, said the subpoena was served on Costello by "prior arrangement." He described the summons as "a general one and does not fix a date for his appearance" before the Senate probers. The subpoena was handed Costello in the offices of his attorney, George Wolfe. Although it called for Costello's appearance in Washington, Kostelanetz said there was a possibility Costello might appear before thet investigators in New York city. The committee is expected to hold open hearings here sometime this month.

New Virus Is Found

Ithaca, N. Y., Jan. 4 (AP) — A newly found virus that infects calves was reported today to Cornell's conference of veterinarians. The virus, which belongs to the same group of organisms as psittacosis, has been tentatively named "Miyagawamella Bovis." It was described by Dr. Charles J. York and Dr. J. A. Baker of the Veterinary Virus Research Institute at Cornell.

Social Security Law Provisions

George J. Johnson, manager of the Kingston Social Security office, submits the following in a series of articles on the new social security law:

A farmer came into the Kingston Social Security office the other day and said: "I've heard that the new social security law covers farmers. I operate a farm in Ulster county."

Well, some farm people will come under social security on January first—but not farm operators. They will continue to be excluded because farm self-employment is not covered under the amended Social Security Act. Hired farm workers, however, will come under social security the first of the year, if they earn $50 or more cash wages in a calendar quarter and are regularly employed by one farm operator.

If I were addressing you in a hall, at this point, there would be a number of raised hands. First, you'd want to know what is meant by a regularly employed farm worker. Well, under the new social security law, in general, he is a person employed by one farm operator on a full time basis for a period of several months. Now to answer the second question I know you would ask. A calendar quarter is a three-month period beginning on January 1, April 1, July 1 and October 1.

But back to the subject of a regularly employed farm worker. Let's take a typical example. We'll call such a farm worker Ed Smith. He is employed by Howard Jones. Ed has heard about the new social security, too. He has a wife and children, and he's looking forward to January, when he can start building toward old-age and survivors insurance. Fortunately, for Ed, he is in a position to do just that. He will be working continuously for Jones during the calendar quarter beginning this October. During that time, he will be establishing what is known as a "service relationship" with Mr. Jones. It will indicate that he wants to work continuously for this one farm operator and that Jones wants him as a regular employe.

Now let's look forward from now on. This month is the first time regular farm work begins to count toward Social Security insurance. Ed will be qualified. However, he must work for Jones on a full-time basis for at least 60 days in the calendar quarter beginning January first. Moreover, he must earn not less than $50 in cash wages for his work on those 60 or more days. As long as he continues to do this much work for Jones in each calendar quarter, and earns $50 or more in cash wages for his work in that quarter, his earnings will be credited toward old-age and survivors insurance.

But suppose in the calendar quarter beginning April 1, or the one beginning July 1, or in any calendar quarter after that, Ed doesn't work as much as 60 days for Jones, although he was paid $50 or more cash wages for that period. He will be credited toward Social Security insurance for that quarter but not for the one to follow, regardless of days of work and amount of cash wages. That less-than-60 days of work broke his continuous employment relationship with Mr. Jones. Ed must start work all over again.

What this all means is that a farm worker, to have his cash wages count toward old-age and survivors insurance, must:—first, work continuously through a calendar quarter to establish a service relationship, then be continuously employed by the same farm operator, and earn not less than $50 cash wages for 60 or more days of work in each consecutive calendar quarter.

In my next article I shall describe the kinds of work that are classed as farm work under the amended Social Security law.

Local Death Record

The funeral of Carol McCumber, infant daughter of Ralph and Frances Miller McCumber, was held Wednesday afternoon from the F. Daniel Halloran Funeral Home. Burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery. Besides her parents she is survived by a sister, Mary Janet, and a brother, Ralph Joseph McCumber.

The funeral of Jane K. Ward was held from the family residence, 52 Lafayette avenue, Wednesday at 9 a. m., and at 9:30 o'clock at St. Joseph's Church, where a high Mass of requiem was offered by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Stephen P. Connelly, P.R., with the Rev. John D. Simmons and the Rev. James P. Keating within the sanctuary. Responses to the Mass were by the children's choir under the direction of Mrs. Frank Rafferty. The church was filled to capacity with friends who came to pay their last tribute by assisting at the requiem. The Girl Scouts of St. Joseph's Troop 39 were present, led by Mrs. John M. Valentine, and acted as guard of honor. Also in attendance was the entire faculty of Kingston High School, the Myron J. Michael School; teachers from the grade schools, and several hundred students. The M.J.M. School was closed in the morning out of respect to Miss Ward, a teacher in the city school system. It was estimated that over a thousand visited the home to condole the bereaved. Monsignor Connelly and Father Simmons called, as did Father Keating Tuesday evening, and assisted by the many there recited the Rosary. The casket was surrounded by beautiful floral pieces, and on the spiritual bouquet receiver were dozens of Mass cards, symbols of the affection and esteem in which the deceased teacher was held. The bearers were Albert Gruner, Joseph Sills, Bernard Roach, William McAuliffe, Charles Abernethy and John Sequine. Burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery, where the final absolution and blessing were given by Father Keating.

New York — (NEA) — Resort shoes, appearing now, walk into summer as close companions of fashions in ready-to-wear. The new slim skirts, shorter skirts, slashed skirts mean that shoes must look light and airy.

Many shoes in current resort collections are open, therefore. Stripping and strapping create a different look; shells and fake shells provide the very minimum in shoes. Pumps often are more open, more decorative even though they frequently have the closed back.

Warm weather shoes are made of mesh, of pleated pastel linens, plain and printed shantungs, straw, gingham and denim, among other fabrics. Black and white, separately or teamed, are important. So are the ombre colors, the vivid pastels, the pale neutrals, and the mauve-to-purple palette.

A pair of ankle-strap sandals have uppers in multi-colored kid, a slim heel in solid color and an ankle strap in two tones. Though the toe is closed, this shoe is extremely airy in feel.

A stripping sandal in silver kid, ideal for warm Southern evenings, is scarcely a shoe at all. It's a matter of slender silver straps secured to polished leather soles. The straps sparkle with rhinestone-lighted circlets and the heel glitters with brilliants.

The spectator is no longer traditional in design. This season, particularly, its' a good distance from the standard fare. One pair of sling-back spectators with closed toes is in the classic brown-and-white. Otherwise, they are slender, graceful shoes, able to go many places barred to the spectator shoe of the past.

The plaid fad carries over into warm weather wear in a simple closed pump which is interesting for its tartan inlay. Toe, collar, back and heel are all in deep-polished red calf for contrast.

Hot orange — the right color under sunny blue skies — is used for a pair of unlined glaze kid casuals with the sheath look. The entire front is closed; the entire sling-back is open. This shoe is very light and flexible.

Two Are Indicted

Utica, N. Y., Jan. 4 (AP)—A federal grand jury has indicted two men on charges of trying to smuggle two Italian citizens into the United States from Canada. Pericle Mannerini of Astoria, L. Social Security Law Provisions

George J. Johnson, manager of the Kingston Social Security office, submits the following in a series of articles on the new social security law:

A farmer came into the Kingston Social Security office the other day and said: "I've heard that the new social security law covers farmers. I operate a farm in Ulster county."

Well, some farm people will come under social security on January first—but not farm operators. They will continue to be excluded because farm self-employment is not covered under the amended Social Security Act. Hired farm workers, however, will come under social security the first of the year, if they earn $50 or more cash wages in a calendar quarter and are regularly employed by one farm operator.

If I were addressing you in a hall, at this point, there would be a number of raised hands. First, you'd want to know what is meant by a regularly employed farm worker. Well, under the new social security law, in general, he is a person employed by one farm operator on a full time basis for a period of several months. Now to answer the second question I know you would ask. A calendar quarter is a three-month period beginning on January 1, April 1, July 1 and October 1.

But back to the subject of a regularly employed farm worker. Let's take a typical example. We'll call such a farm worker Ed Smith. He is employed by Howard Jones. Ed has heard about the new social security, too. He has a wife and children, and he's looking forward to January, when he can start building toward old-age and survivors insurance. Fortunately, for Ed, he is in a position to do just that. He will be working continuously for Jones during the calendar quarter beginning this October. During that time, he will be establishing what is known as a "service relationship" with Mr. Jones. It will indicate that he wants to work continuously for this one farm operator and that Jones wants him as a regular employe.

Now let's look forward from now on. This month is the first time regular farm work begins to count toward Social Security insurance. Ed will be qualified. However, he must work for Jones on a full-time basis for at least 60 days in the calendar quarter beginning January first. Moreover, he must earn not less than $50 in cash wages for his work on those 60 or more days. As long as he continues to do this much work for Jones in each calendar quarter, and earns $50 or more in cash wages for his work in that quarter, his earnings will be credited toward old-age and survivors insurance.

But suppose in the calendar quarter beginning April 1, or the one beginning July 1, or in any calendar quarter after that, Ed doesn't work as much as 60 days for Jones, although he was paid $50 or more cash wages for that period. He will be credited toward Social Security insurance for that quarter but not for the one to follow, regardless of days of work and amount of cash wages. That less-than-60 days of work broke his continuous employment relationship with Mr. Jones. Ed must start work all over again.

What this all means is that a farm worker, to have his cash wages count toward old-age and survivors insurance, must:—first, work continuously through a calendar quarter to establish a service relationship, then be continuously employed by the same farm operator, and earn not less than $50 cash wages for 60 or more days of work in each consecutive calendar quarter.

In my next article I shall describe the kinds of work that are classed as farm work under the amended Social Security law.

Another Juror Chosen

Carmel, N. Y., Jan. 4 (AP)—An additional juror—Irving Kent, a Carmel plumber, — was selected today in the second-degree murder trial of Herbert Gehr, television director, charged with the love-nest killing of his wife. Gehr has announced that he will testify in his own defense. His attorney, Robert Dempsey, said yesterday in questioning prospective jurors that "it was an accident; we intend to prove that Mr. Gehr had no intention of harming Mrs. Gehr at all." Kent was the eighth juror chosen. Four were accepted yesterday and three at Tuesday's opening trial session. Two panels of prospective jurors have been exhausted, and 88 of a new panel ordered by Putnam County Judge John P. Donohoe reported today.

Medal of Honor Awarded

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—President Truman will give the nation's highest military decoration next Tuesday to the wife of First Lt. Frederick F. Henry, who is missing after a heroic rearguard stand in Korea. Mr. Truman will present the Congressional Medal of Honor, in a White House ceremony, to Mrs. Lavon Henry, of (1045 Harvard) Salt Lake City. It will be the first such award to result from the Korean fighting. Lt. Henry, 33, was last seen, painfully wounded and with a collection of weapons taken from fallen men, holding off a North Korean attack near Amdong Sept. 1, while his men withdrew to safety.

Approximately one-half of the world's telephones are in the United States.

'Hell Bomb' Possible Warns of New Horrors Science Writer Says,

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—Hydrogen bombs are considered possible by Science Writer William L. Laurence—in fact, he tells a new way by which they may be made successfully. He does not say success is certain.

And Laurence forecasts, as speculative, one type of atomic explosion that might kill everyone on earth in a single flash. Laurence, a New York Times science reporter, gives his ideas in a book, "The Hell Bomb," published today (Knopf). He was the only reporter invited to pass military secrecy barriers and see everything in the making of atom bombs.

Laurence writes that this book contains no secret information in the current hydrogen bomb program. He says his facts come from his studies of published writings of scientists which never have been secret, plus some discussions he heard during the atom bomb making period at Los Alamos, New Mexico.

Booster Mixture

Laurence comes up with a new device to insure the possibility of a H-Bomb explosion. This is a booster, a mixture of the two forms of heavy hydrogen, deuterium and tritium. He explains this quite simply. There are three kinds of hydrogen, the ordinary or lightweight, the doubleweight known as deuterium and tripleweight known as tritium.

An H-bomb is made by surrounding an ordinary A-bomb with one or more of these three forms of hydrogen, liquefied at 420 degrees Fahrenheit below zero. There is only a few millionths of a second for the atom bomb to detonate the hydrogen, before the A-bomb blast blows the hydrogen so far away that it cannot be exploded.

Laurence shows that ordinary hydrogen heats up far too slowly to be used. Deuterium alone also is too slow. Tritium is fast enough to explode, but Laurence says it is too expensive to be practical.

But, he says, a small amount—a few hundred grams—of tritium mixed with deuterium heats faster than any form of hydrogen alone. Possibly, he says, fast enough for this booster to be added to a deuterium bomb and make it explode.

Real Weapon

Laurence says the H-bomb will be a real weapon against armies in the field or on the march because one H-bomb's explosion will nearly totally destroy by blast everything within more than 300 square miles, and will burn or start fires over an area of more than 1,200 square miles. This, he says, will really stop or impede marching military forces.

He tells of two kinds of H-bombs—one which has no more radio-activity than an A-bomb, and the other, known as the "rigged" hydrogen bomb, its cover made of cobalt, creating radio-activity that could be dangerous all over a continent. He is opposed to using rigged H-bombs.

One fact well known to scientists is that it is about 80 times more difficult or expensive to make tritium than plutonium, the explosive of A-bombs. Both are made in the same kind of uranium plants. Laurence writes that this may pose a dilemma for Russia, provided they do not have many A-bombs.

May Have Spring Test

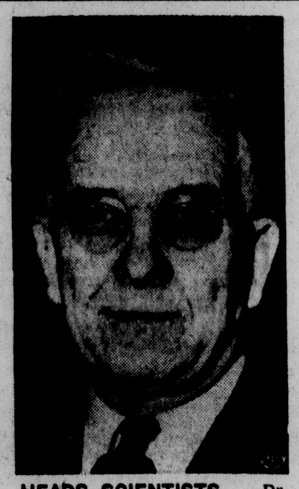

It is within the realm of possibility, says Laurence, that an H-bomb may be tried at Eniwetok this spring or summer (1951). This first bomb will not be a thousand times more powerful than an A-bomb. The size will not matter, for if a small H-bomb can be made, a big one can, too.

Among bombs of the future, which will depend on discoveries not yet made, Laurence lists a positron explosion. Positrons are positively charged electrons. They appear in nuclear reactions and last only millionths of seconds. Then both are annihilated and change into a flash of gamma rays, which are pure radioactivity of the most dangerous kind.

A discovery that would release positrons in large numbers, Laurence writes, "would open possibilities of horror alongside which those of the H-bomb would be puny."

This possibility, he says further, "may envelop the earth in one deadly flash of radioactive lightning that would instantly kill all sensate things.

"Although this is admittedly purely speculative, no one would dare say that such a discovery will not be made."

Non-Arrival of Letter Affects Rockland Office

New City, N. Y., Jan. 4 (AP)—The postman never rang once—and Rockland county will have no judge higher than a justice of the peace until a second letter is mailed to Albany and receives official action.

County Clerk John W. Coyle said yesterday that he mailed a letter to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's office several weeks ago suggesting a successor to Judge Robert Doscher.

A telephone call to Albany, Coyle said, revealed that his letter never arrived. Meanwhile, Doscher was sworn in last Monday as a state supreme court justice.

Now the judgeship—which combines the duties of county judge, surrogate, and children's court judge—must remain vacant until the governor and the state Senate act.

In the letter, the Rockland county Republican Committee had endorsed county Attorney Herbert Henion for the judgeship. In Republican Rockland, such endorsement is equivalent to appointment.

Five Men Held In Liberty Raid

Liberty, N. Y., Jan. 4 (AP)—Five men were arrested by federal agents yesterday in a surprise raid on a 20,000 gallon camouflaged still on a farm near here.

Arrested at the scene were Frank R. DePalma, 35, Paterson, N. J., Daniel Castellano, 31, Newark, N. J., Peter A. Penna, 34, Montclair, N. J., John M. Zicarelli, 40, Bayonne, N. J., and Rosario Evola, 49, of Brooklyn.

All were scheduled to be arraigned last night before a federal commissioner in Poughkeepsie.

Raiding officers said they surprised the quintet as they were changing the heating unit on the huge still from coke to oil.

They said the building which housed the still was camouflaged with hemlock trees. It had been operating about two months, officers said, with a 700 gallon a day capacity.

Shriners Yield Date To Concert Group

It was announced today by the Ulster County Shrine Club that the date for the annual ball has been changed from January 22 to January 29.

The ball will be held at the Kingston Municipal Auditorium. The entire proceeds will go towards the maintenance of the Children's Home, East Chester street, this city.

The change in date was made to avoid conflict with the Community Concert planned January 22, the club announced.

250 Workers Strike

Philadelphia, Jan. 4 (AP)—More than 250 tugboat workers struck on the Philadelphia waterfront today, threatening a tie-up that may paralyze shipping in this vital port. They set up picket lines across pier entrances along the waterfront soon after walking out early today.

Senate Probers

$150,000, and dated July 1, 1939. Gillette's statement said investigators for the Senate probers got in touch with C. C. Hagermann, president of the Hawkeye Pearl Button Company, of Muscatine.

(The subcommittee report used the spelling of Hagerman throughout for the name on the note and Hagermann for the name of the manufacturer interviewed in Muscatine.)

The report said Hagermann "evidenced complete surprise" when shown the copy of the canceled note, and said he had never made any loan or gift to Hanley, or advanced him any funds, and had never received any payments from him.

In Muscatine last night Hagermann said he knew Hanley "30 or 40 years ago" but had had no contacts with him in recent years. He declined to comment beyond what was in the committee report.

The back of the note photographed, Gillette said, contained a record of payments beginning July 1, 1940, and continuing through Aug. 12, 1949, when repayments totaled $125,000. Exactly one month later full payment (including interest) was recorded after a further remittance of $28,000.

Gillette said Hagermann told the sub-committee investigators he had never seen, owned or known of any such note.

Following Gillette's announcement Hanley, contacted in Albany, declined to discuss the sub-committee report or Hagermann's denial. He said he considered the nature of his debts his private concern.

Gillette said a search of records disclosed no other C. C. Hagermann in Muscatine, Iowa. He said the "paid" notation on the note was initialled "C. T. C.," but that Hagermann was unable to say whose initials they were or to identify the handwriting.

The published reports on the source of Hanley's debt said they stemmed from stock he inherited, from his father, John R. Hanley, of Muscatine, in a bank that failed. The report said Hanley considered it a debt of honor to repay the stockholders and that the liability was $150,000.

Referring to these reports, Gillette said the sub-committee investigators searched in vain for any Muscatine Bank failure in which Hanley or his father was involved since 1920. He also said there was no record that the senior Hanley willed stock of any kind. However, Gillette added:

"Investigation by the agents of the subcommittee indicated that in August, 1949, Mr. Frank Gannett and the Bank of Manhattan, as alleged by one Mr. Macy, had advanced $28,500 to Mr. Hanley to be used by him to satisfy the remnants of the Iowa bank obligation."

This was one month before the date of the final payment noted on the back of the purported note for $150,000 to Hagermann.

Gillette said the committee obtained the $150,000 note from the lawyer who handled the August, 1949 loan to Hanley, and made a photographic copy of both sides of the note. Gillette said the lawyer got the note from Hanley. In addition, Gillette said, the subcommittee has a copy of a letter of transmittal to the lawyer handling details of the 1949 loan. The lawyer was not named.

Bridge Is Endorsed

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—A controversial proposed bridge across the Hudson river between Nyack and Tarrytown as part of the state thruway system was endorsed today by Robert Moses, president of the State Council of Parks and city construction coordinator. Moses spoke at a hearing on an application by the New for army approval of the project. Col. E. P. Ketchum, army district engineer, presided at the hearing, held in the Maritime Exchange.

I.A.M. Re-Affiliates

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—The International Association of Machinists, one of the oldest and largest unions in the nation, today reaffiliated with the American Federation of Labor after a five year split. A referendum of the membership last month was more than three and a half to one in favor of returning to the parent federation, the union announced. Terms were agreed upon, designed to end jurisdictional disputes with the carpenters and operating engineers dating back to 1912.

Senate Probers

$150,000, and dated July 1, 1939. Gillette's statement said investigators for the Senate probers got in touch with C. C. Hagermann, president of the Hawkeye Pearl Button Company, of Muscatine.

(The subcommittee report used the spelling of Hagerman throughout for the name on the note and Hagermann for the name of the manufacturer interviewed in Muscatine.)

The report said Hagermann "evidenced complete surprise" when shown the copy of the canceled note, and said he had never made any loan or gift to Hanley, or advanced him any funds, and had never received any payments from him.

In Muscatine last night Hagermann said he knew Hanley "30 or 40 years ago" but had had no contacts with him in recent years. He declined to comment beyond what was in the committee report.

The back of the note photographed, Gillette said, contained a record of payments beginning July 1, 1940, and continuing through Aug. 12, 1949, when repayments totaled $125,000. Exactly one month later full payment (including interest) was recorded after a further remittance of $28,000.

Gillette said Hagermann told the sub-committee investigators he had never seen, owned or known of any such note.

Following Gillette's announcement Hanley, contacted in Albany, declined to discuss the sub-committee report or Hagermann's denial. He said he considered the nature of his debts his private concern.

Gillette said a search of records disclosed no other C. C. Hagermann in Muscatine, Iowa. He said the "paid" notation on the note was initialled "C. T. C.," but that Hagermann was unable to say whose initials they were or to identify the handwriting.

The published reports on the source of Hanley's debt said they stemmed from stock he inherited from his father, John R. Hanley, of Muscatine, in a bank that failed. The report said Hanley considered it a debt of honor to repay the stockholders and that the liability was $150,000.

Referring to these reports, Gillette said the sub-committee investigators searched in vain for any Muscatine Bank failure in which Hanley or his father was involved since 1920. He also said there was no record that the senior Hanley willed stock of any kind. However, Gillette added:

"Investigation by the agents of the subcommittee indicated that in August, 1949, Mr. Frank Gannett and the Bank of Manhattan, as alleged by one Mr. Macy, had advanced $28,500 to Mr. Hanley to be used by him to satisfy the remnants of the Iowa bank obligation."

This was one month before the date of the final payment noted on the back of the purported note for $150,000 to Hagermann.

Gillette said the committee obtained the $150,000 note from the lawyer who handled the August, 1949 loan to Hanley, and made a photographic copy of both sides of the note. Gillette said the lawyer got the note from Hanley. In addition, Gillette said, the subcommittee has a copy of a letter of transmittal to the lawyer handling details of the 1949 loan. The lawyer was not named.

49 Persons Are Safe

Chicago, Jan. 4 (AP)—Skillful handling of a C-46 airliner in making a forced landing minutes after the takeoff was credited early today with saving the lives of 46 passengers and the crew of three. All 48 walked to safety seconds before the big ship burst into flames. Three of the 48 suffered minor injuries. A 10-month-old baby, the 49th person on the plane, was carried out by a passenger. Through adept handling by Pilot Marvin Staddon, the plane was landed in an open field after it failed to gain altitude after taking off from Midway Airport. The plane, one passenger reported, bounced along the open field, skidded into a haystack and remained upright. The fire broke out after all 48 had left the ship. It still was burning in the field a few blocks from the airport several hours later.

In Asia, the eyes of various animals are eaten as a delicacy.

Testimony at Odds at Remington Trial

Dr. Howard A. Bridgman (right), assistant professor of economics at Tufts College, Medford, Mass., testified at the perjury trial of William W. Remington in New York that he (Bridgman) had been a Communist party member, starting in 1936, without ever having a card issued to him. His testimony was in direct contradiction to that of Kenneth E. McConnell (left) of Weaverville, N. C., who said, under cross-examination, that he did not know of any member who did not have a card at some time. Testimony was offered by the government in an attempt to prove that Remington, a former Commerce Department economist could have been a member without a card.

Bills in Legislature

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 4 (AP)—Legal loopholes in the state's residential rent freeze will be plugged by stop-gap amendments introduced in the Legislature today.

The measure would protect about 100,000 tenants, mostly in New York city, from possible retroactive increases, Assemblyman D. Mallory Stephens said.

The changes were designed to cover tenants "caught" by overlapping or gapping effective dates and retroactive dates of federal and local rent orders in relation to the state freeze.

Stephens said that, in effect, the amendments would make it clear that the 1950 Legislature had intended to give tenants the benefit of the lowest rent ceiling. He said there had been conflicting court opinions in various test cases.

Says Interpretation Correct

Stephens, Putnam county Republican, said that Governor Dewey, in approving the state rent law last March 29, "correctly interpreted" it when he said: "The bill fixes rents at either the federal or local rent control level of March 1, 1950, whichever is lower."

Among the 197 bills introduced at yesterday's opening session of the Legislature were measures that would:

1.—Require that candidates for governor and other top state offices, now picked by convention, be nominated in a direct primary vote.

2.—Set a one-year state residence requirement as a condition of eligibility for home (direct) relief.

3.—Require that state public service commissioners be elected by the voters instead of appointed to 10-year terms by the governor.

4.—Establish permanent personal registration on a statewide basis.

5.—Extend the State Flood Control Commission for another year, until March 31, 1952.

The amendments to the State Residential Rent Control law were drafted yesterday at a special meeting of the joint legislative Commission on Rents, headed by Stephens.

Frozen Until March 1

The state rent law, which became effective last May 1, froze residential rents until March 1, 1951, at the March 1, 1950 level. Because of the local Sharkey rent laws then on the books in New York city, the effect of the state law was to freeze Gotham rents at the March 1, 1949 level.

The amendments were drafted to cover three types of possible "loop hole" cases resulting from immediate and retroactive dates of federal and local rent adjustment orders.

Stephens said the amendments would make clear that the intent of the 1950 Legislature, in enacting the rent control law, was to:

1.—"Erase all (upward) adjustments in rent ordered by the federal housing expediter" after March 1, 1950—regardless of retroactive dates—and before May 1, when the state law became effective.

2.—Wipe out "all similar increases (except for additional services and facilities) ordered by the federal housing expediter" in New York city after March 1, 1949, "while not affecting federally ordered rent decreases."

3.—Make effective, for state rent freeze purposes, the lowest rental in New York city when federal and local ceilings conflicted.

Assigned to Sing Sing

Ossining, N. Y., Jan. 4 (AP)—John P. Sullivan, assistant principal keeper at Green Haven State Prison, yesterday was assigned to Sing Sing Prison as temporary principal keeper. Sullivan succeeds Wilfred Denno, who recently was appointed warden of Sing Sing. Lt. Louis J. Kelly of Sing Sing will go to Green Haven to assume Sullivan's post.

49 Persons Are Safe

Chicago, Jan. 4 (AP)—Skillful handling of a C-46 airliner in making a forced landing minutes after the takeoff was credited early today with saving the lives of 46 passengers and the crew of three. All 48 walked to safety seconds before the big ship burst into flames. Three of the 48 suffered minor injuries. A 10-month-old baby, the 49th person on the plane, was carried out by a passenger. Through adept handling by Pilot Marvin Staddon, the plane was landed in an open field after it failed to gain altitude after taking off from Midway Airport. The plane, one passenger reported, bounced along the open field, skidded into a haystack and remained upright. The fire broke out after all 48 had left the ship. It still was burning in the field a few blocks from the airport several hours later.

In Asia, the eyes of various animals are eaten as a delicacy.

Burned Child After Operation

Susan Latonick, 8, lies in iCty Hospital, Binghamton, N. Y., after a major operation in which 288 square inches of skin were grafted on her badly burned body. She was injured in a fire on Thanksgiving Day. The skin was donated by six volunteers. At her bedside is Dr. Charles L. Shute, Jr., chief resident surgeon at hospital. She was given a fair chance for complete recovery. (AP Wirephoto)

Testimony at Odds at Remington Trial

Dr. Howard A. Bridgman (right), assistant professor of economics at Tufts College, Medford, Mass., testified at the perjury trial of William W. Remington in New York that he (Bridgman) had been a Communist party member, starting in 1936, without ever having a card issued to him. His testimony was in direct contradiction to that of Kenneth E. McConnell (left) of Weaverville, N. C., who said, under cross-examination, that he did not know of any member who did not have a card at some time. Testimony was offered by the government in an attempt to prove that Remington, a former Commerce Department economist could have been a member without a card.

Your Income Tax Primer

Travel Expenses of John Public

I spent two days away from Olmsrich on a business trip. I drove my own car. The trip covered 300 miles.

My car cost $1800 in 1948. I think it will last 5 years so it depreciates 20% each year, or $360. Eight per cent of my driving was for this out-of-town trip, so I claim 8% of my car expenses below.

State tax on gasoline for business use is included in the gasoline item below.

Car registration (8%)	$ 2.70
Depreciation (8%)	24.00
Gasoline (8%)	7.16
Oil (8%)	1.04
Repairs (8%)	5.00
Insurance (8%)	3.00
Hotel and meals while away	6.30
Total Expenditure	$60.00
Reimbursed by employer	0
Net cost to me	$60.00

Rented Room

During 1949, we rented one room of our six room house. The house cost us $10,000. We computed depreciation on one-sixth of this amount. The expenses of operating the house were as follows:

Heat	$125.00
Lights	25.10
Water paid service	110.40
Repairs and maintenance	46.87
Water charge	45.00
Insurance	70.13
Total Expense	$470.00

We are charging one-sixth of these expenses, or $80.00, to the rented room. This is deducted in Column 3 of Schedule F.

By RICHARD A. MULLENS
NEA Special Correspondent

If you have followed the explanations in the first nine articles, your income is now shown correctly on the return.

On page 1, add Items 2 and 3 and enter the total in Item 4. This is called your adjusted gross income.

If you adjusted gross income is less than $5,000 you may compute your tax by using the tax table on the back, or page 4, of the return. This table automatically allows you about 10 per cent of your adjusted gross income for charitable contributions, interest, taxes, medical expenses, and the like. If such deductions exceed 10 per cent of Item 4, it will usually be to your advantage to itemize them and compute your tax on page 3. The next article will give detailed instructions on when it is wise to use the tax table.

John and Jane Public are a purely imaginary couple used by the Income Tax Primer to illustrate how a couple with two dependents prepared a tax return. They have been given more problems than most taxpayers in order to show how different parts of the return are filled in.

Their income tax return, as gradually filled out and explained in these articles, is shown here. The adjusted gross income, Item 4, is $6,950.47. This includes all the taxable income of both husband and wife.

In order to take advantage of the "split-income" provisions, they have filed a joint return and included all their income in the one return. Their income is over $5,000 so they must enter their adjusted gross income of $6,950.47 on Line 1 of page 3. Their tax computation will be discussed in the 14th article.

Note how separate statements have been filled out to support the deductions in Item 2 for travel expenses and in Schedule F. These statements should be securely attached to the return before it is sent to the Collector.

Tax Primer Q. & A.

Q. Could John and Jane Public have used the yellow Form 1040A to report the income shown above?

A. No, for two reasons. First, their income is over $5,000 so it must be reported on Form 1040 and second, Item 3 is over $100.

Q. Should I keep a copy of all returns, schedules and statements sent to the Collector?

A. Yes, keep them for 3 years. If the Bureau then questions any item you will have information to help you answer the questions. The Bureau ordinarily has 3 years from March 15, 1951 (if you file on time) to question your 1950 return. This is discussed more fully in article 15.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Player Capitalised On His Good Luck

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"Please answer a question about a very lucky hand," asks a Milwaukee correspondent. "We are wondering just how lucky the player was on this hand.

"East played the queen of clubs on his partner's opening lead of the king. West obediently continued with a low club, and dummy ruffed with the three of diamonds.

"South decided that if West had passed with the ace and king of clubs, he could not have much else. Moreover, East's anxiety to shorten dummy's trumps was an additional indication of the location of the queen of diamonds. Therefore declarer cashed the king of diamonds and led the jack of diamonds for a finesse.

"South's troubles were not yet over. He still had a club to get rid of. He entered his hand with a heart to draw the last trump, discarding a low spade from dummy. Then he led the ten of spades to the ace and ruffed a spade. He entered dummy with a heart to ruff another spade with his last trump. Since the king and queen of spades dropped during this process, the dummy was now established.

"What we would like to know is this: Are the chances ordinarily so favorable to set up the jack of spades for the twelfth trick—or do you call this South just plain lucky?"

The chances are not ordinarily so favorable. The jack of spades will become established only if one opponent has the blank king-queen of spades or the king-queen with one small spade. This will happen just slightly more than 10 per cent of the time. The odds, to put it another way, are about 9 to 1 against such a fortunate break in spades.

I would not, however, say that this particular South player was just plain lucky. He bid his hand properly and played it for all it was worth. Angels can do no more.

If I were pressed, I would say that North was the lucky player. He overbid his hand and then was lucky enough to have a partner good enough to make the most of the partnership assets.

If North was so determined to bid a slam, he should have bid it in hearts. That slam would be made with a successful diamond finesse, even if the spades didn't become established!

For example, suppose a trump is led against a contract of six hearts (as good a lead as any). South wins with the ace, cashes the ace of spades, and ruffs a spade in the South hand. North wins the next trick with the king of diamonds and ruffs another spade in the South hand. (We will assume that this does not set up the rest of the spades.)

South now leads his last heart to North, and North leads a third heart to draw the last trump. South can discard a club on this trick (having used up two of his trumps ruffing spades). The diamond is then finessed, and South runs the rest of the diamond suit, discarding two of North's three losing cards in the black suits. And that would be that.

Your Income Tax Primer

Travel Expenses of John Public

I spent two days away from Glenrich on a business trip. I drove my own car. The trip covered 500 miles.

My car cost $1800 in 1948. I think it will last 9 years so it depreciates 20% each year, or $300. Eight per cent of my driving was for this out-of-town trip so I claim 8% of my car expenses below.

State tax on gasoline for business use is included in the gasoline item below.

Car registration (8%)	$ 9.70
Depreciation (8%)	24.00
Gasoline (8%)	7.16
Oil (8%)	1.04
Repairs (8%)	5.00
Insurance (8%)	3.00
Hotel and meals while away	6.30
Total Expenditure	$60.00
Reimbursed by employer	0
Net cost to me	$60.00

Rented Room

During 1950, we rented one room of our six room house. The house cost us $10,000. We computed depreciation on one-sixth of this amount. The expenses of operating the house were as follows:

Heat	$125.00
Lights	29.14
Hired maid service	210.40
Repairs and maintenance	46.97
Water charge	48.00
Insurance	70.49
Total Expense	$570.00

We are charging one-sixth of these expenses, or $95.00, to the rented room. This is deducted in Column 3 of Schedule F.

By RICHARD A. MULLENS
NEA Special Correspondent

If you have followed the explanations in the first nine articles, your income is now shown correctly on the return.

On page 1, add Items 2 and 3 and enter the total in Item 4. This is called your adjusted gross income.

If you adjusted gross income is less than $5,000 you may compute your tax by using the tax table on the back, or page 4, of the return. This table automatically allows you about 10 per cent of your adjusted gross income for charitable contributions, interest, taxes, medical expenses, and the like. If such deductions exceed 10 per cent of Item 4, it will usually be to your advantage to itemize them and compute your tax on page 3. The next article will give detailed instructions on when it is wise to use the tax table.

John and Jane Public are a purely imaginary couple used by the Income Tax Primer to illustrate how a couple with two dependents prepares a tax return. They have been given more problems than most taxpayers in order to show how different parts of the return are filled in.

Their income tax return, as gradually filled out and explained in these articles, is shown here. The adjusted gross income, Item 4, is $6,950.47. This includes all the taxable income of both husband and wife.

In order to take advantage of the "split-income" provisions, they have filed a joint return and included all their income in the one return. Their income is over $5,000 so they must enter their adjusted gross income of $6,950.47 on Line 1 of page 3. Their tax computation will be discussed in the 14th article.

Note how separate statements have been filled out to support the deductions in Item 2 for travel expenses and in Schedule F. These statements should be securely attached to the return before it is sent to the Collector.

Tax Primer Q. & A.

Q. Could John and Jane Public have used the yellow Form 1040A to report the income shown above?

A. No, for two reasons. First, their income is over $5,000 so it must be reported on Form 1040 and second, Item 3 is over $100.

Q. Should I keep a copy of all returns, schedules and statements sent to the Collector?

A. Yes, keep them for 3 years. If the Bureau then questions any item you will have information to help you answer the questions. The Bureau ordinarily has 3 years from March 15, 1951 (if you file on time) to question your 1950 return. This is discussed more fully in article 15.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Player Capitalised On His Good Luck

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"Please answer a question about a very lucky hand," asks a Milwaukee correspondent. "We are wondering just how lucky the player was on this hand.

"East played the queen of clubs on his partner's opening lead of the king. West obediently continued with a low club, and dummy ruffed with the three of diamonds.

"South decided that if West had passed with the ace and king of clubs, he could not have much else. Moreover, East's anxiety to shorten dummy's trumps was an additional indication of the location of the queen of diamonds. Therefore declarer cashed the king of diamonds and led the jack of diamonds for a finesse.

"South's troubles were not yet over. He still had a club to get rid of. He entered his hand with a heart to draw the last trump, discarding a low spade from dummy. Then he led the ten of spades to the ace and ruffed a spade. He entered dummy with a heart to ruff another spade with his last trump. Since the king and queen of spades dropped during this process, the dummy was now established.

"What we would like to know is this: Are the chances ordinarily so favorable to set up the jack of spades for the twelfth trick—or do you call this South just plain lucky?"

The chances are not ordinarily so favorable. The jack of spades will become established only if one opponent has the blank king-queen of spades or the king-queen with one small spade. This will happen just slightly more than 10 per cent of the time. The odds, to put it another way, are about 9 to 1 against such a fortunate break in spades.

I would not, however, say that this particular South player was just plain lucky. He bid his hand properly and played it for all it was worth. Angels can do no more.

If I were pressed, I would say that North was the lucky player. He overbid his hand and then was lucky enough to have a partner good enough to make the most of the partnership assets.

If North was so determined to bid a slam, he should have bid it in hearts. That slam would be made with a successful diamond finesse, even if the spades didn't become established!

For example, suppose a trump is led against a contract of six hearts (as good a lead as any). South wins with the ace, cashes the ace of spades, and ruffs a spade in the South hand. North wins the next trick with the king of diamonds and ruffs another spade in the South hand. (We will assume that this does not set up the rest of the spades.)

South now leads his last heart to North, and North leads a third heart to draw the last trump. South can discard a club on this trick (having used up two of his trumps ruffing spades). The diamond is then finessed, and South runs the rest of the diamond suit, discarding two of North's three losing cards in the black suits. And that would be that.

Giant Tree

It has been estimated that the volume of the "General Sherman," a Sequoia tree reputed to be the world's largest living thing, exceeds 600,000 board feet. The tree stands 273 feet tall and has a base diameter of 37 feet.

Three Youths Held

mitted the following burglaries:

Theft of $40 from Public School No. 2 on November 22, 1950.

Entry into Public School No. 3 on December 6, from which the safe was reportedly carried away and later located behind St. Mary's Church and rectory, pried apart. Considerable money remained in the safe, however, and was recovered, troopers said.

Theft of approximately $5 from the Esso station on East Chester street at Flatbush avenue on December 12.

$175 From Esposito's

During the month of November, the theft of about $175 from Esposito's dry cleaning establishment on Broadway. One week later, two of the trio, Ricketson and Suskie, broke into the same place and obtained about $17, according to statements from the two as reported by troopers. The three, according to the statements, broke in again later in the month and reportedly obtained about $2.

In the early part of December, the Tydol gasoline station at Foxhall avenue and Flatbush avenue was entered and three flashlights taken.

On December 9, the McGill Coal Company office was entered, but nothing taken.

A shoe repair shop at Foxhall avenue and Delaware avenue was entered twice in October, the first time about $10 was reported missing and the second time about $4 missing.

Also on the statements as reported by Reilly was the attempted burglary in October of the John Ashdown service station on the Boulevard, during which the trio was scared away when a police car passed nearby.

Ricketson and Hendricks further admitted, according to troopers, breaking into the Empire Cleaners office on Broadway and carrying the cash register to the railroad tracks, where it was pried open and about $7 taken, and in another instance, entering St. Mary's School on Broadway, from which nothing was reported missing. Suskie was not involved in th[illegible]wo reported admissions.

[illegible]skie and Ricketson admitted, according to Reilly, the Schwenk's Bakery theft on the night of December 2 and 3, in which entry was made through a skylight and more than $100 taken from a cash drawer that was pried open with a screwdriver. Hendricks was not involved in this admission.

Dykstra Gave Invocation

At the opening session of the New York State Legislature Wednesday in Albany the Rev. J. Dean Dykstra, minister at the Fair Street Reformed Church, gave the invocation. The Rev. Mr. Dykstra is pastor of the church attended by Majority Leader of the Senate Arthur H. Wicks.

The average residential electrical bill in 1949 was $49.88, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Re-Hearing Refused

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—The United States Court of Appeals today unanimously refused to grant a re-hearing of an appeal by Alger Hiss, former State Department official, on his perjury conviction. The 46-year-old defendant, sentenced last year to five years imprisonment, is free in $10,000 bail pending final disposition of his case by the U. S. Supreme Court.

Three Youths Held

mitted the following burglaries:

Theft of $40 from Public School No. 2 on November 22, 1950.

Entry into Public School No. 3 on December 6, from which the safe was reportedly carried away and later located behind St. Mary's Church and rectory, pried apart. Considerable money remained in the safe, however, and was recovered, troopers said.

Theft of approximately $5 from the Esso station on East Chester street at Flatbush avenue on December 12.

$175 From Esposito's

During the month of November, the theft of about $175 from Esposito's dry cleaning establishment on Broadway. One week later, two of the trio, Ricketson and Suskie, broke into the same place and obtained about $17, according to statements from the two as reported by troopers. The three, according to the statements, broke in again later in the month and reportedly obtained about $2.

In the early part of December, the Tydol gasoline station at Foxhall avenue and Flatbush avenue was entered and three flashlights taken.

On December 9, the McGill Coal Company office was entered, but nothing taken.

A shoe repair shop at Foxhall avenue and Delaware avenue was entered twice in October, the first time about $10 was reported missing and the second time about $4 missing.

Also on the statements as reported by Reilly was the attempted burglary in October of the John Ashdown service station on the Boulevard, during which the trio was scared away when a police car passed nearby.

Ricketson and Hendricks further admitted, according to troopers, breaking into the Empire Cleaners office on Broadway and carrying the cash register to the railroad tracks, where it was pried open and about $7 taken, and in another instance, entering St. Mary's School on Broadway, from which nothing was reported missing. Suskie was not involved in the two reported admissions.

Suskie and Ricketson admitted, according to Reilly, the Schwenk's Bakery theft on the night of December 2 and 3, in which entry was made through a skylight and more than $100 taken from a cash drawer that was pried open with a screwdriver. Hendricks was not involved in this admission.

Lady From Hades—

58 in New York

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—New Yorkers basked in balmy weather today with the temperature climbing to 58 degrees at 9 a. m. The all-time record for the day was set a year ago with a 65.6 degree reading.

"Your Federal Income Tax" the guide to figuring your 1950 income tax is available at the Freeman offices.

Arrested at New Paltz

Louis Charbonneau, 51, of New Paltz was arrested at that village Wednesday on a warrant from Oneida county charging non-support. He was released on $200 bail for appearance in Children's Court at Rome on January 12. The arrest was made by County Investigator Leonard Belmore, Deputies Carl Cline and Leonard Newkirk of the sheriff's office.

Buffalo, N. Y., forms the western terminus of the Erie Canal.

Dykstra Gave Invocation

At the opening session of the New York State Legislature Wednesday in Albany the Rev. J. Dean Dykstra, minister at the Fair Street Reformed Church, gave the invocation. The Rev. Mr. Dykstra is pastor of the church attended by Majority Leader of the Senate Arthur H. Wicks.

The average residential electrical bill in 1949 was $49.88, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Re-Hearing Refused

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—The United States Court of Appeals today unanimously refused to grant a re-hearing of an appeal by Alger Hiss, former State Department official, on his perjury conviction. The 46-year-old defendant, sentenced last year to five years imprisonment, is free in $10,000 bail pending final disposition of his case by the U. S. Supreme Court.

Party Is Held for Departing Trio

Nuncio Avella, left, president of Johnny's "50 Club" presents going away gifts to Jack Eigo, army draftee; Ronald Diers, navy enlistee; and Duke Fatheree, a veteran of 22 years of naval service who has been recalled to active duty during the special party Wednesday night at Worf's Restaurant. Also looking on are Richard Smith, vice-president, and Peter Murphy, secretary of the club. About 40 attended the party for the three members. The gifts were given by Thomas Coughlin, former alderman. (Freeman Photo)

Swift Approval Is

to carry out the balance of the governor's program would be introduced within a few days. These include measures to set up a state defense council and others to broaden the state's powers under the State Civil Defense Commission.

Some controversies were expected to crop up—even among the Republicans themselves—on residential rent control, possible changes in unemployment insurance payments and taxes on employers, and over possible attempts to whittle the 80 per cent reimbursement to localities now paid by the state for home relief expenditures.

A quick showdown on one explosive issue was hinted today as the temporary state rent commission sponsored amendments designed to plug possible legal loopholes in the state's rent control law, enacted last year.

Fight Is Promised

Some Democratic legislators have promised to fight for what they term a "fairer" rent law.

The traditional battle over legalizing the sale of pre-colored, yellow oleomargarine was expected. Demands of the armed forces for available butter supplies may give the oleo supporters hope for at least temporary authorization to sell the yellow oleo.

Most legislators, including leaders of both parties, expect final adjournment on or about March 15.

Several administration measures introduced yesterday dealt with what their sponsor called the "most sweeping" powers ever proposed for getting the state's militia ready for federal and home-front duty.

Becker Offers Bills

Assemblyman Frank J. Becker of Lynbrook, chairman of the joint legislative committee on military law revision, introduced his bills after conferring with Dewey yesterday.

They would set up a state guard, and give the governor authority to create additional militia if and when New York National Guard and State Guard units were called into federal service.

Another Becker bill would permit the governor to join the states in mutual-aid compacts, which would involve the emergency interchange of police, firemen and facilities. Dewey and Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll of New Jersey already have signed such a pact.

Other Measures

Other Dewey-sponsored measures introduced yesterday would:

1. Exempt from state income tax payments until Dec. 31, 1952, or until the end of the emergency, the military pay of New Yorkers in the armed forces.

2. Exempt members of the armed forces, who are stationed in the state but live elsewhere, from New York's state's income tax payments.

3 Guarantee job protection for all public employes who enter military service. Similar safeguards, now in effect, do not cover those who volunteer for duty.

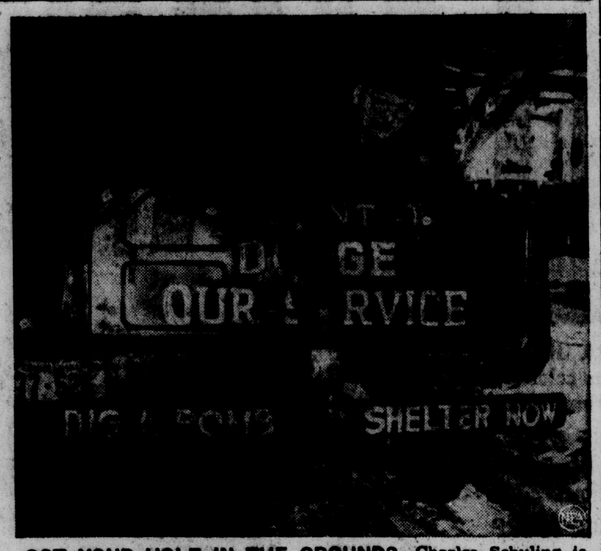

4. Help eliminate calendar congestion in New York city courts by permitting the justice of the Appellate Division of State Supreme Court to shift judges in city courts to speed up settlement of pending cases.

5. Give the required second approval by the Legislature of a proposed constitutional amendment to permit the state to put its credit behind bonds issued by the State Thruway Authority.

6. Continue for another year, to Aug. 31, 1952, the state's five temporary institutes of applied arts and sciences, which are located in New York, Buffalo, White Plains, Binghamton and Utica.

7. Continue for another year the state's commission on school-building construction, and the state's emergency housing law.

The latter, originally enacted in 1946, is designed to protect tenants in temporary veterans' housing projects.

ESOPUS

Esopus, Jan. 4—The W.S.C.S. of the Methodist Church will hold its meeting on Wednesday, Jan. 10, at the home of Mrs. Nelson Hooper at 2 p. m. Members are asked to bring or send their rainy day bags.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Esopus Fire Department will hold its regular meeting on Tuesday, Jan. 9 at 8 p. m. in the firehouse.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Polhemus of Port Ewen were Monday night guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Mott.

Mrs. Elizabeth Messner is ill at her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ackert of West Park were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Lancer.

Methodist Church services will be held as usual on Sunday with a supply minister officiating due to the illness of the pastor, the Rev. R. D. Watson.

Party Is Held for Departing Trio

Nuncio Avella, left, president of Johnny's "50 Club" presents going away gifts to Jack Eigo, army draftee; Ronald Diers, navy enlistee; and Duke Fatheree, a veteran of 22 years of naval service who has been recalled to active duty during the special party Wednesday night at Worf's Restaurant. Also looking on are Richard Smith, vice-president, and Peter Murphy, secretary of the club. About 40 attended the party for the three members. The gifts were given by Thomas Coughlin, former alderman. (Freeman Photo)

Swift Approval Is

to carry out the balance of the governor's program would be introduced within a few days. These include measures to set up a state defense council and others to broaden the state's powers under the State Civil Defense Commission.

Some controversies were expected to crop up—even among the Republicans themselves—on residential rent control, possible changes in unemployment insurance payments and taxes on employers, and over possible attempts to whittle the 80 per cent reimbursement to localities now paid by the state for home relief expenditures.

A quick showdown on one explosive issue was hinted today as the temporary state rent commission sponsored amendments designed to plug possible legal loopholes in the state's rent control law, enacted last year.

Fight Is Promised

Some Democratic legislators have promised to fight for what they term a "fairer" rent law.

The traditional battle over legalizing the sale of pre-colored, yellow oleomargarine was expected. Demands of the armed forces for available butter supplies may give the oleo supporters hope for at least temporary authorization to sell the yellow oleo.

Most legislators, including leaders of both parties, expect final adjournment on or about March 15.

Several administration measures introduced yesterday dealt with what their sponsor called the "most sweeping" powers ever proposed for getting the state's militia ready for federal and home-front duty.

Becker Offers Bills

Assemblyman Frank J. Becker of Lynbrook, chairman of the joint legislative committee on military law revision, introduced his bills after conferring with Dewey yesterday.

They would set up a state guard, and give the governor authority to create additional militia if and when New York National Guard and State Guard units were called into federal service.

Another Becker bill would permit the governor to join the states in mutual-aid compacts, which would involve the emergency interchange of police, firemen and facilities. Dewey and Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll of New Jersey already have signed such a pact.

Other Measures

Other Dewey-sponsored measures introduced yesterday would:

1. Exempt from state income tax payments until Dec. 31, 1952, or until the end of the emergency, the military pay of New Yorkers in the armed forces.

2. Exempt members of the armed forces, who are stationed in the state but live elsewhere, from New York's state's income tax payments.

3 Guarantee job protection for all public employes who enter military service. Similar safeguards, now in effect, do not cover those who volunteer for duty.

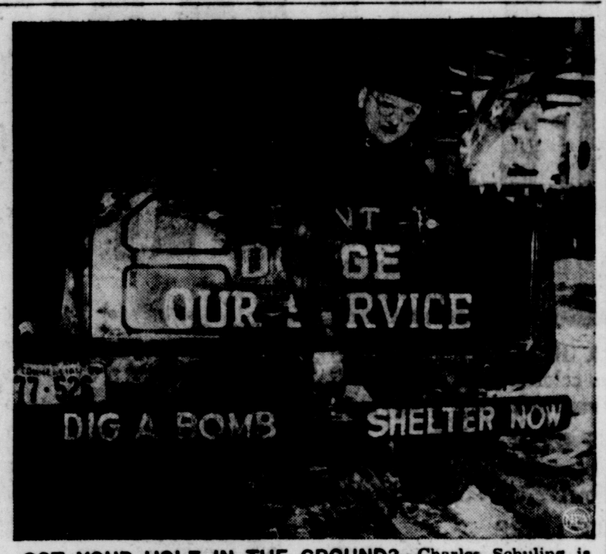

4. Help eliminate calendar congestion in New York city courts by permitting the justice of the Appellate Division of State Supreme Court to shift judges in city courts to speed up settlement of pending cases.

5. Give the required second approval by the Legislature of a proposed constitutional amendment to permit the state to put its credit behind bonds issued by the State Thruway Authority.

6. Continue for another year, to Aug. 31, 1952, the state's five temporary institutes of applied arts and sciences, which are located in New York, Buffalo, White Plains, Binghamton and Utica.

7. Continue for another year the state's commission on school-building construction, and the state's emergency housing law.

Beef, Pork and Coffee Jump; Eggs, Greens Cut

(By The Associated Press)

Retail prices of many beef and pork items and most chain store bag-packed coffees climbed a little higher in this first week of the new year. Eggs and several fresh vegetables were lower.

Advances in beef cuts ranged from one to six cents a pound, while loin chops and other popular pork items were as much as 10 cents a pound higher in some places. The increases had been expected because of higher wholesale prices last week after storms reduced shipments to livestock markets. Veal and lamb held about unchanged at retail.

Major store chains hiked their bag-packed coffee brands two cents a pound, citing higher green coffee costs in the past few weeks. Large independent roasters of nationally-advertised canned coffees —marked up last month—made no new adjustments.

Retail grades of eggs declined two to four cents in most marketing centers. Poultry was about unchanged and butter edged a cent or two a pound higher in scattered sections.

Vegetables Down

Of the fresh vegetables, spinach was marked down the most as shipments from Virginia and Texas improved. Also lower: Beets, snap beans, cauliflower, pascal celery, escarole, big Boston lettuce, peas. Most oranges, pink grapefruit and pears also edged a little lower. Cabbage, golden heart celery, cranberries, cucumbers, grapes and best tangerines were slightly higher on many produce counters.

Butter was removed from list of government surplus foods for sale and the Credit Commodity Corp. announced it had scarcely enough left to meet earlier sales commitments and provide for the school lunch program. Only last July, government stocks of butter acquired through the price support program totaled around 192,000,000 pounds. The CCC suspended butter sales to the trade two weeks ago after holdings had dwindled sharply. The trade bought heavily in recent months to bolster commercial production running behind consumption. Relief agencies also got millions of pounds.

Other commodities also removed from the government's list of items available for domestic sales included American cheese, dried lima beans, flaxseed, dry edible peas and grain sorghums. Dropped from the list of export commodities for sale were flaxseed, corn, oats, barley and grain sorghums. Officials said the lists were revised because of possible defense needs.

Olive Oil Scarce

The Agriculture Department reported that production of Olive Oil in Mediterranean countries, principally Spain, Italy and Greece, is running nearly 40 per cent below last season's because of drouth and other unfavorable weather, and insect damage. Retail prices are higher than they were six months ago, but still about the same as in 1940.

Cocoa producing nations estimate their output for the season ending next April 30 at 1,687,000,000 pounds of cocoa beans—just a shade under last season but 7 per cent over the 1935-40 average.

The Dun & Bradstreet wholesale food price index advanced to $6.93 this week from $6.90 last week, was nearly 21 per cent higher than a year ago and highest since mid-September of 1948. This index has not declined since last October 10, when it was $6.48. And this week's figure compares with $5.96 just before the Korean war began. The index represents the total wholesale cost of a pound each of 31 foods in general use.

Fertilizer Dealers Will Hear Specialist

Ulster county seed and fertilizer dealers will meet in Kingston at the Court House on Thursday, Jan. 11, to discuss the 1951 recommendations on seeding and fertilizing of field crops, according to Clarence Padgham, assistant county agricultural agent. All dealers in Ulster and adjoining counties are invited to attend this meeting, which is one of 11 conferences held throughout the state.

Prof. S. R. Aldrich, crop specialist and Prof. A. A. Johnson, plant breeding specialist at Cornell, will discuss 1951 fertilizer recommendations; performance of certified seed, new crop problems facing farmers, and the adaptation of European and Empire birdsfoot to certain field conditions.

Advice for Railroaders

A representative of the Railroad Retirement Board will be at the examiner's room, second floor, New York Central Railroad station, on Wednesday, Jan. 10, between 1 p. m. and 4 p. m. for the purpose of rendering assistance and advice to railroad workers in connection with matters concerning applications for retirement, applications for death benefits, and answering any inquiries in connection with the Railroad Retirement and Railroad Unemployment Insurance Acts.

Changed to April

The annual dinner of the Ulster County Real Estate Board which had been scheduled for January 8, has been postponed until April. Lawrence J. MacAvery, secretary of the local board, in announcing the postponement stated that the date in April would be set at a meeting of the board of directors. The new date will be announced.

Introduced Banjo

The banjo was introduced into the United States by Negro slaves. Its name is a corruption of the Italian bandore and the Portuguese bandura derived from the Greek pandoura, a three-stringed instrument.

Rapid Hose Meeting

The annual meeting of Rapid Hose Company will be held tonight at 8 o'clock.

TANGERINES PUT ZIP IN SALADS

TANGERINES, on the plentiful list, make sharp salads.

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

Oranges, grapefruit and tangerines, all first-grade sources of essential vitamin C, are way up in the January plentiful list of foods. Therefore, this is a good time to make the wise resolution to get adequate amounts of citrus fruit into your family menus EVERY DAY of the year.

Serve citrus fruit juices, citrus fruit sections or citrus fruit salads at least once every day.

Here are some fresh ideas using tangerines, the kid-glove fruit from Florida. Being members of the vitamin C family in first-rate standing, they can play an important role in family pleasure and nutrition.

Tangerine Dessert Cups
(6 servings)

Six tangerines, 1 grapefruit, 2 tablespoons sugar, optional, 6 pitted dates, cut.

Cut tangerine peel into 8 sections; peel about 2/3 of the way. Carefully remove tangerine sections from tangerine "cup." Cut sections in half with scissors. To section grapefruit, cut off peel in strips from top to bottom. Go over fruit again, removing any remaining white membrane. Cut along side of each dividing membrane from outside to middle of core. Remove section by section. Cut sections with a scissors into thirds. Combine with tangerine sections; sprinkle with sugar if desired. Arrange fruit in tangerine "cups"; top with date pieces.

Tangerine Slaw
(6 servings)

Three tangerines, 4 cups shredded cabbage, 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper, ½ teaspoon celery seed, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon dry mustard, 2 tablespoons vinegar, ½ cup mayonnaise.

Peel tangerines; remove white membrane. Cut sections in thirds; combine with cabbage and chopped pepper. Add celery seed, salt, mustard and vinegar to mayonnaise; blend. Pour dressing over salad and toss well.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Grapefruit juice, shredded wheat, muffins, butter or fortified margarine, coffee, milk.

Blood Vesel Bank Set Up

San Francisco (AP)—Blood vessels will be put in the bank at the University of California School of Medicine here. Surgeons in this area can draw on the bank and it is expected to save many lives. It is explained that the blood vessels are used as grafts in operations.

Value of Milk

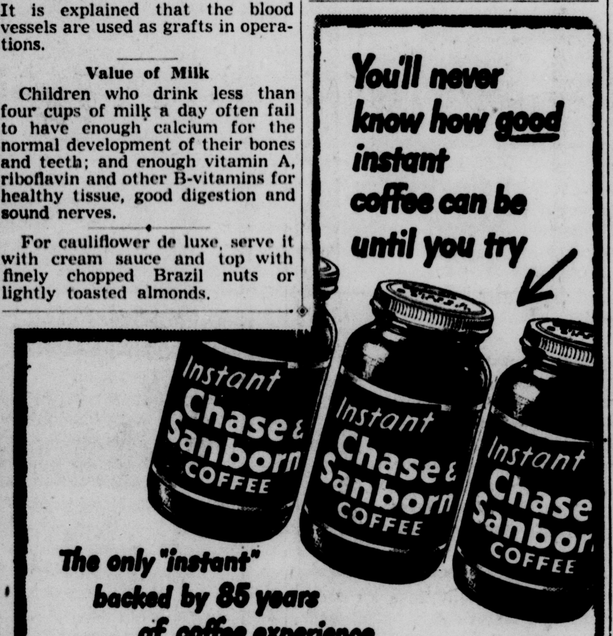

Children who drink less than four cups of milk a day often fail to have enough calcium for the normal development of their bones and teeth; and enough vitamin A, riboflavin and other B-vitamins for healthy tissue, good digestion and sound nerves.

For cauliflower de luxe, serve it with cream sauce and top with finely chopped Brazil nuts or lightly toasted almonds.

Cream Taploca Pudding

Alternate slices of banana and orange around cream taploca pudding for a fresh-tasting dessert. Or fold crushed peppermint stick candy into the pudding and serve with a chocolate sauce.

You'll never know how good instant coffee can be until you try

PHOENICIA

Phoenicia, Jan. 3—The Rev. and Mrs. Dow MacBain entertained Mrs. MacBain's family at Christmas dinner Dec. 23. Her father, Harvey S. Lane and all his daughters with their families were present. Four generations were represented at the affair. His great granddaughter, Carol Shirley Flick sat in her great grandfather's high chair for dinner. In the afternoon she was christened by her great uncle, the Rev. Mr. MacBain. Carol's great grandmother, grandmother and grandfather of Westkill were present at the service.

Beef, Pork and Coffee Jump; Eggs, Greens Cut

(By The Associated Press)

Retail prices of many beef and pork items and most chain store bag-packed coffees climbed a little higher in this first week of the new year. Eggs and several fresh vegetables were lower.

Advances in beef cuts ranged from one to six cents a pound, while loin chops and other popular pork items were as much as 10 cents a pound higher in some places. The increases had been expected because of higher wholesale prices last week after storms reduced shipments to livestock markets. Veal and lamb held about unchanged at retail.

Major store chains hiked their bag-packed coffee brands two cents a pound, citing higher green coffee costs in the past few weeks. Large independent roasters of nationally-advertised canned coffees —marked up last month—made no new adjustments.

Retail grades of eggs declined two to four cents in most marketing centers. Poultry was about unchanged and butter edged a cent or two a pound higher in scattered sections.

Vegetables Down

Of the fresh vegetables, spinach was marked down the most as shipments from Virginia and Texas improved. Also lower: Beets, snap beans, cauliflower, pascal celery, escarole, big Boston lettuce, peas. Most oranges, pink grapefruit and pears also edged a little lower. Cabbage, golden heart celery, cranberries, cucumbers, grapes and best tangerines were slightly higher on many produce counters.

Butter was removed from list of government surplus foods for sale and the Credit Commodity Corp. announced it had scarcely enough left to meet earlier sales commitments and provide for the school lunch program. Only last July, government stocks of butter acquired through the price support program totaled around 192,000,000 pounds. The CCC suspended butter sales to the trade two weeks ago after holdings had dwindled sharply. The trade bought heavily in recent months to bolster commercial production running behind consumption. Relief agencies also got millions of pounds.

Other commodities also removed from the government's list of items available for domestic sales included American cheese, dried lima beans, flaxseed, dry edible peas and grain sorghums. Dropped from the list of export commodities for sale were flaxseed, corn, oats, barley and grain sorghums. Officials said the lists were revised because of possible defense needs.

Olive Oil Scarce

The Agriculture Department reported that production of Olive Oil in Mediterranean countries, principally Spain, Italy and Greece, is running nearly 40 per cent below last season's because of drouth and other unfavorable weather, and insect damage. Retail prices are higher than they were six months ago, but still about the same as in 1940.

Cocoa producing nations estimate their output for the season ending next April 30 at 1,687,000,000 pounds of cocoa beans—just a shade under last season but 7 per cent over the 1935-40 average.

The Dun & Bradstreet wholesale food price index advanced to $6.93 this week from $6.90 last week, was nearly 21 per cent higher than a year ago and highest since mid-September of 1948. This index has not declined since last October 10, when it was $6.48. And this week's figure compares with $5.96 just before the Korean war began. The index represents the total wholesale cost of a pound each of 31 foods in general use.

Fertilizer Dealers Will Hear Specialist

Ulster county seed and fertilizer dealers will meet in Kingston at the Court House on Thursday, Jan. 11, to discuss the 1951 recommendations on seeding and fertilizing of field crops, according to Clarence Padgham, assistant county agricultural agent. All dealers in Ulster and adjoining counties are invited to attend this meeting, which is one of 11 conferences held throughout the state.

Prof. S. R. Aldrich, crop specialist and Prof. A. A. Johnson, plant breeding specialist at Cornell, will discuss 1951 fertilizer recommendations; performance of certified seed, new crop problems facing farmers, and the adaptation of European and Empire birdsfoot to certain field conditions.

Advice for Railroaders

A representative of the Railroad Retirement Board will be at the examiner's room, second floor, New York Central Railroad station, on Wednesday, Jan. 10, between 1 p. m. and 4 p. m. for the purpose of rendering assistance and advice to railroad workers in connection with matters concerning applications for retirement, applications for death benefits, and answering any inquiries in connection with the Railroad Retirement and Railroad Unemployment Insurance Acts.

Changed to April

The annual dinner of the Ulster County Real Estate Board which had been scheduled for January 8, has been postponed until April. Lawrence J. MacAvery, secretary of the local board, in announcing the postponement stated that the date in April would be set at a meeting of the board of directors. The new date will be announced.

Introduced Banjo

The banjo was introduced into the United States by Negro slaves. Its name is a corruption of the Italian bandore and the Portuguese bandura derived from the Greek pandoura, a three-stringed instrument.

Rapid Hose Meeting

The annual meeting of Rapid Hose Company will be held tonight at 8 o'clock.

TANGERINES PUT ZIP IN SALADS

TANGERINES, on the plentiful list, make sharp salads.

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

Oranges, grapefruit and tangerines, all first-grade sources of essential vitamin C, are way up in the January plentiful list of foods. Therefore, this is a good time to make the wise resolution to get adequate amounts of citrus fruit into your family menus EVERY DAY of the year.

Serve citrus fruit juices, citrus fruit sections or citrus fruit salads at least once every day.

Here are some fresh ideas using tangerines, the kid-glove fruit from Florida. Being members of the vitamin C family in first-rate standing, they can play an important role in family pleasure and nutrition.

Tangerine Dessert Cups
(6 servings)

Six tangerines, 1 grapefruit, 2 tablespoons sugar, optional, 6 pitted dates, cut.

Cut tangerine peel into 8 sections; peel about 2/3 of the way. Carefully remove tangerine sections from tangerine "cup." Cut sections in half with scissors. To section grapefruit, cut off peel in strips from top to bottom. Go over fruit again, removing any remaining white membrane. Cut along side of each dividing membrane from outside to middle of core. Remove section by section. Cut sections with a scissors into thirds. Combine with tangerine sections; sprinkle with sugar if desired. Arrange fruit in tangerine "cups"; top with date pieces.

Tangerine Slaw
(6 servings)

Three tangerines, 4 cups shredded cabbage, 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper, ½ teaspoon celery seed, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon dry mustard, 2 tablespoons vinegar, ½ cup mayonnaise.

Peel tangerines; remove white membrane. Cut sections in thirds; combine with cabbage and chopped pepper. Add celery seed, salt, mustard and vinegar to mayonnaise; blend. Pour dressing over salad and toss well.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Grapefruit juice, shredded wheat, muffins, butter or fortified margarine, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Tomato rabbit on buttered toast, red cabbage salad, honey-nut cookies, tea, milk.

Blood Vesel Bank Set Up

San Francisco (AP)—Blood vessels will be put in the bank at the University of California School of Medicine here. Surgeons in this area can draw on the bank and it is expected to save many lives. It is explained that the blood vessels are used as grafts in operations.

Value of Milk

Children who drink less than four cups of milk a day often fail to have enough calcium for the normal development of their bones and teeth; and enough vitamin A, riboflavin and other B-vitamins for healthy tissue, good digestion and sound nerves.

For cauliflower de luxe, serve it with cream sauce and top with finely chopped Brazil nuts or lightly toasted almonds.

Cream Tapioca Pudding

Alternate slices of banana and orange around cream tapioca pudding for a fresh-tasting dessert. Or fold crushed peppermint stick candy into the pudding and serve with a chocolate sauce.

PHOENICIA

Phoenicia, Jan. 3—The Rev. and Mrs. Dow MacBain entertained Mrs. MacBain's family at Christmas dinner Dec. 23. Her father, Harvey S. Lane and all his daughters with their families were present. Four generations were represented at the affair. His great granddaughter, Carol Shirley Flick sat in her great grandfather's high chair for dinner. In the afternoon she was christened by her great uncle, the Rev. Mr. MacBain. Carol's great grandmother, grandmother and grandfather of Westkill were present at the service.

Book Club Reviews 'The Mature Mind'

A review of H. A. Overstreet's current best seller, "The Mature Mind" highlighted the last meeting of the Kingston Book Club, when the group met Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Alex Parnett, 17 Sharon Lane. The book, it was stressed, points out "with admirable clarity the nature of the mature adult, and suggests ways in which most of us can achieve a greater degree of maturity."

The group will meet again January 23 at the home of Mrs. Julius Sippen, when Mrs. Murray Fletcher will review "The Sky is Red" by Giuseppi Berto.

Hartwick Open To New Graduates

Oneonta, Jan. 4 — Mid-year graduates of area high schools may enroll February 5 and 6 at Hartwick College, college officials announced today. Second semester classes will begin February 7.

In addition to the standard four year liberal arts program, it has also been announced, Hartwick offers special training in business administration, teaching of general commercial subjects, music education, and nursing.

Hartwick College has further announced that the Board of Regents of the University of the State of New York recently approved the two degrees of Associate in Arts (A.A.), and Associate in Applied Science, (A.A.S.), Both degrees may be awarded to graduates of registered curricula of two years or more in length.

The college has invited those high school graduates who are interested to visit Hartwick, and confer with college officials.

Prisma President and a Foreign Friend

Swedish Student, Prisma Sponsored, Visits Kingston

She looks the way Scandinavians are supposed to look, tall and blue eyed, with fair hair, and fairer skin. When she speaks, there's only the barest trace of an accent, and her name, Kerstin Bjoerkquist, is an impossible tongue twister for most of the Americans she meets. Almost the first thing you notice is her poise, and dignity, while her smile is an open invitation to friendship.

Kerstin Bjoerkquist, whose year of study in the United States is being sponsored by Prisma, and the American Field Service, is an exchange scholarship student at the Westover School, Cnnecticut. This week she visited in Kingston, staying with two of the city's high school students, learning her way about the school's long corridors, attending classes, and making friends with many of the young Kingstonians who helped make her trip possible.

Kingston Impressions

Kerstin's impressions of the city are a kaleidoscope of merging scenes. When she arrived here December 29, after spending part of her holidays with her prep school roommate, and part in Newark as the guest of the American Field Service, she stayed at the home of Nancy Bogert. The last few days of her visit, which ended today, were spent with Nancy Anderson in Hurley.

"I have seen so much, I hardly know what I have seen," she admits, "but it is the same here as everywhere else I have been in America. I just can't grow accustomed to the fantastic kindness and friendliness I meet with as a foreigner. It is not only the young people," she adds. "It is everyone."

A Long Way from Home

Kerstin, who is the daughter of a doctor and the oldest of four sisters, is a long way from home. Although she was born and brought up in Stockholm, a year ago the Bjoerkquists moved to Skelleftea, which is "about the size of your own Kingston," and Sweden's northernmost city.

"It is very far north," Kerstin will tell you ruefully, "almost up to the Arctic Circle, and it is very cold, with lots of snow."

"My parents were quite worried last August when I came to the United States," she continues. "They let me come, of course, but after the Korean crisis, they were a little afraid."

Educational Differences

Boarding school is an entirely new experience for Kerstin, who doesn't quite approve of girls' schools because she feels it develops an unnatural boy-girl relationship.

"American girls seem to associate boys with only good times," she explains, "and hardly ever with work."

Swedish boarding schools she describes as the orphans of Sweden's educational system, for government run schools offer both teacher and student the nation's facilities and opportunities.

"Private schools," Kerstin stresses, "couldn't afford to spend what the government does."

But there are other, more basic differences in the two countries educational systems.

"First of all, there is much greater emphasis on languages," Kerstin laughs. "After all, who could really get along in the world just speaking Swedish."

The entire curriculum, however, reveals differences. In Sweden the average student studies approximately 13 subjects a year, as opposed to our five, "although here," she explains, "you learn much more about each subject you study."

Lecture Method

Class lectures and discussions fascinate Kerstin, who was brought up in an atmosphere of strictly question and answer periods, where each assignment was like a separate test. She feels the emphasis should lie, as it does here, on understanding, rather than memory. Free Saturdays are another point Kerstin favors.

"In Sweden," she sighs, "we go to school six days a week with no free Saturdays."

Kerstin's real ambition, meanwhile, is to direct on the legitimate stage, although she enjoys acting too.

"I don't know whether I have any real talent for directing," she'll tell you," and I think it's a rather hard field to succeed in, but I intend to try."

After she completes what is the equivalent of her high school and junior college education, she plans to attend the University of Uppsala, which she terms as the "best" university in Sweden.

"After I go to the university, if I find I have no talent for directing, then I will switch to teaching."

Meanwhile, as Kerstin's year in the United States draws to a close, she is keeping her fingers crossed.

"If it is at all possible," she explains, "the American Field Service will take us on a tour about the country, and I would so like to see the rest of the United States."

Book Club Reviews 'The Mature Mind'

A review of H. A. Overstreet's current best seller, "The Mature Mind" highlighted the last meeting of the Kingston Book Club, when the group met Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Alex Parnett, 17 Sharon Lane. The book, it was stressed, points out "with admirable clarity the nature of the mature adult, and suggests ways in which most of us can achieve a greater degree of maturity."

The group will meet again January 23 at the home of Mrs. Julius Sippen, when Mrs. Murray Fletcher will review "The Sky is Red" by Giuseppi Berto.

Hartwick Open To New Graduates

Oneonta, Jan. 4 — Mid-year graduates of area high schools may enroll February 5 and 6 at Hartwick College, college officials announced today. Second semester classes will begin February 7.

In addition to the standard four year liberal arts program, it has also been announced, Hartwick offers special training in business administration, teaching of general commercial subjects, music education, and nursing.

Hartwick College has further announced that the Board of Regents of the University of the State of New York recently approved the two degrees of Associate in Arts (A.A.), and Associate in Applied Science, (A.A.S.), Both degrees may be awarded to graduates of registered curricula of two years or more in length.

The college has invited those high school graduates who are interested to visit Hartwick, and confer with college officials.

Prisma President and a Foreign Friend

Swedish Student, Prisma Sponsored, Visits Kingston

She looks the way Scandinavians are supposed to look, tall and blue eyed, with fair hair, and fairer skin. When she speaks, there's only the barest trace of an accent, and her name, Kerstin Bjoerkquist, is an impossible tongue twister for most of the Americans she meets. Almost the first thing you notice is her poise, and dignity, while her smile is an open invitation to friendship.

Kerstin Bjoerkquist, whose year of study in the United States is being sponsored by Prisma, and the American Field Service, is an exchange scholarship student at the Westover School, Cnnecticut. This week she visited in Kingston, staying with two of the city's high school students, learning her way about the school's long corridors, attending classes, and making friends with many of the young Kingstonians who helped make her trip possible.

Kingston Impressions

Kerstin's impressions of the city are a kaleidoscope of merging scenes. When she arrived here December 29, after spending part of her holidays with her prep school roommate, and part in Newark as the guest of the American Field Service, she stayed at the home of Nancy Bogert. The last few days of her visit, which ended today, were spent with Nancy Anderson in Hurley.

"I have seen so much, I hardly know what I have seen," she admits, "but it is the same here as everywhere else I have been in America. I just can't grow accustomed to the fantastic kindness and friendliness I meet with as a foreigner. It is not only the young people," she adds. "It is everyone."

A Long Way from Home

Kerstin, who is the daughter of a doctor and the oldest of four sisters, is a long way from home. Although she was born and brought up in Stockholm, a year ago the Bjoerkquists moved to Skelleftea, which is "about the size of your own Kingston," and Sweden's northernmost city.

"It is very far north," Kerstin will tell you ruefully, "almost up to the Arctic Circle, and it is very cold, with lots of snow."

"My parents were quite worried last August when I came to the United States," she continues. "They let me come, of course, but after the Korean crisis, they were a little afraid."

Educational Differences

Boarding school is an entirely new experience for Kerstin, who doesn't quite approve of girls' schools because she feels it develops an unnatural boy-girl relationship.

"American girls seem to associate boys with only good times," she explains, "and hardly ever with work."

Swedish boarding schools she describes as the orphans of Sweden's educational system, for government run schools offer both teacher and student the nation's facilities and opportunities.

"Private schools," Kerstin stresses, "couldn't afford to spend what the government does."

But there are other, more basic differences in the two countries educational systems.

"First of all, there is much greater emphasis on languages," Kerstin laughs. "After all, who could really get along in the world just speaking Swedish."

The entire curriculum, however, reveals differences. In Sweden the average student studies approximately 13 subjects a year, as opposed to our five, "although here," she explains, "you learn much more about each subject you study."

Lecture Method

Class lectures and discussions fascinate Kerstin, who was brought up in an atmosphere of strictly question and answer periods, where each assignment was like a separate test. She feels the emphasis should lie, as it does here, on understanding, rather than memory. Free Saturdays are another point Kerstin favors.

"In Sweden," she sighs, "we go to school six days a week with no free Saturdays."

Kerstin's real ambition, meanwhile, is to direct on the legitimate stage, although she enjoys acting too.

"I don't know whether I have any real talent for directing," she'll tell you," and I think it's a rather hard field to succeed in, but I intend to try."

After she completes what is the equivalent of her high school and junior college education, she plans to attend the University of Uppsala, which she terms as the "best" university in Sweden.

"After I go to the university, if I find I have no talent for directing, then I will switch to teaching."

Meanwhile, as Kerstin's year in the United States draws to a close, she is keeping her fingers crossed.

"If it is at all possible," she explains, "the American Field Service will take us on a tour about the country, and I would so like to see the rest of the United States."

Benedictine Group To Give Musical

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Benedictine Hospital have announced plans for a musical, to be presented by James J. Sweeney at the Kingston High School auditorium February 6 at 8:15 p. m. During the evening David Kuschner, 14-year-old piano virtuoso, and one of Mr. Sweeney's pupils will entertain, with 12-year-old Rocco Autorino, boy soprano, as soloist.

Chairman Mrs. George F. Einterz and Co-Chairman Mrs. John Cooke have announced that tickets are now being distributed in the mail, and will also be available at Rossi's Music Shop, John street, and Valeo's Hardware, Broadway.

Proceeds from the musical will be used to augment the Benedictine Hospital's building fund.

Club Notices

Four Kingston Students Pledge To Fraternities

Schenectady, Jan. 4 — Four Kingston students at Union College, it was announced today, are among the 200 members of the student body to be pledged to the college's 18 social fraternities. They are Frank R. Kiwus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kiwus of 14 South Wall street, Paul J. Snyder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond T. Snyder of 160 Albany avenue; Arthur T. Hutton, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Hutton of 99 Madison avenue; and John E. Glennon, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Glennon of 62 Fair street.

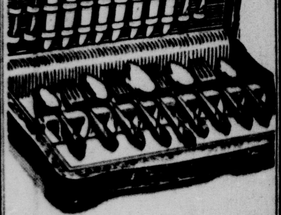

Glennon and Kiwus have pledged to the Gamma Zeta Chapter of Sigma Chi fraternity; Hutton has pledged to the Beta chapter of Phi Delta Theta; and Snyder to the Union Chapter of Delta Upsilon.

Students received their bids after a formal 41 day rushing period, followed by a two day period of silence.

Will Live in New Paltz

(Brentwood)

The former Anne Marie Manfro, who became the bride of Dr. George Frederick Bushnell December 30 in St. Joseph's Church.

Natalie MacDaniel Becomes the Bride Of Otto Sonnenberg

Woodstock, Jan. 4—Miss Natalie MacDaniel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan MacDaniel of Shady, became the bride of Cpl. Otto Sonnenberg of Willow, son of Albert Sonnenberg of Hyde Park, during a 2 o'clock ceremony Sunday, Dec. 31, at the Shady Methodist Church. The Rev. William R. Peckham, pastor of the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church, Kingston, performed the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. Lois Jeffery was organist, while soloist Ann Reynolds sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer." The church was decorated with baskets of pink and white gladioli, and candles were placed on the altar.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white slipper satin gown trimmed with seed pearls and sequins. It was cut with a mandarin collar, long fitted sleeves, and a train. She wore a net veil trimmed with old fashioned lace attached to a crown of seed pearls and sequins, and she carried a prayer book with garcia and streamers.

Mrs. John Wingert of Bearsville, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Mrs. Wingert was dressed in a mint green satin gown, with mitts, and a braided satin headpiece trimmed with net veiling. She carried a bouquet of yellow and lavender garcia.

Other attendants for the bride were Mrs. Roy Van Wagner of Willow, and Miss Maelia Sonnenberg of Pawling, sister of the groom. Both were dressed in satin gowns, with matching mitts, and carried bouquets of garcia.

Roy Van Wagner of Willow was best man. Ushers were John Wingert of Bearsville, brother-in-law of the bride, and Donald Reynolds of Poughkeepsie, cousin of the bride.

Following the ceremony a wedding reception was held at the Odd Fellows Hall, Bearsville.

The bride, a graduate of Kingston High School, is employed with the New York Telephone Co., Kingston.

The groom was graduated from Kignston High Scohol, and has served with the U. S. Marine Corps for three years. He has been called for extended service at Camp LeJeune, N. C.

Good Taste Today

Sloppy Waiting

A waitress writes: "I would like to know what is correct for me to do when, as will sometimes happen, coffee spills over the cup into the saucer when carrying it a distance to serve. Before putting it down at the place, should I pour the coffee in the saucer back in the cup or just leave it?"

If necessary, take it aside to pour it back into the cup, and wipe off the saucer as well as the bottom of the cup. To let the cup stand in coffee would be very bad service.

Fiance Overlooked

Dear Mrs. Post: My invitation to my niece's wedding included a card reading, "In front of the ribbons." My fiance's invitation did not include this card. I asked my sister about it and she said that only the nearest family was seated in these front seats. Shouldn't he have been asked to sit there also, with me?

Answer: Since your fiance is the very nearest thing to being in the family, correctly he should have been asked to sit with you.

Invitation to Coming-Out Party

Dear Mrs. Post: What kind of invitation should be sent when the daughter is coming out during the late afternoon hours (the party is being given by her parents)? Could this invitation be printed instead of engraved?

Answer: The invitations should not be printed. But you may take your engraved visiting card and write your daughter's name underneath yours, and the date and hour in the lower left hand corner. This is very unpretentious and entirely proper.

College Circles

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband is a young instructor at a small college. Since coming here we have been invited to two receptions at the President's house. Are the guests supposed to entertain in return?

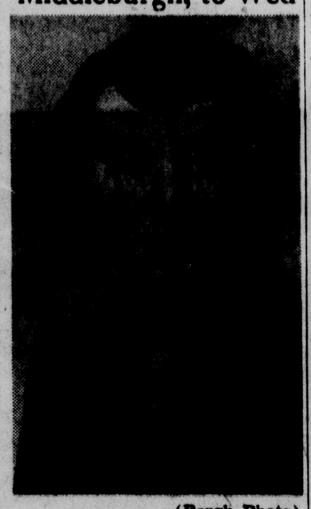

Answer: No.

Would you like to know what gift to send for various wedding anniversaries? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, you will find her leaflet E-7, which includes a list of anniversaries, helpful. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Tasty Luncheon Salad

A cup of leftover baked beans makes a delicious luncheon salad when teamed with cubes of crisp apple, shredded cabbage, and mayonnaise. Rinse the beans with lukewarm water before adding to the salad and then mix with other ingredients and moisten with mayonnaise and season.

Three Kinds of Tea

Not all housewives realize that there are only three basic kinds of tea—black, green and oolong. Each of these three comes from the same kind of bush but they are processed differently, and it's this processing that makes the difference between them.

Noted Symphonette Plans Appearance On Artist Series

Musical America's three year award winner as the "foremost concert ensemble in radio," the Longines Symphonette, will appear in the area next week, January 10 and 11, on the New Paltz Artists Series. Performances will be held at 8:30 p. m. in the auditorium of the State Teachers College.

The Symphonette, which is conducted by Mishel Piastro, and is composed of 31 musicians, representing the orchestration of a full symphony, aside from a reduced string section, is known for its fine orchestral performances of short selections, and movements from larger works, by the world's finest composers.

Mr. Piastro has chosen for his New Paltz concert Mozart's "Symphony in G Minor," Gounod's "Ave Maria," scored for violin and piano, and Lento and Finale from Dvorak's "American Quartet," which has been specially arranged and orchestrated by Louis Brunelli. There will also be five violin soloists who will play in unison with Mr. Piastro "Perpetual Motion" by Reis, and a contemporary work, "Tom Sawyer Ballet Suite" by Vladimir Padwa, which is being introduced for the first time throughout the country by Mr. Piastro.

The identical program will be presented both evenings. It has been announced that ticket reservations should be made as soon as possible through the college bookstore.

Y.W.C.A. News

The Y-Deal Club held its monthly dinner at the Y.W.C.A. recently with a main course of spaghetti and meat balls prepared by the members. Between the main course and dessert a "round robin" letter was written by the members to Mrs. Mary Herlihy, founder of the club, and one of its first directors, who is now living in Bridgeport, Conn.

On Tuesday, Jan. 9, the club will attend a skiing movie at the high school auditorium, after meeting at the Y.W.C.A. at 7:15 p. m. Those interested in attending are requested to contact Miss Beatrice Bogert, 942, for tickets.

Will Live in New Paltz

(Brentwood)

Natalie MacDaniel Becomes the Bride Of Otto Sonnenberg

Woodstock, Jan. 4—Miss Natalie MacDaniel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan MacDaniel of Shady, became the bride of Cpl. Otto Sonnenberg of Willow, son of Albert Sonnenberg of Hyde Park, during a 2 o'clock ceremony Sunday, Dec. 31, at the Shady Methodist Church. The Rev. William R. Peckham, pastor of the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church, Kingston, performed the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. Lois Jeffery was organist, while soloist Ann Reynolds sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer." The church was decorated with baskets of pink and white gladioli, and candles were placed on the altar.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white slipper satin gown trimmed with seed pearls and sequins. It was cut with a mandarin collar, long fitted sleeves, and a train. She wore a net veil trimmed with old fashioned lace attached to a crown of seed pearls and sequins, and she carried a prayer book with garcia and streamers.

Mrs. John Wingert of Bearsville, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Mrs. Wingert was dressed in a mint green satin gown, with mitts, and a braided satin headpiece trimmed with net veiling. She carried a bouquet of yellow and lavender garcia.

Other attendants for the bride were Mrs. Roy Van Wagner of Willow, and Miss Maella Sonnenberg of Pawling, sister of the groom. Both were dressed in satin gowns, with matching mitts, and carried bouquets of garcia.

The bride, a graduate of Kingston High School, is employed with the New York Telephone Co., Kingston.

The groom was graduated from Kignston High Scohol, and has served with the U. S. Marine Corps for three years. He has been called for extended service at Camp LeJeune, N. C.

Good Taste Today

by Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

Sloppy Waiting

A waitress writes: "I would like to know what is correct for me to do when, as will sometimes happen, coffee spills over the cup into the saucer when carrying it a distance to serve. Before putting it down at the place, should I pour the coffee in the saucer back in the cup or just leave it?"

If necessary, take it aside to pour it back into the cup, and wipe off the saucer as well as the bottom of the cup. To let the cup stand in coffee would be very bad service.

Fiance Overlooked

Dear Mrs. Post: My invitation to my niece's wedding included a card reading, "In front of the ribbons." My fiance's invitation did not include this card. I asked my sister about it and she said that only the nearest family was seated in these front seats. Shouldn't he have been asked to sit there also, with me?

Answer: Since your fiance is the very nearest thing to being in the family, correctly he should have been asked to sit with you.

Invitation to Coming-Out Party

Dear Mrs. Post: What kind of invitation should be sent when the daughter is coming out during the late afternoon hours (the party is being given by her parents)? Could this invitation be printed instead of engraved?

Answer: The invitations should not be printed. But you may take your engraved visiting card and write your daughter's name underneath yours, and the date and hour in the lower left hand corner. This is very unpretentious and entirely proper.

College Circles

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband is a young instructor at a small college. Since coming here we have been invited to two receptions at the President's house. Are the guests supposed to entertain in return?

Answer: No.

Would you like to know what gift to send for various wedding anniversaries? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, you will find her leaflet E-7, which includes a list of anniversaries, helpful. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Patricia M. Byrne, Middleburgh, to Wed

PATRICIA M. BYRNE

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Byrne of Middleburgh announce the engagement of their daughter, Patricia Marian, to Walter H. Harder of 11 Adams street, son of Mrs. Caroline Watson of Middleburgh.

Miss Byrne is a graduate of Middleburgh Central School, and Syracuse University. She is employed in the Schenectady office of the New York Telephone Co.

Mr. Harder was graduated from St. Peter's School, this city, and attended Kingston High School before entering the armed services during World War 2, when he served in the Air Corps in the Pacific area. He is now employed in the Kingston Post Office.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Miss Rita Amato To Wed Mr. Swift

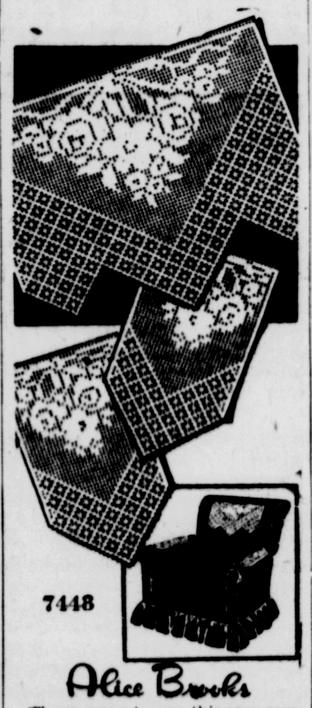

RITA BERNICE AMATO

Mr. and Mrs. Santo F. Amato of 47 German street announce the engagement of their daughter, Rita Bernice, to Reginald R. Swift of 31 Maple street, son of Mrs. R. F. Swift of Hasbrouck avenue.

No date has been set for the wedding.

New Combination

Alice Brooks

Three ways to use this new combination of old favorites! Chair-set, buffet-set or scarf-ends. It's filet-and-spider-web crochet.

Chain stitches and single and double crochet for Pattern 7448. Has charts and crochet directions.

Send TWENTY CENTS in coins for this pattern to The Kingston Daily Freeman, 51 Household Arts Dept., P.O. Box 163, Old Chelsea Station, New York 11, N. Y. Print plainly NAME, ADDRESS, ZONE, AND PATTERN NUMBER.

Our ALICE BROOKS Needlework catalogue is the best ever! Send twenty cents in coins now for your copy. Illustrations of designs for crocheting, knitting, embroidery, cuddle toys, household and personal accessories. Free needlework pattern printed in book.

Tasty Luncheon Salad

A cup of leftover baked beans makes a delicious luncheon salad when teamed with cubes of crisp apple, shredded cabbage, and mayonnaise. Rinse the beans with lukewarm water before adding to the salad and then mix with other ingredients and moisten with mayonnaise and season.

Three Kinds of Tea

Not all housewives realize that there are only three basic kinds of tea—black, green and oolong. Each of these three comes from the same kind of bush but they are processed differently, and it's this processing that makes the difference between them.

Noted Symphonette Plans Appearance On Artist Series

Musical America's three year award winner as the "foremost concert ensemble in radio," the Longines Symphonette, will appear in the area next week, January 10 and 11, on the New Paltz Artists Series. Performances will be held at 8:30 p. m. in the auditorium of the State Teachers College.

The Symphonette, which is conducted by Mishel Piastro, and is composed of 31 musicians, representing the orchestration of a full symphony, aside from a reduced string section, is known for its fine orchestral performances of short selections, and movements from larger works, by the world's finest composers.

Mr. Piastro has chosen for his New Paltz concert Mozart's "Symphony in G Minor," Gounod's "Ave Maria," scored for violin and piano, and Lento and Finale from Dvorak's "American Quartet," which has been specially arranged and orchestrated by Louis Brunelli. There will also be five violin soloists who will play in unison with Mr. Piastro "Perpetual Motion" by Reis, and a contemporary work, "Tom Sawyer Ballet Suite" by Vladimir Padwa, which is being introduced for the first time throughout the country by Mr. Piastro.

The identical program will be presented both evenings. It has been announced that ticket reservations should be made as soon as possible through the college bookstore.

Y.W.C.A. News

The Y-Deal Club held its monthly dinner at the Y.W.C.A. recently with a main course of spaghetti and meat balls prepared by the members. Between the main course and dessert a "round robin" letter was written by the members to Mrs. Mary Herlihy, founder of the club, and one of its first directors, who is now living in Bridgeport, Conn.

On Tuesday, Jan. 9, the club will attend a skiing movie at the high school auditorium, after meeting at the Y.W.C.A. at 7:15 p. m. Those interested in attending are requested to contact Miss Beatrice Bogert, 942, for tickets.

Louis Impressive in Quick T.K.O. Victory Over Beshore

Ex-Champ Sharp In Detroit Bout

Detroit, Jan. 4 (AP)—Joe Louis' tremendous home town following argued vociferously today—in the wake of Joe's smashing victory over outclassed Freddie Beshore last night—that the old Brown Bomber is still the best heavyweight in the business.

Louis took another step up the comeback ladder by stopping Beshore handily in two minutes and 48 seconds of the fourth round of a scheduled ten-rounder.

Ex-champion Louis' many rooters—13,096 fans paid $41,425 to see the scrap—pointed out that it took current champion Ezzard Charles 14 rounds to finish Beshore last August.

That Beshore's crowding, wild-swinging tactics were tailor-made for Louis nobody would deny.

But the experts were virtually unanimous in their belief that Louis showed remarkable improvement in disposing of the Harrisburg, Pa., ex-sailor in such workmanlike fashion.

Joe's lethal right hand, seldom thrown in his losing battle with Charles last summer or in his most recent so so bout with Cesar Brion, was powerful. It was equally effective in six-inch straight punches or in uppercuts. His famous left jab was sharp and shattering.

Joe Unmarked

At the finish the 36-year-old Louis was unmarked and not even breathing heavily. His trim weight of 210¼ testified to his good condition. This was nearly eight pounds less than he weighed for his "post-retirement" title fight with Charles.

Beshore, 10 years younger than Louis and nearly 19 pounds lighter at 191½, had no quarrel with Weber's decision. Neither did his manager, Harry (Champ) Segal, who said he would have asked to have the fight stopped after the fourth round because of Beshore's cut eye.

Three stitches were required to mend the gash. At first it was thought that Beshore's nose was broken. But doctors said his severe nosebleed was caused by rupture of an oft-injured nose cartilage, not from any bone fracture.

Beshore sided with Louis supporters in saying that the ex-champ is still a better fighter than Charles

"Joe hits you square," Beshore said. "Charles just cuffs you."

Louis got 40 per cent of the net gate and Beshore 20 per cent. Each also received a $1,000 cut for television rights.

LOUIS AND BESHORE SIZE COMPARISON

Emphasis is placed on Joe Louis' longer reach and heavier build in this picture comparison with Harrisburg, Pa., heavyweight Freddie Beshore (left) at weigh-in in Detroit. They will see action in a 10-rounder at Detroit's Olympia. Louis weighed 210¼ and Beshore tipped the scales at 191½. (AP Wirephoto)

Wilt to Receive Sullivan Trophy

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—Fred Wilt, the FBI man who came out of retirement to run in the 1948 Olympic games, will received the coveted 1950 James E. Sullivan Memorial trophy for amateur athletes.

The 29-year-old graduate of Indiana now running for the New York Athletic Club is national outdoor 5,000-meter champion and an internationally-respected competitor at routes from a mile to 10,000 meters.

Wilt, who will receive the Amateur Athletic Union trophy at a luncheon here Feb. 18, was first choice on 166 of 479 ballots cast in a nationwide poll of sports experts. In 1946 Wilt retired and bought a life membership in the AAU, but he came back for the 1948 London games.

On the basis of 5-3-1 for first, second and third place, Wilt scored 1,197 points to beat out Joe Verdeur of Philadelphia, 1948 Olympic breast stroke champion and one of the world's outstanding swimmers.

Verdeur, who was runnerup for the second year in a row, received 114 first place votes and 1,013 points. Third went to Dick Attlesey, world record breaking high hurdler from Southern California and the Los Angeles A.C., with 104 first place ballots and 838 points. The Sullivan Memorial Committee selected seven athletics it deemed most worthy to be considered in final voting.

Equals Track Record

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—Hugo Maiocco, national indoor 600-yard dash champion, equaled the fastest flat floor time for that event, 1:11.7, in the Eastern indoor track season opening meet last night. A pre-medical student at New York University the 23-year-old Maiocco won the Deignan 600 by three yards over Reggie Pearman, his former NYU teammate. The event was the feature of the Metropolitan AAU Open meet at the 102nd Engineers Armory. Jim Gilhooley, also of NYU, set the mark in 1948.

Will Honor Dropo

Boston, Jan. 4 (AP)—Walt Dropo will be presented a plaque by the Boston Chapter of the Baseball Writers Association of America as an outstanding rookie of the 1950 season. The presentation will be at the chapter's annual dinner Feb. 1. Others selected for honors are Billy Goodman, the major league batting king, selected as Boston's "most valuable player," and Eddie Collins, Red Sox vice president "for long years of meritorious service to baseball."

Ring Tourney Set

Boston, Jan. 4 (AP)—The New England AAU reported today the National Amateur boxing tournament will be fought at Boston Garden April 9, 10 and 11. The New England tournament will be at Boston Arena, March 19.

• Bagatelles:

A quick catchup on items missed during the December siesta: Kingston High's decisive Thanksgiving Day victory over N.F.A. boosted Coach Bill Burke's record over the Goldbacks to 8 wins, 1 loss, 1 tie for ten games in five years and settled beyond dispute the relative strength of the opposing lines. Even "Bo" Gill gave up at halftime on that cold, wintry afternoon. So much so that he invited us to pose with the Newburgh's two mascot goats. Which was okay with the department, seeing as how we've been getting their goats down there for the past 20 years.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

You can catch Eddie Weaver and some classy basketball at West Point on the following dates: Jan. 27—Fordham; February 3—Colgate; Feb. 10—Yale; Feb. 14—Syracuse; Feb. 17—Villanova and Feb. 22—Columbia. Colgate, Syracuse, Columbia and Villanova will determine if Big Ed is ready for the big leagues in basketball. Wes Westrum's .998 fielding record for the Giants in 1950, a new all-time National League record, resulted in a nice pay boost for the popular Poughkeepsie receiver.. Westrum is a veritable bird dog going after pop flies and we believe he will hit his stride as a batter in 1951. The young man has too much potential to hide his light under a bushel indefinitely. Fists flew and spectators nearly rioted when the Woodridge Atoms edged Montgomery, 73-70, on the Montgomery court a few nights ago. Jackie Stein tossed in 35 points in what was described as "the greatest shooting exhibition in Montgomery basketball history."

Obviously, Sugar Ray Robinson showed those French boxers no merci.

Our private astrologer, Horace Scope, says his analysis shows that the Giants are favored by the stars. After all, they carry their own Leo around with them.

• Of Men and Mice:

Michael D. Rakov, son of Dr. and Mrs. Harold L. Rakov of Kingston, was awarded his varsity letter in football at the recent sports banquet of the Choate School in Wallingford, Conn. . . . Pvt. Thomas J. Davis, "Tiger Tom" to you, is serving as boxing instructor at Fort Leonard Wood. . . . The world situation being what it is these days, one of those old "Tiger Tom" performances would help brighten the day. . . . Expert football men told us in New York a couple of weeks ago that at the end of the 1950 football campaign, Eddie Weaver was playing as well as Dan Foldberg, the Army's All-America end. Ronnie Scheffel has matured as a basketball player, ever since last spring when he broke the all-time K.H.S. scoring record for a season. Uses the screens more efficiently and is a smarter ball player in every detail. . . . Libby Manzolillo received honorable mention from Ring Magazine in the lightweight division. The former local favorite is climbing the ladder. . . . Mort Gazlay and Gustav Koch won varsity football letters at Ithaca College under Coach Pete Hatch. . . . Nick Amato ailing at Post Graduate Hospital in New York.

Nat Holman's current headaches with his City College NIT and NCAA basketball champions recall a brighter day for the former Original Celtic immortal.

When Nat started coaching CCNY in the late 20s, he was still starring with the Celtics. He always got in uniform while coaching his charges in order to better illustrate his stratagems.

A scout slipped into the gym, watched the Beavers practice, ran to the nearest telegraph office, and wired his coach:

"CCNY going to be tough. They have the greatest forward I've ever seen on a college team."

Coast May Quit Rose Bowl Action

Riverside, Calif., Jan. 4 (AP)—The fate of the historic Rose Bowl football game hangs in suspense today—and it will continue to hang that way for another two weeks.

Officials of the Pacific Coast Conference startled the world of college football by disclosing that it is seriously considering discontinuing, or modifying its annual participation in the oldest and richest postseason game of them all.

The conference will hold a special, unprecedented meeting "shortly after" the NCAA convention in Dallas next week to decide whether it will continue to participate in the New Year's Day grid classic next year and in the years to come.

College football, said President H. P. Everest of the Pacific Coast Conference, is getting too big for its trousers.

"We must take steps to relieve the tensions, and this is the first step," were the words of the University of Washington professor.

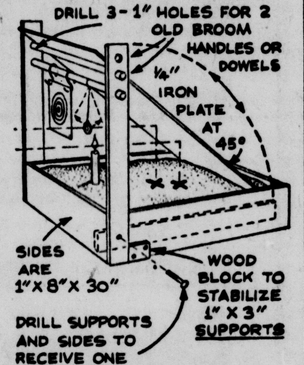

Tracks Plan Seasons

Baltimore, Jan. 4 (AP)—Laurel opens Maryland's spring racing season this year with a 20-day meeting beginning March 23 and extending through April 14. Bowie, the usual season opener, follows up with 20 more days from April 16 to May 8, with Pimlico's meeting built around the Preakness running from May 10 to May 26. This is the tentative schedule of the spring sessions agreed upon yesterday by the three tracks.

Barney, who won 15 games in 1948, was unable to control his pitches last year and won only two games, losing one. It was reported his salary would be the same, about $12,000.

Robins Pace 'Y' League With Fifth Straight Win, 48 to 36

Aces, Jackets Also Notch Victories

Brushing off a last half rally by the Accord Chevies, the Robins emerged with a 48 to 36 victory in the Y Basketball League Wednesday night at the Y boards to maintain their perfect record for the season.

As a result of last night's triple-header, the Robins took over possession of first place with a 5-0 record. The Newkirk Aces and Esopus Firemen are tied for second with 4-1 marks.

Frank Ebelheiser set the pace for the Robins with 20 points. The winners took a 23-9 lead at the half and appeared easy winners.

Accord staged a belated rally in the final two periods of play but failed to overcome the Robins. Lawrence and Ebert were high for the losers with 12 and 10 points respectively.

Trailing 20-11 at halftime, the Newkirk Aces pulled one out of the fire with a neat exhibition of ball handling and shooting in the final stages of their game with the Esopus quintet.

The Aces finally took the lead with two and a half minutes to go by 31-30. Charlie Hobart pumped in a one-hander and with 30 seconds left on the clock, Joe Berryann picked up a loose ball and went in for the score.

Hobart and McCluskey topped the scorers for the winners with 11 and 10. Hansen hit for 10 for the Esopus club.

In the other game, the Yellow Jackets turned back Hurley by 57 to 42. DeCicco and Morrisey led the winners with 19 and 15 points respectively. Scheffel dropped in 12 for the losers.

Louis Impressive in Quick T.K.O. Victory Over Beshore

Ex-Champ Sharp In Detroit Bout

Detroit, Jan. 4 (AP)—Joe Louis' tremendous home town following argued vociferously today—in the wake of Joe's smashing victory over outclassed Freddie Beshore last night—that the old Brown Bomber is still the best heavyweight in the business.

Louis took another step up the comeback ladder by stopping Beshore handily in two minutes and 48 seconds of the fourth round of a scheduled ten-rounder.

At the finish the 36-year-old Louis was unmarked and not even breathing heavily. His trim weight of 210¼ testified to his good condition. This was nearly eight pounds less than he weighed for his "post-retirement" title fight with Charles.

Beshore, 10 years younger than Louis and nearly 19 pounds lighter at 191½, had no quarrel with Weber's decision. Neither did his manager, Harry (Champ) Segal, who said he would have asked to have the fight stopped after the fourth round because of Beshore's cut eye.

Three stitches were required to mend the gash. At first it was thought that Beshore's nose was broken. But doctors said his severe nosebleed was caused by rupture of an oft-injured nose cartilage, not from any bone fracture.

Beshore sided with Louis supporters in saying that the ex-champ is still a better fighter than Charles

"Joe hits you square," Beshore said. "Charles just cuffs you."

Louis got 40 per cent of the net gate and Beshore 20 per cent. Each also received a $1,000 cut for television rights.

Officials of the Pacific Coast Conference startled the world of college football by disclosing that it is seriously considering discontinuing, or modifying its annual participation in the oldest and richest postseason game of them all.

The conference will hold a special, unprecedented meeting "shortly after" the NCAA convention in Dallas next week to decide whether it will continue to participate in the New Year's Day grid classic next year and in the years to come.

College football, said President H. P. Everest of the Pacific Coast Conference, is getting too big for its trousers.

"We must take steps to relieve the tensions, and this is the first step," were the words of the University of Washington professor.

Tracks Plan Seasons

Baltimore, Jan. 4 (AP)—Laurel opens Maryland's spring racing season this year with a 20-day meeting beginning March 23 and extending through April 14. Bowie, the usual season opener, follows up with 20 more days from April 16 to May 8, with Pimlico's meeting built around the Preakness running from May 10 to May 26. This is the tentative schedule of the spring sessions agreed upon yesterday by the three tracks.

Reese, Barney in Fold

Brooklyn, Jan. 4 (AP)—Signed contracts of Shortstop Peewee Reese and Pitcher Rex Barney were in the hands of the Brooklyn Dodgers today. It was reported that Reese, the Dodger field captain, agreed to the same terms as last year—about $30,000. The 31-year-old veteran underwent an operation after the 1949 season and hit only .260 in 1950. Barney, who won 15 games in 1948, was unable to control his pitches last year and won only two games, losing one. It was reported his salary would be the same, about $12,000.

Robins Pace 'Y' League With Fifth Straight Win, 48 to 36

Aces, Jackets Also Notch Victories

Brushing off a last half rally by the Accord Chevies, the Robins emerged with a 48 to 36 victory in the Y Basketball League Wednesday night at the Y boards to maintain their perfect record for the season.

As a result of last night's triple-header, the Robins took over possession of first place with a 5-0 record. The Newkirk Aces and Esopus Firemen are tied for second with 4-1 marks.

Frank Ebelheiser set the pace for the Robins with 20 points. The winners took a 23-9 lead at the half and appeared easy winners.

Accord staged a belated rally in the final two periods of play but failed to overcome the Robins. Lawrence and Ebert were high for the losers with 12 and 10 points respectively.

Trailing 20-11 at halftime, the Newkirk Aces pulled one out of the fire with a neat exhibition of ball handling and shooting in the final stages of their game with the Esopus quintet.

The Aces finally took the lead with two and a half minutes to go by 31-30. Charlie Hobart pumped in a one-hander and with 30 seconds left on the clock, Joe Berryann picked up a loose ball and went in for the score.

Hobart and McCluskey topped the scorers for the winners with 11 and 10. Hansen hit for 10 for the Esopus club.

In the other game, the Yellow Jackets turned back Hurley by 57 to 42. DeCicco and Morrisey led the winners with 19 and 15 points respectively. Scheffel dropped in 12 for the losers.

J. Tremper's 567, with 198, 160, 209, topped the Booster League and R. Brando's 202-543 was good for second place. They were the lone "500" shooters in the circuit but other good scores were turned in by Pete Kowalenko 48; Warren Senor 476; Rudy Hohenberger 474; Sam Moss 462; F. Barberi 461; W. Schmidt 459; A. Krom 451.

Firing a pair of 200's, Dominic Clausi featured pin-busting in the C.Y.O. League at the Bowlodrome Wednesday night with a 608 series.

Clausi shot 200-220-188 for the No. 1 triple.

A. Gilday's 235 singleton topped of 163 and 143 gave him a 541 series.

Also of note were Nick Bruck with 203-557; Ed Schupp 225-520; George Kearney 517 and J. Bruck 517.

Evelyn Gross' 549 topped a list of seven 500's in the Gold Division of the Colonial Women's League Wednesday night at the Bowlatorium. "The "Blonde Bomber" fired a string of 187-168-194.

Four pins off the pace was Kay Brodhead with 545. Marie Kelekian rolled 527; Phyl Gehringer 522; Dot Flemings 511; Rose Schatzel 500; and Chrissie Wilson 500.

Also of note were Charlotte Lapine 498; Elizabeth Bruck 494; Phyl Roosa 494; Marge Jansen 491; and Helen Zaccheo 490.

Mary Short's 488 three-timer set the pace in the Silver Division of the Colonial Women's wheel last night. She fired games of 146-180-162.

Mary Short's 488 three-timer set the pace in the Silver Division of the Colonial Women's wheel last night. She fired games of 146-180-162.

Holding down the runnerup slot was Charlotte Herdman with 480. Rosemary Murphy hit 473; Angeline Brocco 455; Betty Cadden 454; and Marjorie Amato 452.

Schilling Furniture posted a new team single record of 803 in the middle game. Other counts were 652 and 727 for a 2182 series.

Garry Woodvine and Ralph Post tied for honors in the Federation American League at the Y lanes Wednesday night with 544 series.

Woodvine shot 169-193-182 for his 544 while Post posted 160-163-221.

Two pins off the pace was Bill Hornbeck with 542. Burt Burr hit 534; Frank Roe 527; Arthur Carr 205-515; and Doug Kennedy 210-512.

They were at it again in the Central Rec Major League at the Central Rec drives Wednesday night with a fist full of 600 triples spearheaded by Larry Weishaupt who fired 639.

Lou Straley shot 222-202-616; Harold Broskie achieved the hat trick with 201-213-201 for 615; Ken Williams 223-212-604; and Randy Kelder 230-600.

Frank "Boots" Leskie walloped 232-594.

New Scoring Mark

Cleveland (AP)—Hy Buller of the Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League has established a new career record for scoring for defensemen in the circuit. With two-thirds of the season to go, Buller had 244 points on 68 goals and 176 assists for his career. The old record of 237 points was also held by a Cleveland player, Danny Sprout, now playing coach of Seattle in the Pacific Coast League.

Health for All

Once more, New Year's resolutions time has rolled around. With the best of intentions, people all over the country are making another new start toward good habits.

Among those who actually make a list of their good intentions, many will be surprised to know how some of their resolutions directly concern their own health, whether they consider themselves "health conscious" or not.

Many will resolve to get to bed earlier, cut down on drinking or smoking, or get weight back to normal by exercise and proper diet.

Perhaps this is evidence of our instinct of self-preservation. The average person realizes that he may not have much time to enjoy the good things of this life if he literally shortens his own life by unhealthful living.

Besides, full enjoyment of the good things of life is impossible without good health. In turn, one cannot achieve or hold on to good health if he defies the rules of healthful living day in and day out, year after year.

And the basic rules of good health are fairly simple. They include personal cleanliness, a nutritious and well-balanced diet, sufficient physical exercise in the fresh air, adequate rest and sleep, avoidance of chill and exposure, and last, but not least, regular medical checkups.

This certainly does not mean that anyone should be a slave to his resolutions on good health. An occasional late night or a sedentary day indoors now and then never ruined anyone's health.

It is constant definance of the rules of good health that does the damage. Resolutions concerning health which are broken the day or the week after New Year's are obviously a waste of time. Conversely, resolutions that are kept month after month—preferably throughout 1951 — become habits of which one is almost unconscious, rather than an ordeal.

We all greet the New Year with hope of pleasant things to come. The pleasant things will be more enjoyable and the rougher spots easier to face and overcome, when we keep our resolutions to make this a healthier year.

Actor Is Hurt

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—Martin Kosleck, 41-year-old film, stage and television actor, suffered a fractured leg and internal injuries early today when he fell three stories from a window of his Manhattan apartment. Police said the pajama-clad actor lost his balance while adjusting a window. His wife, Actress Eleanora Mendelssohn, was asleep in an adjoining room. Kosleck was reported in fair condition at a hospital.

Cold Wave Moves In on Midwest

(By The Associated Press)

A cold wave moved in on the north central states today and was preceded by a mixture of snow and freezing rain over many areas.

There were several other wet spots in the eastern half of the country but the eastern and southern states were having mild weather.

Temperatures of below zero were in prospect for midwest areas tonight and tomorrow. The mercury hit around -5 early today in parts of North Dakota, Montana and Minnesota but lower marks were forecast for north central states tonight and tomorrow.

Snow fell over the upper Great Lakes region, parts of the upper Mississippi and Missouri valleys, and the northern Rocky mountains.

Rain pelted a narrow band through the Appalachians northeastward to parts of New York and New England. But the mercury was 58 above in New York city this morning—higher than the 43 reported at New Orleans.

Washington reported a high of 62 yesterday, the highest for the date since a reading of 64 in 1874, and continued mild weather was predicted.

It was spring-like over most of Virginia yesterday, Richmond, Norfolk and Urbanna had high temperatures of 70.

Actor Is Hurt

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—Martin Kosleck, 41-year-old film, stage and television actor, suffered a fractured leg and internal injuries early today when he fell three stories from a window of his Manhattan apartment. Police said the pajama-clad actor lost his balance while adjusting a window. His wife, Actress Eleanora Mendelssohn, was asleep in an adjoining room. Kosleck was reported in fair condition at a hospital.

New Scoring Mark

Cleveland (AP)—Hy Buller of the Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League has established a new career record for scoring for defensemen in the circuit. With two-thirds of the season to go, Buller had 244 points on 68 goals and 176 assists for his career. The old record of 237 points was also held by a Cleveland player, Danny Sprout, now playing coach of Seattle in the Pacific Coast League.

Health for All

Once more, New Year's resolutions time has rolled around. With the best of intentions, people all over the country are making another new start toward good habits.

Among those who actually make a list of their good intentions, many will be surprised to know how some of their resolutions directly concern their own health, whether they consider themselves "health conscious" or not.

Many will resolve to get to bed earlier, cut down on drinking or smoking, or get weight back to normal by exercise and proper diet.

Perhaps this is evidence of our instinct of self-preservation. The average person realizes that he may not have much time to enjoy the good things of this life if he literally shortens his own life by unhealthful living.

Besides, full enjoyment of the good things of life is impossible without good health. In turn, one cannot achieve or hold on to good health if he defies the rules of healthful living day in and day out, year after year.

And the basic rules of good health are fairly simple. They include personal cleanliness, a nutritious and well-balanced diet, sufficient physical exercise in the fresh air, adequate rest and sleep, avoidance of chill and exposure, and last, but not least, regular medical checkups.

This certainly does not mean that anyone should be a slave to his resolutions on good health. An occasional late night or a sedentary day indoors now and then never ruined anyone's health.

It is constant definance of the rules of good health that does the damage. Resolutions concerning health which are broken the day or the week after New Year's are obviously a waste of time. Conversely, resolutions that are kept month after month—preferably throughout 1951 — become habits of which one is almost unconscious, rather than an ordeal.

We all greet the New Year with hope of pleasant things to come. The pleasant things will be more enjoyable and the rougher spots easier to face and overcome, when we keep our resolutions to make this a healthier year.

Cold Wave Moves In on Midwest

(By The Associated Press)

A cold wave moved in on the north central states today and was preceded by a mixture of snow and freezing rain over many areas.

There were several other wet spots in the eastern half of the country but the eastern and southern states were having mild weather.

Temperatures of below zero were in prospect for midwest areas tonight and tomorrow. The mercury hit around -5 early today in parts of North Dakota, Montana and Minnesota but lower marks were forecast for north central states tonight and tomorrow.

Snow fell over the upper Great Lakes region, parts of the upper Mississippi and Missouri valleys, and the northern Rocky mountains.

Rain pelted a narrow band through the Appalachians northeastward to parts of New York and New England. But the mercury was 58 above in New York city this morning—higher than the 43 reported at New Orleans.

Washington reported a high of 62 yesterday, the highest for the date since a reading of 64 in 1874, and continued mild weather was predicted.

It was spring-like over most of Virginia yesterday, Richmond, Norfolk and Urbanna had high temperatures of 70.

Many Had No Cards

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—The government introduced evidence today in the perjury trial of William W. Remington, former Commerce Department economist, that there were "scores of cases" of Communist Party members holding no membership cards. The testimony came from Paul Crouch, 47, Miami, Fla., newspaperman and former party organizer in Tennessee. Remington was accused of perjury in that he lied when he denied he ever was a Communist Party member. The defense has made much of the point that no government witnesses ever saw a party membership card in Remington's name or possession.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—Steels in a single handed effort pulled the stock market higher today.

Steel gains amounted to more than a dollar a share. Elsewhere in the market advances went from a few cents to more than $1 and $2.

Aside from the steel group, there was no particular activity or concentration of buying.

Stocks on the upside included the steel group—U. S., Bethlehem, Youngstown, Republic, Armco, Crucible—and Chrysler, Studebaker, Goodrich, Anaconda Copper, Homestake Mining, Eastman Kodak, Santa Fe, Southern Railway, Nickel Plate, Superior Oil of California, and Lehigh Portland Cement.

Among the more notable issues leaning down at times were American Telephone, Dow Chemical, American Can, Union Pacific, Boston & Maine, Standard Oil (N. J.), Gulf Oil, United Air Lines, American Woolen, and Missouri Pacific.

The curb market swung higher almost all around. Among those moving up were National Bellas Hess, Pancoastal Oil, Rotary Electric Steel, Stroock, U. S. Foil "B", U. S. Radiator, Aspinook, Babcock & Wilcox, Barium Steel, Cities Service, Equity Corp., Great Lakes Oil & Coal, and Kaiser-Frazer.

Weather Takes Turn

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—A mass of cold air with rain moved into New York today at about 10:30 a. m. (EST) and sent spring-like temperatures plummeting. A 60-degree temperature at 10:35 a. m. dropped four degrees in three minutes. The Weather Bureau said the temperature would continue to fall to about 30 degrees by evening.

Rautenstrauch Dies

Fort Lee, N. J., Jan. 4 (AP)—Dr. Walter Rautenstrauch, 70, founder and first executive officer of Columbia University's industrial engineering department, died yesterday. Author of numerous texts on economics and engineering, Dr. Rautenstrauch had been professor emeritus of Columbia's industrial engineering department since 1946.

Fire Costs $10,000,000

Evansville, Ind., Jan. 4 (AP)—Fire swept by a stiff wind roared through eight buildings in the center of the business district early today. Damage was estimated at more than $10,000,000. Three firemen were burned slightly while fighting the fire. Fire Chief Clarence Bassemier estimated the damage. The cause was not determined immediately.

There are more physicians in Washington, D. C., in proportion to its area and population, than in any other American city.

Many Had No Cards

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—The government introduced evidence today in the perjury trial of William W. Remington, former Commerce Department economist, that there were "scores of cases" of Communist Party members holding no membership cards. The testimony came from Paul Crouch, 47, Miami, Fla., newspaperman and former party organizer in Tennessee. Remington was accused of perjury in that he lied when he denied he ever was a Communist Party member. The defense has made much of the point that no government witnesses ever saw a party membership card in Remington's name or possession.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—Steels in a single handed effort pulled the stock market higher today.

Steel gains amounted to more than a dollar a share. Elsewhere in the market advances went from a few cents to more than $1 and $2.

Aside from the steel group, there was no particular activity or concentration of buying.

Stocks on the upside included the steel group—U. S., Bethlehem, Youngstown, Republic, Armco, Crucible—and Chrysler, Studebaker, Goodrich, Anaconda Copper, Homestake Mining, Eastman Kodak, Santa Fe, Southern Railway, Nickel Plate, Superior Oil of California, and Lehigh Portland Cement.

Among the more notable issues leaning down at times were American Telephone, Dow Chemical, American Can, Union Pacific, Boston & Maine, Standard Oil (N. J.), Gulf Oil, United Air Lines, American Woolen, and Missouri Pacific.

The curb market swung higher almost all around. Among those moving up were National Bellas Hess, Pancoastal Oil, Rotary Electric Steel, Stroock, U. S. Foil "B", U. S. Radiator, Aspinook, Babcock & Wilcox, Barium Steel, Cities Service, Equity Corp., Great Lakes Oil & Coal, and Kaiser-Frazer.

Rail bonds pursued an indecisive course with narrow price changes. In the over the counter market, U. S. Governments were unchanged and quiet.

Weather Takes Turn

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—A mass of cold air with rain moved into New York today at about 10:30 a. m. (EST) and sent spring-like temperatures plummeting. A 60-degree temperature at 10:35 a. m. dropped four degrees in three minutes. The Weather Bureau said the temperature would continue to fall to about 30 degrees by evening.

Rautenstrauch Dies

Fort Lee, N. J., Jan. 4 (AP)—Dr. Walter Rautenstrauch, 70, founder and first executive officer of Columbia University's industrial engineering department, died yesterday. Author of numerous texts on economics and engineering, Dr. Rautenstrauch had been professor emeritus of Columbia's industrial engineering department since 1946.

Fire Costs $10,000,000

Evansville, Ind., Jan. 4 (AP)—Fire swept by a stiff wind roared through eight buildings in the center of the business district early today. Damage was estimated at more than $10,000,000. Three firemen were burned slightly while fighting the fire. Fire Chief Clarence Bassemier estimated the damage. The cause was not determined immediately.

There are more physicians in Washington, D. C., in proportion to its area and population, than in any other American city.

Reverses in Korea Heighten Biggest Debate in History

(What are the basic issues of foreign policy now being debated by Americans everywhere—on the street corners, in letters to the editor, and in public forums? And what precisely have outstanding Americans been saying, for or against administration measures for dealing with the world crisis? To recapitulate the principal points and proposals for grappling with international problems, an Associated Press special correspondent analyzes in the accompanying article the views expressed by four prominent Americans in recent weeks. It represents a careful study of what has been said publicly, covering points of both agreement and disagreement.)

By REEMAN MORIN

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—The greatest debate in American history—on war and survival—swept this country and across the world today, gripping the minds of millions of people.

It was heightened by new U.N. reverses in Korea.

Letters by the thousands poured into newspaper offices. Sober editorials analyzed the issues. On both sides of the Atlantic, and in the Orient as well, speeches, statements and broadcast reaction rose like sparks from the central fire.

The debate was touched off by four prominent Americans, who spoke at intervals of about a week apart.

They were former President Herbert Hoover; John Foster Dulles, Republican advisor on foreign policy; Thomas E. Dewey, governor of New York; and Joseph P. Kennedy, former ambassador to Great Britain.

Each pointed the danger, and uttered the warning. Each offered a plan for survival.

All four surveyed the resources, military, political and economic, of the Communist world and the western democracies. All four noted advantages and disadvantages in geography for both sides.

They agreed on many factors in the equation.

Disagree on Points

But they disagreed sharply on three questions, which, in fact, form the core of the great debate. They are:

1. What is the relative value, to the United States, of our present allies if war comes?

2. How much, if any, men and money should we continue to place in Europe?

3. Where shall Americans look for the hope of survival?

On the first point, this is what they said:

Has Greater Manpower

Mr. Hoover asserted that western Europe has greater manpower and productive capacity today than it had in either World War One or Two. But, he said, "their minds are confused by fears and disunities," American efforts to bring unity to them have failed, he said. One of his key statements, was: "The prime obligation of defense of western Europe rests upon the nations of Europe. America cannot create their spiritual forces; we cannot buy them with money."

Similarly with the United Nations and specifically Britain. Mr. Hoover said: "It is clear the U.N. cannot mobilize substantial military forces. It is clear continental Europe has not in the three years of our aid developed that unity of purpose and that will power necessary for its own defense. It is clear that our British friends are flirting with appeasement of Communist China. It is clear that the United Nations is in a fog of debate and indecision whether to appease or not to appease."

Dulles, Dewey Disagree

John Foster Dulles and Gov. Dewey disagreed with this summation. Neither made direct reference to Mr. Hoover or his address.

On the same issue of America's allies, Dewey said:

"If our own ideals of freedom in the world did not require it, the stark necessities of self-preservation would demand that we develop and keep strong brave allies. We shall make united and mighty the forces of the free world, and swiftly, or we shall be soon isolated and left to die."

Mr. Dulles went even further.

He listed the achievements of the United Nations and the United States. Noting that Russia could boast of no new country conquered in 1950, he said, "That means the free world has found the way to slow down Soviet Communist expansion by methods short of open war. That is no mean accomplishment."

He said western Europe has depth, numbers and military experience, adding that a pre-arranged defense could at least make an attack there a costly operation.

Have Fewer Friends

Former Ambassador Kennedy, however, said: "We have far fewer friends than we had in 1945. The military strength of Britain is one fourth of what it was in 1946 and she shows every inclination to avoid the heavy burdens that would be involved in rebuilding it."

He asked, "Where is there in all Europe any buffer against a massed Russian assault? Worse than this, where is there any determination to create such a buffer?"

Those were the four views on the question of the value of western Europe to the United States in case of war.

Divergent views, too, came on the question of whether more men and money should be furnished to western Europe.

Mr. Hoover—"To warrant our further aid they should show they have spiritual strength and unity to avail themselves of their own resources. But it must be far more than paper promises and declarations. Today it must express itself in organized and equipped combat divisions of such large numbers as would erect a sure dam against the Red flood. And that before we land another man or another dollar on their shores."

Mr. Dulles, expanding his theme of the value of collective security in Europe, said "solitary defense is never impregnable." The western world must be in position to deter a Russian attack, he said, or effectively to counter-attack if it comes. "Around the rim of the captive world, the free world can create enough economic and political vigor, enough military strength and enough will to resist so that these areas cannot be chiefly conquered."

'Idle to Talk'

Mr. Kennedy — "It is idle to talk of being able to hold the line of the Elbe or the line of the Rhine. Why should we waste valuable resources in making such an attempt?

"If the weakened European nations wish to hold that line and demonstrate a determination to do so, it may be that we can afford them some help."

Gov. Dewey — "For a decade, the cause of freedom has echoed the tragic words, 'too little and too late.' Let not these words be the epitaph of America and of our civilization."

On the third key question—a program for survival—the views of all four varied, in basis, and in degree.

Gov. Dewey called for staying ahead in the development of atomic weapons. Without going into detail, he advocated maintaining "invulnerable bases around the world from which to send the bomb."

Mr. Kennedy said our strength should be concentrated in Canada, the Caribbean, Latin America and Iceland. He said we should get out of Korea and Asia and not attempt to hold the river lines in Europe.

Mr. Dulles said the United States is not confronted with only one alternative—to withdraw entirely, or to commit our forces all over the world. He insisted that the problem is to select the bases, anywhere in the world, from which we can counter-attack a Russian assault, and where our power will tend to "deter" a Soviet onslaught.

Did Not Commit U. S.

"When I was in the Senate working for the ratification of the North Atlantic Pact," he said, "I took the position that it did not commit the U. S. to the land defense of any particular area. It did commit us to action, but the action of our own choosing rather than action that an aggressor could dictate to us."

Mr. Hoover's phrase, describing America as a "western hemisphere gibraltar of western civilization" has already gone around the world, stirring various reactions.

But the former President was careful to point that he did not mean withdrawing inside this country or this hemisphere alone. On the contrary, he said we could hold the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans, and that our western frontier should be on Britain "if she wishes to cooperate," and in Japan, Formosa and the Philippines in the east.

He said we have little need for large land armies "unless we are going to Europe or China." But, he said, we should arm our sea and air forces "to the teeth."

Japon, he said, should be given her independence and provided with arms to defend herself. China should be branded as an aggressor and denied a seat in the U.N. The members of the U.N. should stop all shipments of supplies to the Chinese Reds that can be used for military purposes.

Asks End of Vacillation

He called for an end to vacillation and disunity in Europe, a concrete demonstration of the will and ability to fight if attacked. He described Germany as "their frontier."

The United States, Hoover said, must continue to aid the hungry in the world, and to aid "other nations when they have displayed spirit and strength in defense against communism."

There can be no appeasement, he continued. And he said:

"We Americans alone with sea and air power can so control the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans that there can be no possible invasion of the western hemisphere by Communist armies. They can no more reach Washington in force than we can reach Moscow."

Official Residence

Whitehall became the official residence of English rulers in 1697, giving way to Buckingham Palace in 1837. The British court is called the Court of St. James after a religious establishment which once occupied the site.

Firemen drag an empty hose in a futile gesture as fire sweeps through a Seoul building Jan. 3 (Korean time). Other firemen stand idly by. Hamilton Hurt In Local Crash

Reginald C. Hamilton, 29, of 27 Hone street, suffered a cut over the left eye and an injury to the right leg when the pickup truck he was driving and a tractor-trailer were in collision at Abeel and Wurts street early today.

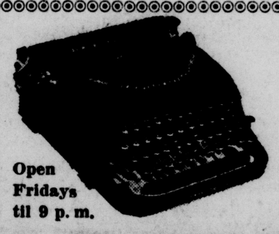

Officer George Dougherty reported at 1:14 a. m., that the tractor-trailer, owned by E. F. Peretta & Co., Inc., Canton, and driven by Lynn Raymond Wright, 39, of Potsdam, was headed south on Wurts street onto the Rondout creek bridge at the time.

The pickup truck, owned by Everett Van Kleeck, R.D., Kingston, was headed north on the bridge and going into Wurts street, the report said.

Both vehicles were damaged considerably and Hamilton was taken in a W. N. Conner ambulance to Kingston Hospital where he was to be X-rayed.

126 Ballots Are Received at C. of C.

One hundred twenty-six envelopes containing election ballots were received in the first mail at the Chamber of Commerce office this morning in connection with the election of seven directors for a term of three years. The voting closes next Tuesday and the ballots will be counted by the committee on Wednesday, Jan. 10.

Committee Chairman Bert Bishop requests that all members eligible to vote do so and expressed a great deal of pleasure over the keen interest shown in the election. Nearly one-third of the voting members filled out and returned their ballots on the first day.

The new directors will be invited to the regular director's meeting on January 16, when the officers for 1951 will be elected. A nominating committee consisting of George W. Schneider, Edwin T. Strong and Adrian Kaplan, three retiring directors, was named at the last meeting. They will be pleased to receive suggestions at any time previous to the January 16 meeting. Officers are elected from among the 21 members of the board of directors.

If your family doesn't like kale served as a vegetable to accompany the main dish, try making a potato and kale soup. Seasoned well, this soup is often accepted when the plain vegetable is rejected.

Reverses in Korea Heighten Biggest Debate in History

(What are the basic issues of foreign policy now being debated by Americans everywhere—on the street corners, in letters to the editor, and in public forums? And what precisely have outstanding Americans been saying, for or against administration measures for dealing with the world crisis? To recapitulate the principal points and proposals for grappling with international problems, an Associated Press special correspondent analyzes in the accompanying article the views expressed by four prominent Americans in recent weeks. It represents a careful study of what has been said publicly, covering points of both agreement and disagreement.)

By REL MAN MORIN

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—The greatest debate in American history—on war and survival—swept this country and across the world today, gripping the minds of millions of people.

It was heightened by new U.N. reverses in Korea

Letters by the thousands poured into newspaper offices. Sober editorials analyzed the issues. On both sides of the Atlantic, and in the Orient as well, speeches, statements and broadcast reaction rose like sparks from the central fire.

The debate was touched off by four prominent Americans, who spoke at intervals of about a week apart.

They were former President Herbert Hoover; John Foster Dulles, Republican advisor on foreign policy; Thomas E. Dewey, governor of New York; and Joseph P. Kennedy, former ambassador to Great Britain.

Each pointed the danger, and uttered the warning. Each offered a plan for survival.

All four surveyed the resources, military, political and economic, of the Communist world and the western democracies. All four noted advantages and disadvantages in geography for both sides.

They agreed on many factors in the equation.

Disagree on Points

But they disagreed sharply on three questions, which, in fact, form the core of the great debate. They are:

1. What is the relative value, to the United States, of our present allies if war comes?

2. How much, if any, men and money should we continue to place in Europe?

3. Where shall Americans look for the hope of survival?

On the first point, this is what they said:

Has Greater Manpower

Mr. Hoover asserted that western Europe has greater manpower and productive capacity today than it had in either World War One or Two. But, he said, "their minds are confused by fears and disunities." American efforts to bring unity to them have failed, he said. One of his key statements, was: "The prime obligation of defense of western Europe rests upon the nations of Europe. America cannot create their spiritual forces; we cannot buy them with money."

Similarly with the United Nations and specifically Britain Mr. Hoover said: "It is clear the U.N. cannot mobilize substantial military forces. It is clear continental Europe has not in the three years of our aid developed that unity of purpose and that will power necessary for its own defense. It is clear that our British friends are flirting with appeasement of Communist China. It is clear that the United Nations is in a fog of debate and indecision whether to appease or not to appease."

Dulles, Dewey Disagree

John Foster Dulles and Gov. Dewey disagreed with this summation. Neither made direct reference to Mr. Hoover or his address.

On the same issue of America's allies, Dewey said:

"If our own ideals of freedom in the world did not require it, the stark necessities of self-preservation would demand that we develop and keep strong brave allies. We shall make united and mighty the forces of the free world, and swiftly, or we shall be soon isolated and left to die."

Mr. Dulles went even further.

He listed the achievements of the United Nations and the United States. Noting that Russia could boast of no new country conquered in 1950, he said, "That means the free world has found the way to slow down Soviet Communist expansion by methods short of open war. That is no mean accomplishment."

He said western Europe has depth, numbers and military experience, adding that a pre-arranged defense could at least make an attack there a costly operation.

Have Fewer Friends

Former Ambassador Kennedy, however, said: "We have far fewer friends than we had in 1945. The military strength of Britain is one fourth of what it was in 1946 and she shows every inclination to avoid the heavy burdens that would be involved in rebuilding it."

He asked, "Where is there in all Europe any buffer against a massed Russian assault? Worse than this, where is there any determination to create such a buffer?"

Those were the four views on the question of the value of western Europe to the United States in case of war.

Divergent views, too, came on the question of whether more men and money should be furnished to western Europe.

Mr. Hoover—"To warrant our further aid they should show they have spiritual strength and unity to avail themselves of their own resources. But it must be far more than paper promises and declarations. Today it must express itself in organized and equipped combat divisions of such large numbers as would erect a sure dam against the Red flood. And that before we land another man or another dollar on their shores."

Mr. Dulles, expanding his theme of the value of collective security in Europe, said "solitary defense is never impregnable." The western world must be in position to deter a Russian attack, he said, or effectively to counter-attack if it comes. "Around the rim of the captive world, the free world can create enough economic and political vigor, enough military strength and enough will to resist so that these areas cannot be chiefly conquered."

'Idle to Talk'

Mr. Kennedy — "It is idle to talk of being able to hold the line of the Elbe or the line of the Rhine. Why should we waste valuable resources in making such an attempt?

"If the weakened European nations wish to hold that line and demonstrate a determination to do so, it may be that we can afford them some help."

Gov. Dewey — "For a decade, the cause of freedom has echoed the tragic words, 'too little and too late.' Let not these words be the epitaph of America and of our civilization."

On the third key question—a program for survival—the views of all four varied, in basis, and in degree.

Gov. Dewey called for staying ahead in the development of atomic weapons. Without going into detail, he advocated maintaining "invulnerable bases around the world from which to send the bomb."

Mr. Kennedy said our strength should be concentrated in Canada, the Caribbean, Latin America and Iceland. He said we should get out of Korea and Asia and not attempt to hold the river lines in Europe.

Mr. Dulles said the United States is not confronted with only one alternative—to withdraw entirely, or to commit our forces all over the world. He insisted that the problem is to select the bases, anywhere in the world, from which we can counter-attack a Russian assault, and where our power will tend to "deter" a Soviet onslaught.

Did Not Commit U. S.

"When I was in the Senate working for the ratification of the North Atlantic Pact," he said, "I took the position that it did not commit the U. S. to the land defense of any particular area. It did commit us to action, but the action of our own choosing rather than action that an aggressor could dictate to us."

Mr. Hoover's phrase, describing America as a "western hemisphere gibraltar of western civilization" has already gone around the world, stirring various reactions.

But the former President was careful to point that he did not mean withdrawing inside this country or this hemisphere alone. On the contrary, he said we could hold the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans, and that our western frontier should be on Britain "if she wishes to cooperate," and in Japan, Formosa and the Philippines in the east.

He said we have little need for large land armies "unless we are going to Europe or China." But, he said, we should arm our sea and air forces "to the teeth."

Japon, he said, should be given her independence and provided with arms to defend herself. China should be branded as an aggressor and denied a seat in the U.N. The members of the U.N. should stop all shipments of supplies to the Chinese Reds that can be used for military purposes.

Asks End of Vacillation

He called for an end to vacillation and disunity in Europe, a concrete demonstration of the will and ability to fight if attacked. He described Germany as "their frontier."

The United States, Hoover said, must continue to aid the hungry in the world, and to aid "other nations when they have displayed spirit and strength in defense against communism."

There can be no appeasement, he continued. And he said:

"We Americans alone with sea and air power can so control the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans that there can be no possible invasion of the western hemisphere by Communist armies. They can no more reach Washington in force than we can reach Moscow."

Official Residence

126 Ballots Are Received at C. of C.

One hundred twenty-six envelopes containing election ballots were received in the first mail at the Chamber of Commerce office this morning in connection with the election of seven directors for a term of three years. The voting closes next Tuesday and the ballots will be counted by the committee on Wednesday, Jan. 10.

Committee Chairman Bert Bishop requests that all members eligible to vote do so and expressed a great deal of pleasure over the keen interest shown in the election. Nearly one-third of the voting members filled out and returned their ballots on the first day.

The new directors will be invited to the regular director's meeting on January 16, when the officers for 1951 will be elected. A nominating committee consisting of George W. Schneider, Edwin T. Strong and Adrian Kaplan, three retiring directors, was named at the last meeting. They will be pleased to receive suggestions at any time previous to the January 16 meeting. Officers are elected from among the 21 members of the board of directors.
